HOUSE VOTES KIMMEL TRIAL BEFORE SEPT. 7

Deaf to Plea for Further Delay.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—After debate revealing an acute consciousness of bloody and fateful events overseas, the house today voted overwhelmingly in favor of forcing disclosure within three months of the true facts leading up to the Pearl Harbor disaster.

Despite the vehement protests of administration leaders, a resolution was approved, 305 to 35, which directs the secretaries of war and the navy to institute court martial proceedings before Sept. 7 against Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel and Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short.

The possibility that young American soldiers might at the moment "be dying by thousands" in the European invasion was noted by the legislators. They expressed a grim determination "as a duty to the families of the 3,000 boys who were lost at Pearl Harbor" to ascertain the identity of all those responsible for the nation's most disgraceful defeat.

Compromise Rejected.

Administration forces sought on three votes before the final roll call to obtain a compromise resolution which would merely have extended for one year the statute of limitations in connection with the prosecution of those connected with the Japanese attack of Dec. 7, 1941, and directed a war and navy department "investigation forthwith." Such a measure was approved by the senate yesterday.

But by succeeding votes of 190-149, 164-135, and 134-100, the chamber insisted upon the version sponsored by Rep. Short [R., Mo.], which extends the statute of limitations for three months only and directs commencement of court martial proceedings before the end of that period.

With June 7, tomorrow, the last day for extending the time limit, the resolution was returned to an uncertain fate in the senate.

Must Be Showdown.

"There must be a showdown on Pearl Harbor," Short told members, "an end to covering up, stalling and a continual hush, hush, hush! Of course, there has never been an intention by those in power to per-

G.O.P. Victor in Democratic N.Y. District

New York, June 6 [Special].—In a special election coincident with D-day, voters today elected a Republican congressman in New York's 11th district, which has been overwhelmingly Democratic for 32 years. The district comprises Staten Island and the west side of Manhattan up to 14th st.

The victor was Ellsworth B. Buck, 51, who had resigned as president of the New York City board of education to accept the Republican nomination for the seat made vacant by the death March 16 of Rep. James A. Leary, a Democrat. Buck in his campaign was bitterly critical of a fourth term for President Roosevelt.

Buck piled up 14,269 votes to defeat the Democratic and American Labor party candidate, Thomas V. Cantwell, 42, who received 8,567 votes from the Democrats and 2,197 from the ALP for a total of 10,764. Cantwell, a lumber dealer, had praised New Deal policies and pledged support to President Roosevelt.

[Gov. Dewey comes out for protection of sovereignty. Mississippi expected to bolt New Deal. Stories on page 5.]

Rooney Wins in 4th.

John J. Rooney, a Democrat also with ALP indorsement, won by a margin far smaller than that of Democratic victories in other years in the state's other congressional by-election in the 4th district, a section of Brooklyn. He polled 4,860 votes to defeat William G. Nolan, Republican, who received 1,850.

The 4th district election was for the unexpired term of Rep. Thomas H. Cullen, a Democrat, who died March 1 after representing the district since 1919. By comparison with Rooney's margin of 3,010 votes, Cullen was elected in 1942 by a margin of 11,000.

The Republican victory in the 11th district was scored in territory that normally has given Democratic candidates pluralities as high as 20,000. Altho the Republican trend was noticeable in 1942, Rep. Leary, who had represented the district since 1935, won then by a margin of 8,600 votes in a total of 55,000 cast.

Hailed As Campaign Opener.

The ALP, noting Buck's anti-New Deal speeches and Cantwell's support of the administration, had called the election the "opening gun in New York City for the 1944 Presidential race."

Commenting on Buck's victory, Edwin F. Jaeckle, chairman of the Republican state committee, called it "further evidence that the people are turning from the New Deal and are calling on the Republican party to carry on the affairs of our government." He predicted that "we can look forward to a resounding victory in November for the people and constitutional government."

G. O. P. GAINS SEAT.

Washington, D. C., June 6 [Special].—Election today of one Republican and one Democrat to fill two Democratic vacancies in the house of representatives leaves the complexion of the house as follows: Democrats, 216; Republicans, 211; Progressives, 2; American Labor party, 1; Farmer-Labor party, 1, and vacancies, 4.

ALLIES INVADE SOUTH GREECE, TURKEY HEARS

ANKARA, Turkey, June 6 (AP).—Ankara buzzed tonight with reports of an allied landing in the Peloponnesus and, altho there was no official confirmation, responsible quarters said it could be true now or shortly.

[Peloponnesus (Island of Pelops) is that part of Greece south of the Isthmus of Corinth. It is a potential allied stepping stone to the Balkan mainland.]

A high source said, however, that an allied landing there definitely would not change Turkey's neutrality at this time. Turkish roads are closed to foreigners. A considerable part of the Turkish army is on its annual maneuvers. Opening of the western front in Europe was heard in Ankara with interest, but without manifestations.

REPORT ONLY 2 ROME SITES HIT BY ALLIED BOMBS

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, June 6 (AP).—The Mediterranean allied air forces reported today that a preliminary inspection showed that the Basilica of San Lorenzo and an Anglo-Saxon Protestant cemetery are apparently the only cultural monuments in Rome damaged by allied bombing.

Capt. John Hall of Yonkers, N. Y., M. A. A. F. public relations staff, advised headquarters, however, that an examination of battered railroad yards disproved German claims that Rome was not used for clearing front line supplies.

He reported that in the Ostiense yards on the southern edge of the city he found at least 40 German guns ranging from light field pieces to 150 millimeter rifles.

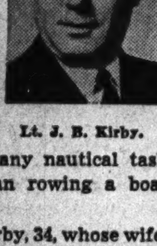
On LST, Tribune Man Finds Chicagoans Invasion Bound

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH THE INVASION FLEET, Off England, June 6.—If the war has done nothing else it has demonstrated the amazing adaptability of Americans. A case in point is the skipper of LST 315. He is a Chicagoan, who had never seen the ocean until a year ago, and never performed any nautical task more difficult than rowing a boat in Lincoln park.



Lt. J. B. Kirby.

Lt. Joseph B. Kirby, 34, whose wife, Nora, lives at 6507 Ellis av., Chicago, was born in Chicago, lived at 455 Hickory st., Waukegan, most of his life, was graduated from Notre Dame in 1931, became a theater manager, worked in a brokerage house, studied air conditioning at Armour Institute and Northwestern university, and joined General Electric company.

In Navy Two Years.

He has been in the navy since May, 1942, and after an indoctrination course at Notre Dame and further study at Maryland he was assigned to an LST [landing ship, tanks] as an executive officer.

Since then, Kirby, who is a brother-in-law of John Hayes, Chicago Tribune reporter, has been in Oran and Bizerte and made the invasion landings of Sicily and Salerno, Italy, during which a ship less than 100 yards away was bombed and sunk.

He has been a skipper of his own ship since three months ago and says there is a lot of difference between being an executive officer and a skipper. "When you a get a ship yourself you start worrying about it," he said. "If anything is wrong, you're the guy that has to take it."

Tribune Photographer Aboard.

Kirby adds that his worst morale problem right now is how to maintain the practice of always supplying ice cream the night before D day. "The infantry are the guys who do the fighting," Kirby says. "The least we can do is feed them."

The first man I saw leaning over the side when I came aboard last night was Lt. Albert R. Madsen, Chicago Tribune photographer on leave, who was ready to take a photographic unit to cover invasion activities. I also met Ensign George Pagels Jr., 1647 W. 99th st., Chicago, in charge of a craft which was ready to take bulldozers and other heavy equipment ashore, and Lt. [j. g.] Ward H. Conde, 906 W. 111th st., Chicago, LST [landing ship, tanks] navigator, whose cousin, Mrs. Eileen Burke McGurn, is employed in the Chicago Tribune metropolitan section.

Capt. Raymond N. Carlen, Rockford, Ill., executive officer of an aviation engineers battalion, also was aboard as was Ensign Curtis Hazen, Amery, Wis., in charge of taking LCVPs [landing craft, vehicle, personnel] ashore; Ensign Luther Roseland, Minneapolis, Minn., 1st chemical defense officer, and the following midwest medical officers of an army surgical team: Capt. S. F. Smazal, Davenport, Ia., Capt. Martin Garfield, Gary, Ind., Maj. Darrell Campbell, Ann Arbor, Mich., and Capt. John Sheldon, Sturgis, Mich.

Maps and Pictures

The Tribune today again presents full coverage in maps and pictures of the allied invasion of France and the military situation in Italy. On the back page appears a color map entitled, "Invasion Coasts of France and Low Countries." On page 3 is a comprehensive map illustrating the progress of the allied invasion of France. A map detailing allied gains in Italy appears on page 9. In addition, a full page of the first radio pictures from England on the invasion is published on page 6.

BATTLES REPORTED RAGING IN FRANCE ON 100 MILE STRIP OF NORMAN COAST

Fewer Losses, Less Opposition than Planned For.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, England, June 6.—Less opposition than any one dared to hope. Everything going remarkably well. All have done the jobs assigned to them with fewer losses than expected.

These three phrases sum up the estimates tonight of the first day's assault on the continent, as far as the navy and the air force ferrying troops across the channel are concerned.

Nazis Hold Back Flyers.

One question still remained to be answered—how is the ground force progressing? As yet no news has contradicted the statement by Prime Minister Churchill to the house of commons, that the allies had made successful massed air landings behind the enemy lines in France.

Probably the most remarkable phase of the operations so far is the fact emphasized on all sides that the German air force, except for a small number of planes, remained on the ground. But air experts stressed that Germany had, and likely would have for some time, 1,500 to 2,000 first line fighter planes that still would require a lot of beating.

Big Mine Sweeping Job.

"Surprisingly small," described the naval losses including those of the United States. Troops and convoys "were not attacked nearly as much as had been planned for."

"The mine sweepers did the greatest and most skilful job ever undertaken in history," explains how paths were cleared thru the mine fields to allow thousands of craft to land without difficulties from these obstacles.

The weather was not ideal but it had improved as predicted—a prediction, by the way, on which Gen. Eisenhower made the decision setting the wheels of invasion turning after it had been delayed 24 hours.

Even then the sea was so rough that many troops were seasick. Three tank carriers were swamped.

Fighter Cover All Day.

The air force, which began pounding the land batteries last night—1,000 royal air force heavy bombers—followed by between 1,500 and 2,000 Flying Fortresses and Liberators, was given much of the credit for the weak defense the Nazis land batteries put up today. Around 500 medium bombers continued the assault.

Covering all the daylight bombings were thousands of fighter planes, Mustangs, Thunderbolts, Spitfires, and Lightnings.

It was estimated that 33,000 airmen took part.

Here's Digest of Invasion Facts

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LANDINGS—Along 100 miles of Normandy coast between Cherbourg and Le Havre.

PROGRESS—Masses of tanks, infantry move inland; Germans say beachhead is 15 miles long, "several kilometers" deep south of Le Havre; report parachute troopers in Caen and Rouen, 41 miles from coast; Prime Minister Churchill, Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery are pleased with advance; President Roosevelt says it's "Up to schedule."

CASUALTIES—Light on beaches; naval casualties less than expected.

WEATHER—Wind blowing, barometer falling; supreme command worried.

AERIAL—11,000 planes pulverized defenses; 1,000 troop transport planes and gliders carried thousands of paratroopers into France.

NAVAL—4,000 allied warships pounded west wall, thousands of landing craft ferried troops; U. S. battleship Nevada, two cruisers revealed among striking forces; early U. S. losses two destroyers, a landing ship.

Allied Force 'Sealed Off,' Berlin Claims

LONDON, June 7 [Wednesday]—(AP).—The Berlin radio broadcast the following German high command statement early today:

"Fighting in the Cherbourg-Le Havre area is in full swing.

"On the coast of northern France heavy fighting is continuing. In the area of the mouth of the Orne [river near Caen] enemy troops are sealed off.

"South of Le Havre strong air-borne units have been annihilated.

More Attacks Predicted.

"New enemy operations must be expected, but have not taken shape yet.

"Fighting is extremely fierce everywhere, as the Anglo-Americans are putting up a most tenacious resistance."

There was no allied confirmation of any of the German claims of successes.

Berlin military spokesmen in broadcasts predicted that, along with further allied landings in western Europe, there might be a sudden allied stab for Paris. Capt. Ludwig Sertorius said:

"Maybe the bulk of the enemy invasion troops still are at sea or are engaged in landing."

Sertorius said that "the bulk of the enemy's parachutists and landed air borne formations can be regarded as annihilated" and that "Anglo-American army formations landed from the sea have for the most part been thrown back again to the shore, except in one sector."

A German war correspondent in a broadcast from "the Normandy front" said the Nazi defenders of the French coast had been caught napping.

Several Divisions in Battle.

Swedish correspondents in Berlin said several divisions are fighting in the big beachhead, some hand-to-hand. They quoted Hitler's command as saying the invasion front stretches "240 miles from Calais thru Boulogne, Le Havre, Caen, the Cherbourg peninsula and to the Channel Islands."

A Berlin broadcast said the allies were striking "in a southern direction with tanks and heavy infantry weapons" from near Bayeux, Isigny, and Caen.

The Germans reported without allied confirmation that British and American troops had landed on the Channel Islands of Guernsey and Jersey, west of Normandy, and were engaged in costly fighting.

Fight Close to Caen; Near Rouen and Cherbourg.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE June 7 (Wednesday) (AP).—United States, British, and Canadian troops swiftly cleared Normandy beaches of Nazi survivors of a 4,000 warship, 11,000 plane sea and air bombardment. Armor backed landing parties ranged inland today in an invasion which the Germans themselves predicted would expand. Allied re-enforcements streamed across the channel.

Gen. Eisenhower, supreme commander, in his second invasion bulletin, issued last night, said allied forces had succeeded in their initial landings yesterday, meeting little opposition in the channel or in the air.

"Further Landings."

The German radio, in a dawn broadcast, said the allies had made "further landings at the mouth of the Orne river under cover of naval artillery."

The German Transocean news agency said in a Berlin broadcast that fierce German counter-attacks had been launched against allied invasion troops east of Cherbourg.

Just after midnight, Transocean continued, strong German bomber formations attacked allied warships and landing craft off the bay of the Seine and north of Le Havre.

Report Railway Cut.

Some reports reached here that Gen. Montgomery's ground forces had cut the Paris to Cherbourg railway at Caen, 9 miles inland on the Orne. The railway is a main route supplying Hitler's defense forces on the Cherbourg peninsula.

Yesterday Prime Minister Churchill said allied troops were fighting at Caen, a rail and road hub. Caen was the only point mentioned here as a scene of fighting, altho penetrations as deep as 13 miles were reported. The Germans denied there was fighting inside Caen.

[The British radio said fighting was going on in the streets of Caen and that "our tanks are reported to be moving upon that city." R. A. F. beach squadrons are now preparing air fields "on the other side of the channel," said BBC. A Berlin radio asserted German counter-attacks are "making good progress" east of Cherbourg. "North of Caen a group of landing vessels was destroyed by a surprise attack of German reserves," Berlin said.]

Landing at Dozen Points.

Nazi controled radios, however, reported allied landings at a dozen points, with the most important on both sides of the estuary of the River Orne. From west to east along the 100 mile shore line, axis accounts said said allied sea borne and air borne forces struck at:

The port of Barfleur, 15 miles east of Cherbourg; the fishing village of St. Vaast la Hougue, five miles south of Barfleur; both sides of the Valognes-Carentan highway, a section of an important supply road to Cherbourg running five miles inland from the peninsular coast.

Other Landings.

The 27 mile long area between Carentan and Bayeux; the river Orne estuary; a 15 mile stretch of beaches in the Villers-Trouville region across the Seine estuary from Le Havre, and the town of Honfleur, on the Seine six miles southeast of Le Havre.

The German controled Vichy radio also said that a vicious fight developed last night north of Rouen, on the Seine 41 miles east of Le Havre, "between powerful allied paratroop formations and German anti-invasion forces."

A Spanish dispatch said that eastward, across the Seine estuary from Le Havre, the allies were fanning out from Honfleur toward three inland towns from 10 to 15 miles distant.

Air Forces Maintain Missions.

The allied high command disclosed that more than 1,000 troop carrying aircraft, including gliders, bore fighting specialists on invasion missions and said this phase was executed with "unexpected success." Allied bulldozers slashed out coastal landing strips.

American warplanes alone flew more than 9,000 sorties [single flights] yesterday as allied squadrons maintained operations despite the wind. Fifty United States planes were lost.

The United States 8th air force destroyed 26 Nazi interceptors in the air and four others on the ground. United States 9th air force bombers, fighter bombers, fighters, and troop carriers up to 10 o'clock last night had flown more than 4,750 individual missions, or more than double the pre-invasion record.

The attacks followed up an assault in which 10,000 tons of explosives were crashed upon German positions to clear the way for ground troops.

At a late hour last night hundreds of allied planes still were in the air, guarding the convoys and the beachheads and striking beyond the zone of operations to paralyze Nazi defense positions and communications.

First Wounded Return.

The first of the allied wounded were returned to England. Despite injuries, many were smiling and cheerful.

Headquarters officers, reticent about the progress of sea landings, expressed themselves as more than satisfied with the air-borne attack, contradicting a German high command claim that the defenders had annihilated strong air-borne units.

"It must be admitted," the Nazi controled Vichy radio said tonight, "that the allied beachhead area had been considerably widened and that allied reënforcements are pouring in."

Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery, commander of the land forces, said he was pleased with the initial phase of the gigantic air and sea invasion.

Nazis Rush Up Troops.

First to report that the invasion was under way early yesterday, the Nazis speculated that the Normandy assault merely was diversionary in nature and asserted the invasion troops were "going into an inferno in comparison with which Dante's hell was child's play." The enemy broadcasters said German reënforcements were being rushed to meet the onslaught and that counter-attacks already had been struck.

In addition to the heavy counter-attacks expected to be launched by German ground troops within a matter of days, or even hours, it also was anticipated that the Nazi air force would pitch violently into the battle soon.

Across 200 Miles of Sky.

By comparison, the great allied plane fleets which led the assault before dawn yesterday extended across 200 miles of sky and used navigation lights to maintain formation. Headquarters last night praised troop carriers of the 9th air force for having conducted "very large scale" air-borne operations with "very small losses."

"The sky was black with them as they headed for France," said an American fighter pilot. He said a thick overcast up to 7,000 feet might have contributed to keeping the German air force on the ground. Other airmen told of seeing allied ground troops hit the beaches and literally run inland thru the shattered enemy defenses.

An Associated Press correspondent reported the morale of American troops was amazingly high as the invasion fleet prepared to move across the channel.

"Most of them never have been in battle before," he wrote, "but their ranks are toughened by a hard core of veterans who learned to fight across the battlegrounds of the Mediterranean." The troops entered their ships at noon on Monday and then passed the hours reading, arguing, playing cards, or rolling dice.

Eisenhower, after having personally inspected and wished luck to a unit of air-borne troops, addressed a ringing message to all the allied invasion forces in which he declared "we will accept nothing less than full victory." Then, from a housetop somewhere on the English coast, the commander watched the great spectacle unfold.

Montgomery Spurs Troops.

Leading all allied ground troops in the invasion was Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery, Britain's most famed commander, who whipped Marshal Erwin Rommel on the sands of Africa. He predicted three weeks ago that Rommel would "try to knock us back into the sea." He described Rommel as a "disrupter" and forecast that "to disrupt the invasion he will try to hit us early."

In a pre-battle message to his troops Montgomery told them: "To us is given the honor of fighting a blow for freedom which will live in history, and in the better days that lie ahead men will speak with pride of our doings. I want every soldier to know that I have complete confidence in the successful outcome of the operations that we are now about to begin."

CHICAGOAN IN ROME IS A HERO TO YOUTH WHO CARRIES HIS GUN

ROME, June 5 [Delayed]—(AP).—An emotional ecstasy gripped Rome as hordes of doughboys spilled into the city all day today, nearly 2 million Italians jamming the streets in what was possibly the greatest mass welcome ever given a conquering army.

In the Piazza Di Spiagna, where a marching battalion had fallen out for a short rest, Platoon Sgt. Adolph Petra of Shiner, Tex., was surrounded by admirers and so completely bedecked with flowers that he could scarcely breathe.

Children "adopted" individual doughboys and marched proudly at their side. One youngster of 8 nearly burst with pride as he swung along with Pvt. Wroalewski, 2626 N. Lawndale av., Chicago. He had Wroalewski's carbine slung across his shoulder and hundreds of other little boys charged down upon the helpless infantry in search of heroes of their own who would let them carry rifles, too.

51 YANKS ARRIVE FROM GERMANY ON GRIPSHOLM

Jersey City, N. J., June 6 (AP).—The sixth diplomatic exchange of repatriates between the United States and axis countries was completed today when the Swedish liner Gripsholm arrived here with 131 passengers, 51 of them ill or wounded American soldiers who were prisoners of war in Germany. Besides the American soldiers 37 Canadian soldiers and 43 civilians were aboard.

Most of the doughboys walked down the gangplank unassisted, altho some used crutches. Eight ambulances, driven by Negro WACs, took them to Halloran hospital, Staten Island. The Canadian soldiers will go directly to Canada.

Swiss Report Downing 3 Engine Nazi Plane

LONDON, June 6 (AP).—A Swiss radio broadcast said today a German three engine plane had been shot down over Switzerland by Swiss fighters.

2 U. S. ADMIRALS DIRECT SHELLING OF COAST NAZIS

LONDON, June 7 [Wednesday]—(AP).—United States warships, with two rear admirals riding in cruisers and paced by the battleship Nevada, were part of a 4,000 ship allied armada which blasted German defenses before the assault troops hit the beaches of France, it was announced today.

Rear Adm. Alan Goodrich Kirk, commander of one of the task forces, watched the mammoth operations from his flagship, the cruiser Augusta, supreme headquarters, allied expeditionary force, announced. The other cruiser was the Tuscaloosa, commanded by Rear Adm. Morton L. Deyo.

The United States battleships Texas and Arkansas also took part in the bombardment, the BBC said, adding that the British battleships Warspite, Nelson and Romilles, the British cruisers Glasgow, Enterprise, and Orion and the Canadian destroyers Sioux and Algonquin also were in the fleet.

[In Washington, D. C., President Roosevelt announced that up to noon Monday, United States naval losses were two destroyers and one LST (landing ship, tanks]. The entire allied naval losses were officially described as "very light."]

Battleships Take Part.

Eisenhower's bulletin said naval casualties "are regarded as being very light, especially when the magnitude of the operation is taken into account."

[Merrill Mueller, NBC reporter, quoted Allied Naval Commander in Chief Adm. Bertram Ramsay as saying the naval command had lost only light combat vessels, in contrast to a 10 per cent over-all loss which had been anticipated. Ramsay, he said, termed the initial operation 100 per cent successful and said the light combat vessels lost did not affect troop landings.]

As the first wave of assault troops touched shore and fanned out up the beach, the battleships and cruisers steamed on ahead to drench other sections of the coast with destruction.

The assaulting troops ran thru the gaps torn in the West Wall into a countryside which alternated the black of the plowed land with the green of cultivation. Thick hedges provided plenty of cover.

Six of Britain's greatest battleships defied coastal batteries by moving into the channel's narrow waters to aid their devastating salvoes to the tumult.

Warship Ratio: 3 British; 1 U. S.

A British naval commentator, who revealed for the first time that 300 naval vessels in amphibious exercises sailed within 10 miles of the French coast last September, said the proportion of warships was three British to one American and the over-all proportion including landing craft was three British to two American.

"There was a big Canadian contribution as well as many Norwegian, Polish, Dutch, French, and Greek ships," he said.

After the bombardment, the strange and wonderful flat-bottomed "Elsie" [LC] ships—landing craft—headed for the beaches laden with fighting men and guns and tanks and shells and field rations and hypodermics and radios and bandages and trucks, the bewildering baggage of combat.

Many Smaller Craft.

There were plywood, 36 foot LCVP's [landing craft, vehicle, personnel]; 50 foot LCM's [mechanized] valuable for supply; 200 foot LCI's [infantry]; ungainly 200 foot LCT's [tanks], and the queens of the Elsies—300 foot LST's [landing ship, tanks] disgorging anything from jeeps to monster road builders.

And all around, like water bugs, were amphibious "ducks" and other weird small craft.

The English channel swarmed with the landing ships moving toward the coast. The once feared German air force was nowhere in evidence as clouds hung low over the area. Destroyers moved in daringly close as the naval cannonading ceased.

The snub nosed fleet was equipped with its own fire power to take anything the big fellows had overlooked.

Sailors from Pacific.

In this fleet, among the American warships, were seasoned sailors who had performed this job in the Pacific or the Mediterranean.

But there also were American boys who came from the desks, work benches, barns, bars, stages, and stores who had practiced for this day in the Florida waters, in Chesapeake bay, and later in the treacherous tides around the British Isles.

Still other citizen sailors tumbled from the landing craft in the first wave with their colleagues of the army, trained as naval shore battalions to fight beside the army's beach brigades.

It was their job to clear the channel of underwater obstacles ahead of the incoming landing craft, direct landings, tend wounded, repair or blow up disabled craft clogging the coastal approaches, establish communications with the ships, and set up emergency dressing stations on the sand.

'MASTER RACE' CAN'T MATCH U. S. NAVY, INVADERS ARE TOLD

ABOARD THE U. S. ASSAULT TRANSPORT THOMAS JEFFERSON AT A BRITISH INVASION PORT, June 6 (AP).—Rear Adm. Alan G. Kirk, commander of the western naval task force, told the men of his force in a pre-invasion message that "it will take more than a last convulsive effort of the beaten 'master race' to match the fighting spirit of the American navy."

Kirk's message was roundly applauded aboard this transport, which had helped smash the enemy at Morocco, Sicily, and Salerno. Entitled, "Coming Events," the message said in part:

"We of the western naval task force are going to land an American army in France. From battleships to landing craft ours is in the main an American force. Beside us will be mainly a British force landing British and Canadian troops. We are getting into a fight. But it is not we who have to fear the outcome, as the German has learned from failure and we have learned from success. It is the enemy who is afraid."

P-T SPEARHEAD FORCE CATCHES NAZIS OFF GUARD

Leads Minesweepers Safely to Beaches.

BY BOB MILLER.

[Representing combined U. S. press; distributed by the Associated Press.]

ABOARD A U. S. P-T BOAT OFF FRANCE, June 6.—The invasion caught the Nazi's completely by surprise.

It was not until 3:30 a. m. that a German reconnaissance plane sighted the allied invading forces moving into position and this was too late to be effective.

Dawn revealed the most amazing sight of this or any other war.

There were ships everywhere, with planes darting thru the clouds above them.

Broadsides from American and British battleships and cruisers rumbled thru the overcast and flames from the gun muzzles almost obscured the ships as thousands of tons of explosives smashed German installations.

Destroyers and landing craft jockeyed for position, awaiting the opportunity to discharge their cargoes.

P-T Boats Unchallenged.

So completely asleep were the Germans that British minesweepers escorted by the P-T squadron ran interference for the invasion by clearing a broad path right up to the beaches without being challenged.

This unprecedented maneuver was carried out without the loss of one P-T. Despite rough seas, the American P-Ts shepherded the minesweepers along the charted route all night. Because of the slowness of the minesweepers, it was necessary to begin the operation in daylight Monday, but perfect air cover kept away any German planes.

[Among the skippers of P-T boats was Lt. Charles Twadell of Libertyville, Ill.]

P-T and sweeper crewmen watched a battle between planes and German anti-aircraft batteries.

Huge bombs of a mysterious type rained on the Germans. The heavy concussion of exploding shells and bombs could be felt aboard the P-Ts.

PRECISION PAYS OFF

BY GLADWIN HILL.

[Associated Press correspondent representing combined American Press.]

A MARAUDER BASE IN ENGLAND, June 6 (AP).—I rode in one of thousands of planes which rained explosives on the French coast in support of the allied landings today.

Allied airmen supporting the landings were given precise courses to and from the invasion area and warned that any deviation from these routes—even in the unfortunate case of an ailing plane turning back—was likely to draw allied fire.

Altho all kinds of shooting was going on—warships shelling the shore, shore guns shelling warships, and heavy and medium bombers exploding in the air at intervals—it is a tribute to the airplane manufacturers, the air force and the coordination of allied forces that not one plane or man was lost to our own ground fire.

Warned Against Errors.

This was in contrast to the Sicilian landing, where our own ground guns shot up troop carrier planes, gliders, and parachutists.

Extraordinary precautions were taken in today's great landing plans to prevent bombardment of anything but enemy facilities.

Gen. Eisenhower's invasion message placed strong emphasis on the point that nothing should be done to jeopardize the safety or friendship of the French people. The air commanders' orders stressed that bombing must be "accurate," and that no "gross" errors, such as might be accepted as inevitable in occasional ordinary operations, would be tolerated.

Planes Cover Fields.

Finally, to avoid hitting our own troops, a deadline of 6:30 a. m., half an hour after H-hour—was set on any bombing of installations close to our landing points.

Over the shore I saw the tremendous naval and shore engagement developing. A few miles inland I could see fields strewn with hundreds of parachutes, where the allied forces had dropped. The fields were dotted, too, with aircraft—probably gliders—bearing the distinctive allied invasion blue-and-white zebralike stripes slapped on all aircraft yesterday.

In the channel, on every hand, there were great forces of ships, battering the coast or bringing up reënforcements to support the initial invasion thrust.

Heavy Barrage of Flak.

The air force was not in evidence but from the ground the Germans put up a tremendous flak barrage against a sky full of planes, which ran the gamut from single-engined Thunderbolt fighters to four-engined bombers.

To our right as we bombed coast defenses, a Liberator hit by flak exploded in flames. A few seconds later a Marauder was similarly blasted to pieces. But parachutes blossomed forth from the smoke and other formations managed to dodge most of the flak.

Inland, hundreds of parachutists plopped neatly into fields in model landings, cheering evidence of the smoothness with which the operation was coming off.

WEATHER BIG WORRY OF INVASION; HIGH WAVES HIT BEACHES

LONDON, June 7 [Wednesday]—(AP).—The weather which caused a 24 hour postponement of D-day, still is one of the biggest invasion worries, supreme headquarters, allied expeditionary force chiefs disclosed today.

A strong wind blowing from the northeast raised whitecaps in the Dover strait and high waves swept the beaches, showing no signs of moderating.

Tho it will not be permitted to halt the flow of reënforcements, improvement in the weather would make operations very much easier. A naval officer, just returned from the beaches, said the weather probably was worse than at the time of the Sicily landings.

TAKE $450 LOOT FROM AUTO.

Graham Jackson, 7366 N. Ashland av., reported to police yesterday that thieves broke into his parked car near 700 Lake st. and stole jewelry, clothing, and war bonds, all valued at $450.

AIRBORNE FORCE SLASHES AT NAZI INNER DEFENSES

First Troops Attack Far Behind Coast.

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 6 (AP).—The allies today hurled against the Germans in France the greatest air-borne force in military history, giving to these hardy, face-stained men the honor of delivering the first great land smash of the western front.

It was officially announced that more than 1,000 troop carrying aircraft were engaged in the gigantic operation.

Prime Minister Churchill told the house of commons that these heralds of invasion had been "successful" in the final softening up blow.

Wielding knives and firing tommyguns, thousands of American and British parachute and glider troops swept down on Cherbourg peninsula in the predawn blackness and immediately began disrupting Nazi rear lines by destroying key bridges, rail yards, and enemy strong points.

Few Aircraft Lost.

At SHAEF late today a military spokesman, praising troop carrier planes which navigated thru a stormy night to drop thousands of these specially trained soldiers on vital objectives, said:

"The operation was on a very large scale and was carried out with great precision. Our losses in aircraft were extremely small. It was a fine job—very fine indeed."

As the air borne troops are fighting deep behind the enemy lines, the spokesman could not give a detailed picture of the results of their landings, but reports from air observers indicated they carried the brunt of the battle in the early stages, creating large diversions and much damage.

Bombers flying back over the area in which the air borne troops landed reported many demolitions and burning buildings.

The German radio said the troops had been identified as from the 1st and 6th British divisions and the 28th and 100th American.

Associated Press Photographer Bede Irwin after a flight across the Cherbourg peninsula said:

"There was a 500 acre section packed with gliders. Some had cracked up, but most seemed to have gotten down okay. Many buildings in the area were burning. There must have been quite a battle."

Use Cocoa Camouflage.

For this climactic moment, the spearheading air-borne troops spent months in secret, arduous training. Besides ankle sheath knives and rapid fire weapons, they carried bandoliers of ammunition, hand grenades, coils of rope, pick handles, spades, and rubber dinghies—the last in case of plane failure over the channel.

Some of the paratroopers, looking like Indians on the warpath with their faces stained a reddish brown with cocoa and linseed oil, said jestingly that they had put on the camouflage "so we will have something to eat if our rations run out."

Chicago Flight Officer Killed in Plane Crash

Notification of the death of their son, Flight Officer Frank A. Buzzanca, in an airplane crash at the Pocatello, Idaho, army air base on Monday was received yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Nick Buzzanca, 822 N. Springfield av. Flight Officer Buzzanca, 20, enlisted after his graduation from Crane Technical High school in February, 1943, and was made a flight officer last March.

DE GAULLE CALLS ON FRENCH TO AID ALLIED INVADERS

LONDON, June 6 (AP). — Gen. Charles De Gaulle called on his country men today to resist the Germans. For the sons of France, "whoever and wherever they may be, the simple, sacred duty is to fight with all means at their disposal," he said.

In his broadcast De Gaulle, who heads the French National committee, told the French people that it was "now necessary to obey orders of the true government of France appointed by the legitimate representatives of the French people."

Spurs Underground.

He called on the underground leaders to coördinate their operations "as closely as possible with the frontal attacks of the allied and French armies."

Emphasizing that the allied landings constituted the opening of France's battle for liberation, he warned members of the underground to take every precaution to keep from getting caught and imprisoned or deported by the enemy, warning that "anything is better than to be put out of action without fighting."

The Paris radio today broadcast an appeal by Marshal Petain to Frenchmen to refrain from actions "which would call down upon you tragic reprisals."

Told to Stay on Job.

"France has become a battle field," said the aged Vichy chief. "The circumstances of battle may compel the German army to take special measures in the battle area. Accept this necessity."

He called on officials, railway men, and workers to remain at their posts—where they would serve the German military machine—"in order to keep the life of the nation and in order to carry out your tasks."

"Do not listen to outside voices calling on you not to listen to our decrees," he said.

De Gaullists Assail "Trick."

ALGIERS, June 6 (AP).—Some members of the French national committee voiced resentment today at the manner in which Gen. Charles de Gaulle was brought to London to be faced with the accomplished fact of the allied invasion when he had expected to confer on the civil administration of liberated territories.

These circles asserted that De Gaulle had been tricked into compliance with Gen. Eisenhower's plans for a "fait accompli" administration in France, and added that negotiations on the administration of liberated areas of France now are pointless and obsolete.

The same circles resented Eisenhower's broadcast statement to the French people in which the supreme allied commander omitted any direct mention of the committee and asserted that the French must be free to choose their own government. They felt his statement clashed with the committee's view that it already is a provisional government.

TRIBUNE WRITER TELLS OF SCENE ON INVASION EVE

Giant Array of Arms Backs Up Attack.

[The following dispatch was written by a Tribune correspondent only a few hours before the allied invasion of Europe began. Altho not released by censorship until "H-hour" had passed, it gives an intimate picture of the vast preparations for attack as witnessed by a war correspondent who saw the invasions of North Africa, Sicily, and Italy.]

BY JOHN THOMPSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AT AN INVASION PORT, Somewhere in England, June 6.—Thousands of soldiers of the American army are pouring down the quaysides onto landing craft or waiting their turn as we sit here watching the beginning of the greatest invasion ever attempted.

Spread before us lie hundreds of warships, loaded transports, and landing craft of all kinds awaiting orders. Other ships attached to this force already have moved to the assembly area.

What we still can see is staggering. Yet it is only a part of one force and our force is only one phase of the entire operation. In almost every port in the United Kingdom scores of similar scenes are involving American, British, and other allied troops.

It's Beyond Superlatives.

To those of us who have taken part in or observed as correspondents the invasion of North Africa the campaign in Tunisia, or the invasions of Sicily, and Italy, the scope of this operation is beyond superlatives. In months of covering the allied armies' preparations for their task on this island we have gained some knowledge of the forces to be used.

But the last few days in our loading areas and ports have demonstrated how hard the allies will hit when they throw their full weight against Hitler's fortified shores.

This time no boys are being sent to do a man's job. There appears to be no underestimation of the enemy's potential. With the experience of the Mediterranean campaigns behind them, the allies are going against the Germans with our heaviest power, best weapons, and smartest tactics.

Ships Loaded with Vehicles.

For miles back into the hinterland the roads have been lined with trucks and other mechanized equipment. But now those vehicles are safely stowed aboard ship. But if the roads are relatively empty now, their abutting areas bulge with supplies and ammunition carefully camouflaged and dispersed. Other areas contain assembly camps.

Previously we often heard combat troops speak bitterly of their fellows in the service of supply. But now the fighting men have nothing but praise for the way the static troops set up and ran these marshalling areas for the men who will lead the assault.

Those men are standing in long lines waiting to board the transports. Sometimes they laugh and joke in typical American fashion. More often the faces are stern in full knowledge of their hard task. But this time, as Maj. Paul Gale of Lynn, Mass., who had been thru the Mediterranean campaigns, said, they are better trained and equipped than any of our troops.

British Defenses Rusting.

They make an incongruous sight, in their camouflaged helmets and bodies bulky with equipment, against a background of rusting anti-invasion defenses which Britain hastily erected in 1940 when she feared the Germans would cross the channel.

One by one each soldier walked thru the checking tent where his name was balanced against each ship's manifest. Then they went on to the floating docks where British and American sailors loaded them aboard.

[Among the troops on one invasion ship was Sgt. John Connors of 7714 S. Morgan st., Chicago. According to an Associated Press dispatch, he said: "I wish this tub would get going. Let's get it over and knock their teeth out. That's the way we feel and you can tell the folks back home that our morale was never better."]

At a near-by port long lines of trucks, jeeps, ambulances, guns, and armor moved slowly but ahead of schedule, despite a shift in the tides.

Soldiers Wear New Jackets.

Their officers were pleased, too, with the new combat jackets the soldiers wear instead of the old web equipment and cumbersome pack. These jackets, which slip over the regulation field jackets, are buckled across the front and contain pockets which distribute the soldier's heavy load and make it much easier to carry.

Warplanes roar overhead in constant thunder on the way to and from Europe. Hundreds of small craft dart about the harbor while along shore is the clatter of engines and winches.

And still long lines of battle-clad American soldiers come down the quaysides, loaded with explosives to blast thru any defenses which may escape our terrific air and sea bombardment.

First Yank Casualty of Invasion

MANY SECRET WEAPONS USED FOR FIRST TIME

LONDON, June 6 (AP).—The allied army rammed Hitler's west wall today with many secret weapons in use for the first time.

While not disclosing the types and actual number of these weapons, the ministry of supply said factories had been manufacturing them for months under the greatest secrecy. Often workers themselves did not know what they were making.

The weapons, many so vital they were made in small parts at widely separated plants, were brought together only for final assembly. Workers in these plants were pledged to secrecy—and they kept the trust.

ALLIED INVASION UP TO SCHEDULE, F. D. R. REPORTS

2 Destroyers, 1 LST Lost, He Says.

BY WALTER TROHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—President Roosevelt this afternoon joyously reported the invasion of Europe is proceeding "up to schedule" and at the same time solemnly warned against overconfidence.

With a broad smile he said he was happy to report he had received a dispatch from Gen. Eisenhower reporting light naval and air losses.

American naval losses in the thrust across the channel were two destroyers and one landing ship.

Air losses were exceedingly light, amounting to about one per cent of the forces employed. Mr. Roosevelt was unable to say whether the percentage referred to men or aircraft or both.

In revealing that details of the invasion were planned as far back as the Teheran conference, the chief executive cautioned against overconfidence.

This war is not over by any means and this operation isn't over, he said. You don't land on a beach and walk to Berlin, and the quicker the country understands this the better, he added.

He said he had little more news than was being given out except for the report from Gen. Eisenhower. He said everything appeared to be going all right and allowed direct quotation of the phrase "up to schedule," which he added, was what Churchill said and was a mouthful.

TUGBOAT WORKER KILLED.

Carl E. Clark, 36, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., was fatally injured yesterday when he was crushed between a tugboat on which he was working and a dock at 33d st. and California av., where the boat had been moored. He died in Loretto hospital.

U. S. SKY TROOPS LAND IN 3 MILE COASTAL AREA

A U. S. FIGHTER PLANE BASE IN ENGLAND, June 7 [Wednesday] —(AP).—American air borne troops were landed in a three square mile area in fields near the coast of France yesterday and it was a "beautiful job," said Lt. Arthur Washburn of Plainville, Mass., a fighter-bomber flight leader.

"The American beachhead was going along very successfully," he said, "but the British and Canadians were getting the hell beat out of them for a while. In the afternoon their position eased off."

[A United States 9th air force pilot said he saw American soldiers in France standing alongside roads and leaning on their rifles awaiting chow during a low level flight over the beachhead at dusk yesterday. Lt. James B. Crawley of Springfield, Ill., said, "I didn't see any firing anywhere. The craters looked less than 100 feet apart."]

PORTUGAL CUTS OFF ALL SHIPMENTS OF WOLFRAM TO NAZIS

Washington, D. C., June 6 (AP).—Acting Secretary of State Stettinius announced tonight that Portugal has stopped all export and production of wolfram as a result of negotiations with the United States, Britain, and Brazil.

Portugal has been producing 6,000 tons a year of the strategic ore from which tungsten steel hardening is made, and sending about 2,000 tons to the Germans. It is the first of the neutral countries to accede completely to allied requests for absolute cessation of vital war aid to the Nazis.

Spain, a less important source of wolfram, has signed a compromise agreement cutting its exports to Germany to about 300 tons for the rest of this year.

CANADIANS WIN BEACHES

BY ROSS MUNRO.

[Canadian Press War Correspondent.]
[Distributed by the Associated Press.]

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES LANDING IN FRANCE, June 6.—In two hours 45 minutes of fighting on the beaches here the Canadian invasion force won its beachhead and shoved on inland.

This morning the Canadian commander sent this message to Lt. Gen. H. D. G. Crerar: "Beachhead taken. Well on way to immediate objective."

The strip of coast won by the Canadians in this initial assault was quite narrow, but it gave them beaches and provided a base for further penetration.

Fight in Coast Towns.

There was some stiff street fighting in little coast towns and the Canadians met considerable enemy fire on the beaches as they worked their way into the defenses.

They had to overcome numerous steel and wooden obstacles which had been placed out on the tidal part of the beach to trap landing craft.

However, the assault went in just as the tide began to rise and many of these obstacles were cleared away by engineers before the water covered them, enabling follow-up craft to beach and unload.

The Canadians suffered some casualties from machine guns, mortars, and artillery, but by 10 a. m. were about 1,000 yards inland, going strong and meeting only small pockets of Germans.

Take German Prisoners.

The first prisoners taken were identified as belonging to a coastal defense unit.

Canadian and British airborne troops came in by gliders at 3:30 a. m. They captured and held several important bridges.

Cruisers supported the Canadian landing. One knocked out a battery about a mile and a half from the coast with six direct hits.

Enemy tanks are reported about 10 or 15 miles south of the beachhead and some of the enemy's transport also is moving. The French coast is wreathed in smoke drifting far down the channel.

Set Fires in Towns.

In some of the bombarded towns fires are burning and destroyers and support craft are still prowling up and down the coast to finish off anything else that may show up.

Allied air cover over the fleet and beachhead is very complete. Every few minutes Spitfires or Lightnings sweep past in the sunshine which has now come out.

Drive Began at 6th Hour of 6th Day of 6th Month

Denver, Colo., June 6 (AP).—Numerology students cited today that the European invasion started at the sixth hour of the sixth day of the sixth month—6 a. m., London time, June 6—while firing in World War I. ceased at the eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month—Nov. 11, 1918.

EMPLOYE AND $400 MISSING.

Morris Levin, owner of a penny arcade at 315 E. 47th st., last night reported to police that $400 was missing from the safe and that one of his employes had failed to report for work.

Tito Steps Up Campaign; Germans Lose Six Towns

LONDON, June 7 [Wednesday]—(AP).—In an accelerated offensive to coincide with the allied landings in France, partisans of Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz, captured six towns from the Germans, the free Yugoslav radio reported today. In western Bosnia, Kljuc, and Arzano were taken, with more than 300 Germans slain in the fighting for Arzano. In eastern Bosnia, four towns southeast of Belgrade were seized.

Beck, Polish Minister in 1939, Reported Dead

New York, June 6 (AP).—The death of Col. Josef Beck, foreign minister of Poland at the outbreak of the war, was reported tonight by the Nazi-controled Romanian radio. Beck went to Romania in 1939 after his country had been invaded.

ONE of Martha Washington's descendants writes of her: "She was remarkable for inspecting everything daily, giving out with her own hands the meals, going into dairy, cellar, etc. I have heard my mother say she always wore a white dimity dress on these occasions and that it was spotless." With plenty of well-trained servants she still felt it important to keep a watchful vigilance over everything in her household.

EVER WATCHFUL ABOUT Quality

We know exactly how Martha Washington felt about the importance of watchful care in regard to every detail in the running of her household. "SOME OF THE GUYS ARE GETTING EGGS FROM HOME..."

I CAN TELL YOU HOW TO SEND 'EM!
Bud Bowman

PACKAGES FROM HOME are home itself to those men and women overseas . . . on the nerve-wracked British Isles, on the Italian and Burma fronts, in rain-drenched jungle camps . . . wherever they are.

ONE CHAP WE KNOW requests candy and eggs in every letter he writes from England. "It's rare to get a fresh egg" . . . and "there is so little of anything here." Of course, we send over boatloads of powdered eggs, but as they say, "You can't have a picnic with a powdered egg."

SO WE GOT THE LOW-DOWN on the safest way to send those eggs and keep 'em fresh-tasting for the longest possible time. You start with Bowman Eggs, of course, because they're so fresh to begin with—even "x-rayed" for freshness the day before you get 'em. And they taste better, too. Anybody who's eaten 'em will tell you that.

THERE'S A TRICK to fixing 'em for a long journey . . . and the Bowman milkman carts the directions around with him in the egg compartment of his truck or wagon. YOU'RE WELCOME TO A COPY. Just ask him for "Directions on How to Cook and Pack Bowman Eggs for Mailing Overseas." It's for free.

DEWEY COMES OUT FOR GUARD OF SOVEREIGNTY

Agrees with Nationalist Stand on Issue.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 6.—Gov. Dewey, leading tho undeclared candidate for the Republican nomination for President, has made suggestions for the foreign policy plank of the Republican platform calculated to be satisfactory to the nationalists.

It was learned today that the New York governor, when consulted by the platform framers, espoused international coöperation to preserve peace without surrender of sovereignty, the formula for which the nationalists have contended ever since the matter became an issue in the party.

The stand taken by the governor leaves the internationalists nowhere to go except to Lt. Comdr. Stassen, former governor of Minnesota, the only contender for the Republican nomination who advocates a superstate with an international police force in which American sovereignty would be submerged.

Gov. Bricker of Ohio, Mr. Dewey's chief opponent for the nomination, already has taken a strongly nationalist position.

First Draft Being Shaped.

The first draft of the plank stating the party's stand on the participation of the United States in post-war international effort to prevent a recurrence of war is being shaped by Sen. Vandenberg [R., Mich.] and other members of the Republican post-war advisory council's foreign policy committee. It is based on the council's declaration last September at Mackinac Island.

When the preliminary draft was submitted to Gov. Dewey it is understood he considered it much too long and its verbiage in places somewhat foggy. Critics of the Mackinac declaration long ago complained of its fogginess, which was attributed to the efforts of Sen. Vandenberg, famed middle of the roader, and Sen. Austin [R., Vt.], an internationalist who is a member of the committee, to agree on phraseology.

Dewey View Told.

Gov. Dewey thought the whole plank could be compressed into fewer than 100 words without sacrificing anything essential. His suggestion was that it should declare for waging the war to the total defeat and disarmament of Germany and Japan and for the participation of the United States in an international organization of sovereign nations to repress aggression and preserve a just peace.

All of this took place, it transpires, a couple of weeks ago, before President Roosevelt at a press conference last week stated that his plan for post-war peace preservation involves no impairment of American independence, integrity, or administrative process.

As this Presidential declaration took the ground from under the internationalists, who have opposed the reservation of sovereignty on the ground that effective enforcement of peace necessarily involves some surrender of independence of action, the President was immediately accused of "going nationalist" in the hope of gaining the support of the middle west, stronghold of nationalism, without which he cannot be elected to a fourth term.

Opposed to Super State.

Gov. Dewey is opposed to a superstate or an international police force in which the army and navy of the United States could be employed without the express consent of the American government. He would rely for the force needed to put down aggression upon the voluntary contribution of military power by the nations in the compact.

For a long time to come, in the opinion of the governor, it is going to be incumbent upon America, Britain, and Russia to preserve the peace, and the most important job is going to be the disarmament and the continued enforced disarmament of Germany and Japan. The guardians of peace, he thinks, will be compelled to maintain the utmost vigilance, ready to use force, if necessary, to halt any attempt by Germany and Japan to rearm in any manner.

How to prevent most effectively secret rearmament by aggressor nations is going to be a major problem, the governor thinks. He has evinced interest in a number of suggestions of ways and means to attain this objective.

Ruhr Plan Offered.

One of them, advanced by Jean Monet, member of the De Gaulle provisional government of France, is the internationalization of the Ruhr, the industrial heart of Germany. Without the Ruhr Germany never would be able to rearm, it is asserted. The Monet plan envisages the voluntary settlement in an internationalized Ruhr of Czechs, Poles, and other peoples dispossessed by the German aggressor.

In this connection Gov. Dewey believes that this war never would have occurred but for the failure of France and Great Britain to stop Hitler's reoccupation of the Rhineland, after which the rearmament of Germany really got going.

He does not hold with the internationalists who blame this war on the refusal of the United States to enter the league of nations. The fault, as he sees it, was the failure of the European members of the league to stick together. Britain would not back up France in halting Hitler's reoccupation of the Rhineland because Britain was afraid of Russia and was, therefore, bent on permitting Germany to become strong again.

Fears Advance Approval.

A danger to be avoided, in the view of the governor, is American underwriting in advance of an unjust peace. He is opposed to committing the United States in advance to use its military power to maintain a peace settlement before we know what the settlement is.

If the settlement involves a loss of independence and territory by Poland and other nations in eastern Europe, as appears to be implied by the Russian expansion program, it would be an unjust peace and would contain the seeds of future war, in his view.

Moreover, the governor thinks, the great influence the United States might exercise at the peace table to prevent an unjust settlement would be sacrificed if we were to agree in advance to underwrite the deal with our military power.

The suggestions Gov. Dewey has made on the foreign policy plank are not his only contribution to the framing of the Republican platform.

As chairman of the Mackinac committee on government organization he is supervising the drafting of the plank in which the party will demand the liquidation of the far flung New Deal burocracy, a halt to the centralization of government, and the return to the states of the powers and functions taken over by the federal government under the Roosevelt regime.

The governor has a rough draft of this plank which is being circularized to other members of the committee and expects to transmit it to Chairman Spangler of the Republican national committee within the next fortnight for submission to the resolutions committee of the national convention which meets in Chicago June 26.

Three Brothers Join Navy

D-day Inductees

Three Fulton, Ill., brothers, all married, who volunteered for induction thru their local draft board were sworn into the navy yesterday by Lt. Comdr. W. S. Hatch, officer in charge of the recruiting station at 321 Plymouth court and were the first group of men to leave for basic training on invasion day.

The brothers, Cornelius, Marvin, and Paul Balk volunteered for service before their regular call in the draft so they might be sworn in at the same time and take their boot training together, Comdr. Hatch said.

Cornelius, 33, is the father of a daughter, 8. Paul, 25, has a daughter, 2, and Marvin, 27, is childless.

REP. GILCHRIST LOSES BID FOR AN EIGHTH TERM

Des Moines, Ia., June 6 (AP).—Sen. Gillette, who had to overcome administration opposition six years ago, won the Democratic nomination in easy fashion in Iowa's primary election yesterday, but Rep. Gilchrist, one of eight Republican congressmen seeking renomination was defeated in his bid for an eighth term.

Gov. Hickenlooper had no opposition for the Republican senatorial nomination and the other seven G.O.P. congressmen were renominated.

Lt. Gov. Robert D. Blue, Eagle Grove attorney, won the Republican gubernatorial nomination and will be opposed in the November election by Richard F. Mitchell of Fort Dodge, former state Supreme court justice and former Democratic national committeeman.

NEW DEAL BOLT IN MISSISSIPPI IS ANTICIPATED

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Jackson, Miss., June 6.—Indications tonight are that Mississippi Democrats in state convention tomorrow will become part of the revolt against the New Deal in the Democratic south. Prospects are that the state's delegates to the Democratic national convention in Chicago in July will be uninstructed for a fourth term for President Roosevelt.

Jeffersonian Democrats here on the scene declare that action similar to that of Texas on Presidential electors may be taken with a view of throwing the election into the house of representatives and defeating the President, unless the national party at Chicago satisfies the south.

War Not to Affect Action.

The invasion of Europe, party big-wigs declare, will not affect the proposed action at tomorrow's meeting. The invasion of course, was the all-absorbing center of interest today and some voiced a belief the news from Europe might halt the political battle. Others, among them Walter Sillers of Bolivar county, speaker of the house, took the opposite view, that it made the convention all the more important, as the invasion brings closer victory, the peace-table and problems of the post-war world.

Some leading anti-New Deal Democrats who term themselves real dyed in the wool Democrats, propose that the convention shall name Mississippi's nine candidates for Democratic Presidential electors and specify that unless certain conditions are lived up to at Chicago these Presidential electors shall be free to vote for "any Democrat" instead of the ticket nominated at Chicago. This is what Texas did.

Carolina Parley Adjourned.

South Carolina adjourned its convention until Aug. 2, when it will pick candidates for Presidential electors and instruct them in the light of what the Chicago convention does. This is another method, which some seem to favor for tomorrow.

Mississippians look for similar action in Virginia, Arkansas, Louisiana, and other southern states. They hazard an estimate that between 70 and 100 Presidential electors, or even more, might be hung up in this way, voting for "any Democrat" in preference to the Chicago ticket. In the event of a close race between the Democratic and Republican national candidates in November, and if neither should get the necessary 266 electors necessary to elect out of the 531 Presidential electors, then the election would be thrown into the house of representatives as in the Hayes-Tilden contest in 1876.

Texas, South Carolina, Mississippi, Virginia, Arkansas, and Louisiana have a total of 70 electoral votes.

Seek Two-Thirds Rule.

Conditions which rebels here specify if the national convention is to satisfy the south and stop Presidential electors from bolting the national party ticket are:

1. A return to the old rule requiring a nominee to get a two-thirds vote in the national convention to win nomination. This rule was abolished in the convention of 1936, which gave the President his second term nomination. Southern states bewail that repeal of the two-thirds rule reduced their voice in the party councils to a comparative whisper.

2. Adherence to states' rights, the states to determine qualifications of their electors.

3. No platform plank advocating repeal of the poll tax, racial and social equality declaration in the platform.

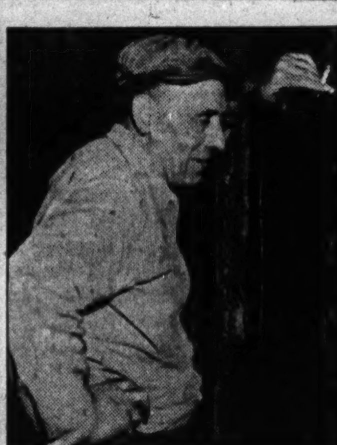
Abolition of the two-thirds rule, the uprising Democrats declare, has taken from the south the balance of power in the party and now traditional Democrats find their party in the hands of New Dealers. The south, too, as they analyze it, is regarded in the bag by the party chiefs, and hence is neglected in many ways by the government, the great emphasis being thrown on railroad rates. Likewise, they say, in the traditional strongholds of the party, the Democratic high command disregards "southern customs and traditions."

Wallace Unpopular.

Vice President Wallace is no more popular here than in the mid-west. One demand, which may or may not be pressed tomorrow, is that a real southern Democrat be nominated for vice president by the Democrats at Chicago. On either ticket, some of them said dreamily today, a Jeffersonian Democrat of ability might roll up a lot of votes.

"Why don't the Republicans nominate for Vice President one of the many fine southern Democrats in the national eye?" remarked Mr. Sillers, epitomizing a line of talk often heard in the lobbies.

Refused to Strike



Sam Spinuzza, only one of 94 workers who refused to join invasion day strike at Chicago war plant.

Eight marines entered a Chicago steel plant, strike bound on Invasion day, to load two trucks yesterday with sheet steel needed for the rush order manufacture of navy supplies. A few hours later the wildcat strike, in the Goose Island plant of A. M. Castle & Co. at 1152 Blackhawk st., was called off by members of local 3247 of the United Steel Workers of America [CIO].

Only one steel worker, Sam Spinuzza, 52, of 2600 N. 73d st., Elmwood Park, refused to go along with the 93 union members who walked off the job at 9:30 a. m.

Spinuzza, an angle shearer, could not operate his machine single handed, but he was on the job and lending a hand when the detail of marines arrived from the Great Lakes naval training center to make sure that there would be no delay in the loading and shipment of two trucks of steel that must be in Milwaukee this morning for fabrication into supplies needed by the United States fleet.

Supervisors and foremen helped the marines and Spinuzza with the loading.

The 93 striking steel workers met at 1301 North av. last night and voted to go back to work.

The union members voted to reject a contract offered by the management.

DEMPSEY LEADS PRIMARY RACE IN NEW MEXICO

Albuquerque, N. M., June 6 (AP).—Gov. John J. Dempsey, seeking renomination on the Democratic ticket, tonight had a lead of 604 votes to 97 for Mrs. Edna Peterson of Albuquerque, on the basis of unofficial and incomplete returns from 13 of New Mexico's 900 voting points in today's primary elections.

In the contest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, incomplete reurns from 11 precincts gave Glenn L. Emmons, Gallup banker, 129 votes to 117 for Carroll G. Gunderson, former legislator.

Incomplete, unofficial returns from nine precincts showed the following tabulation in the contest for the two Republican congressional nominations: Ben F. Meyer, Albuquerque, 125; Mayor Manuel Lujan, Santa Fe, 97; James S. McCall, Carlsbad attorney, 115; Severino Trujillo, Santa Fe, 22.

Tennesseeans Uninstructed.

Nashville, Tenn., June 6 (AP).—The Tennessee Democratic convention stated in a resolution today that it "looked with favor" on a fourth term nomination for President Roosevelt and the nomination of Gov. Prentice Cooper for Vice President, but decided to send its 26 vote delegation to the national convention without instructions.

Idaho for Fourth Term.

Boise, Idaho, June 6 [Special].—Idaho Democrats endorsed a fourth term for President Roosevelt at their state convention here today. They also commended Vice President Wallace for "efficient and loyal support" of the President. The state has 10 votes in the Democratic national convention.

CHICAGO KNEELS AND PRAYS FOR ALLIED ARMIES

D-Day Service Also Held on State Street.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicagoans knelt in church and synagog yesterday to pray for the allied armies striking into western Europe.

Hundreds of persons defied rain and chill to attend what was perhaps State street's first civic prayer meeting. It was held at the corner of Madison st. at 5:30 p. m. Homebound throngs heard Mayor Kelly stress the solemnity of invasion day and participated silently in the prayers offered by three of the city's religious leaders—Dr. Harrison Ray Anderson, president of the Church Federation of Greater Chicago; the Very Rev. Edward M. Burke, chancellor of the Roman Catholic archdiocese of Chicago, and Rabbi Felix A. Levy of Emanuel congregation.

They asked divine help and protection for the fighting men and strength and faith in the future for civilians. The meeting was arranged by the State Street council and the Chicago Retail Merchants' association. Mayor Kelly issued a proclamation asking that the stores close at 5 p. m. Traffic on State st. was diverted from shortly after 5 until the end of the meeting.

Words of Joel Recalled.

Earlier in the day the mayor suggested all places of worship be open during the noon hour. Many churches held intercessions from early morning until late last night. There was a spirit of Ash Wednesday and Good Friday—penitence, and the dark hour before Easter's dawn—in worshippers' attitudes.

The words of the Prophet Joel fitted the occasion. They are:

"Blow the trumpet in Zion, sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly: gather the people. . . . Let the priests, the ministers of the Lord, weep between the porch and the altar, and let them say, Spare thy people, O Lord, and give not thine heritage to reproach, that the heathen should reign over them: wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?"

Archbishop Stritch departed from his prepared commencement address for Quigley Preparatory seminary in Holy Name cathedral to speak to the graduates and their sponsors and friends on the significance of the invasion.

The parochial schools will continue to hold invasion prayer services daily and in most Catholic churches noon masses for the success of the invasion will be celebrated for the next nine days. Masses were said at noon yesterday.

Gov. Green at Service.

Gov. Green was in First Methodist church, Chicago Temple, at the noon hour when that edifice was crowded for prayers. Dr. Charles R. Goff, pastor, asked prayers for early triumph and the safe return of men "who cannot hold their own lives dear," but "must advance." During the playing of "Sweet Hour of Prayer," many persons were weeping.

The Church Federation of Greater Chicago said each of the 1,200 churches holding membership in the federation was opened for prayer thruout the day. A prayer prepared for the churches by Bishop Henry St. George Tucker, president of the Federal Council of Churches and head of the American Episcopal church, was featured in these services. In part, it reads:

"Hear, we beseech Thee, the cry of Thy children in this dark hour of conflict and danger. Thou hast been our refuge and strength in all generations of those who put their trust in Thee. May it please Thee to draw to Thyself the hearts of those who struggle and endure to the uttermost.

'Victory of Righteousness.'

"Have mercy on them and suffer not their faith in Thee to fail. Enter into this struggle with Thy transforming power, that out of its anguish there may come a victory of righteousness."

The Chicago Lutheran Pastors' conference, which met yesterday in the Republic building, was turned into a D-day prayer service, led by the Rev. Arthur Yoss, pastor of Ascension church, Riverside. All Lutheran churches will remain open for prayers today.

Lutheran parochial schools were led in special prayers during the day. More than 500 pupils of St. John's Christian day school, Forest Park, were led in D-day devotions by the Rev. Alvin Wagner. Lay leaders of the Episcopal church of Our Saviour, Elmhurst, which is without a rector, last night called a special D-day service, which the laymen led.

Communities Hold Devotions.

Many communities held united devotions last night. Among these was one in Central school, Glencoe, in which Rabbi James Wax of North Shore Congregation, the Rev. Dr. Richard C. Talbot, rector of St. Elisabeth's Episcopal church, and the Rev. Robert B. Pierce of the Methodist church participated. Congregations affiliated with the Chicago Federation of Reform synagogues held services last night.

Many attended services at 5 p. m. in Chicago Sinai temple, 4600 South Park way, at 7 p. m. in Emanuel temple, 501 Buckingham pl., and at 8 p. m. in Temple Sholom, 3840 Lake Shore dr. Bulletins of invasion progress were read to the congregations.

Bishop Gerasimos Elias of the Greek Orthodox diocese of Chicago, which covers 14 states, called on all Greek churches to devote the day to special intercessions.

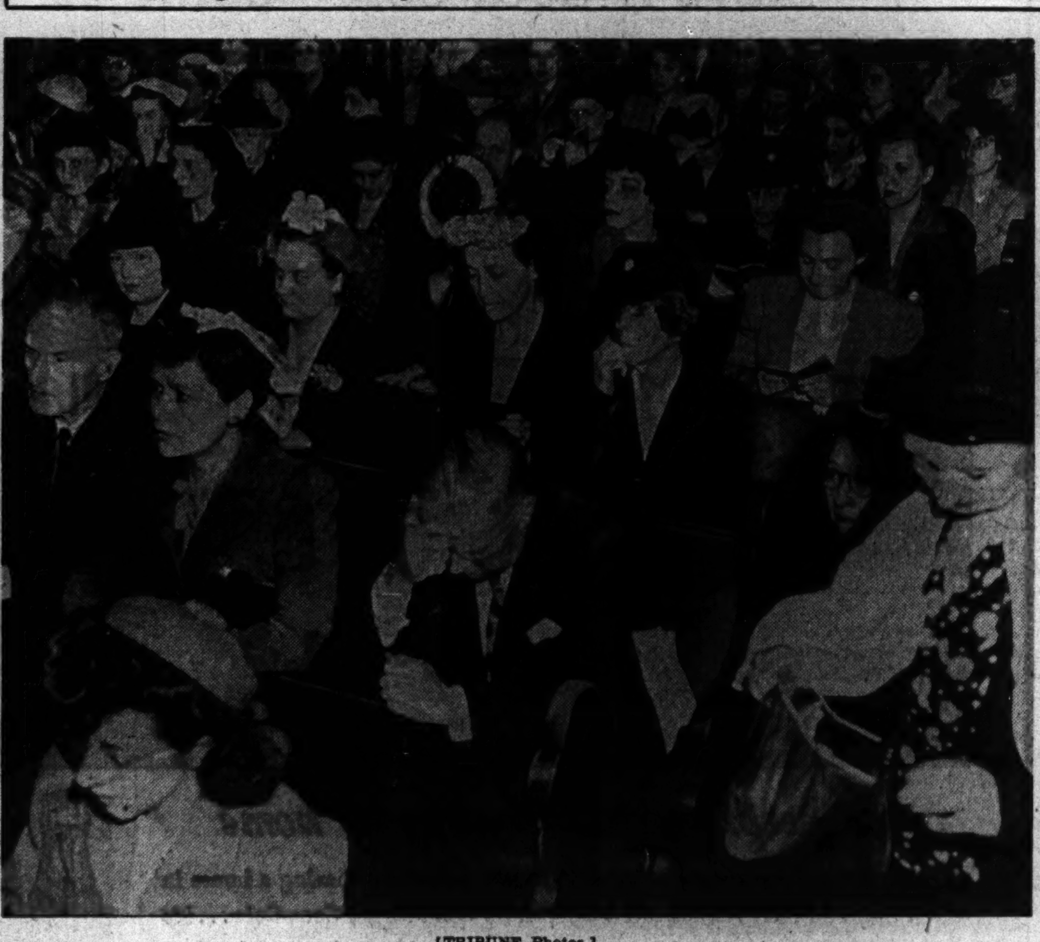
Prayers by Russian Bishop.

The Rt. Rev. Leonty, bishop of the Russian Orthodox diocese of Chicago, held D-day prayers in Holy Trinity cathedral, 1211 N. Leavitt st., yesterday morning.

Services were held in the afternoon in the open air tabernacle of the Methodist camp meeting ground in Des Plaines, with most of the Des Plaines churches taking part.

The congregation of Northminster Presbyterian church, Evanston, was notified by personal telephone calls of last night's D-day service.

Chicagoans Pray for Allied Invasion Success



[TRIBUNE Photos.]

HINES HOSPITAL PATIENTS JOIN IN VICTORY PRAYER

Most of them veterans who fought in France in 1918, the 1,670 patients at Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital, near Maywood, listened to invasion broadcasts and talked about Cantigny, the Argonne, and Chateau Thierry yesterday. Charles G. Beck, manager of the hospital, said the Hines patients are veterans of World War I., except for a few who have been hospitalized by wounds in this war.

The Rev. James S. Bunch and the Rev. Jude McKinnon, the Protestant and Catholic chaplains, at the noon hour gathering in the dining room, led prayers for the success and safety of the invaders.

June 6, the invasion date, is significant to the United States marines who served in the last war. It was on that date, 26 years ago, that American leathernecks won Belleau wood in France.

GEORGE VI. URGES EARNEST PRAYER IN CRISIS AHEAD

LONDON, June 6 (AP).—King George VI. tonight called upon his subjects to offer up "earnest and continuous and widespread prayer thruout the present crisis of the liberation of Europe."

Prayer, he said, would fortify the "determination of our sailors, soldiers, and airmen who go forth to set captives free.

"After nearly five years of toil and suffering," he said in a broadcast, "we must renew that crusading impulse on which we entered the war and met its darkest hour. We and our allies are sure that our fight is against evil and for a world in which goodness and honor may be the foundation of life of men in every land.

"That we may be worthily matched with this new summons of destiny, I desire solemnly to call my people to prayer and dedication.

"We shall not ask that God may do our will but that we may be enabled to do the will of God; and we dare to believe that God has used our nation and empire as an instrument for fulfilling his high purpose."

Gen. Richardson Praises Allied Action in France

U. S. ARMY HDQ., Central Pacific, June 7 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Gen. Robert C. Richardson, commanding army forces in the Central Pacific, today sent this message to Gen. Eisenhower: "Every soldier in the Central Pacific area is watching with pride and admiration the magnificent achievement of forces under your command. We send you our prayers and best wishes for every continuing success."

HEALTH QUIZ

	YES	NO
Do you have poor digestion?	☐	☐
Do you feel headachy after eating?	☐	☐
Do you get sour or upset easily?	☐	☐
Do you feel tired—listless?	☐	☐

Now everyone knows that to get the good out of the food you eat—you must digest it properly. But what most people don't know is that Nature must produce about two pints of the digestive juice—liver bile—each day to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested, lie sour and heavy within you.

Thus, it is simple to see that one way to aid digestion is to increase the flow of liver bile. Now, Carter's Little Liver Pills start to increase this flow quickly for thousands—often in as little as thirty minutes. When bile flow increases, your digestion may improve. And, soon you're on the road to feeling better—which is what you're after.

Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's, taken as directed, aid digestion after Nature's own order. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today—only 25¢. You'll be glad you did.

PRAYERS GREET INVASION NEWS ON CAPITOL HILL

Senate and House Voice Faith in Victory.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—The nation's capital received the news of the invasion today with solemnity and prayer.

Chaplain Montgomery.

Chaplain Harris.

In the senate, gallery visitors joined with members in reciting the 23d psalm. Members and visitors in the house repeated the Lord's Prayer.

President Roosevelt's prayer, which he broadcast over the radio at 9 p. m. [Chicago time], was read in both chambers.

Chaplain James S. Montgomery prayed for the protection of the fighting forces at the house session, which opened an hour before that of the senate. Then he asked all present to join him in the Lord's prayer.

President's Prayer Read.

Speaker Rayburn [D., Tex.] directed the clerk to read the President's prayer, as men and women in the galleries stood in silence.

Majority Leader McCormack [D., Mass.] expressed the hope that the allies will have the leadership needed after victory to prevent future wars. He called upon the assemblage to join in silent prayer.

Minority Leader Martin [R., Mass.], warning that many heart breaking days lie ahead, said that Hitler may be depended on to fight like "a cornered rat." Appealing for an early victory by American fighters, Martin said:

"May the merciful God be with all of them; may He spare their health and life, and return them safely to their homes."

Ask Divine Guidance.

Rep. Eaton [R., N. J.], a Baptist minister, uttered a prayer for the Americans in battle. Divine guidance was asked by Representatives O'Toole [D., N. Y.], Lanham [D., Tex.], Rankin [D., Miss.], and Scrivner [R., Kas.] before the house proceeded to routine business.

Uniforms, gay dresses, and the robes of nuns were seen in the galleries when the senate opened at noon. Few senators were at their desks when Chaplain Frederick Brown Harris asked for the safety of the allied forces.

While more senators streamed in, Majority Leader Barkley [D., Ky.] formally reported the invasion to the senate. He gave his assurance that the American fighting men were ready "to the last airplane, to the last tank, to the last round of ammunition."

"All we ought to do now," he said, "all we can do, is pray fervently and devoutly for the success of our troops and our allies."

Across the great center aisle that separates the Republicans from the Democrats, Minority Leader White [R., Me.] rose to add:

"We must have abiding faith that God will bring us victory."

Judgment for Hitler.

Jovial, white haired Sen. Connally [D., Tex.], grim today, told the senate that Hitler has come to his judgment day.

"He was the first to draw the sword," Connally said. "Let him perish by the sword."

Chairman Reynolds [D., N. C.] of the military affairs committee praised the commanders and their men, and voiced his sympathy for the mothers and fathers of American fighters.

The tiniest of the senate pages unclasped his hands, ran his fingers thru the flaxen hair that won't stay combed, and blinked behind his spectacles. The service wasn't over and Sen. Danaher [R., Conn.] was beginning to talk about the OPA bill.

Then the little page beamed. The copy of the President's prayer, borrowed from the house, had arrived. Towering Chairman Walsh [D., Mass.] of the naval affairs committee stood up and read it aloud.

COAST GUARDS FERRYING MEN TO BEACHHEADS

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, June 6.—The United States coast guard is in the thick of the operation which began today.

It is fulfilling two functions. One is the traditional task which it has carried on for 153 years of aiding ships and men in distress at sea. The other is manning the transports and landing craft, ferrying the men and equipment to the beaches of France.

An important force consisting of scores of craft and thousands of men has been built up at a British port under the over-all command on this side of Capt. A. S. Richmond of Santa Paula, Cal.

"Would you folks like to use our seats while we go to the diner? We're afraid some one will grab them who won't give them back."

President Roosevelt's Prayer

Washington, D. C., June 6 (AP).—This is the invasion prayer which President Roosevelt wrote while allied troops were landing on the coast of France:

"My fellow Americans:

"In this poignant hour, I ask you to join me in prayer:

"Almighty God: Our sons, pride of our nation, this day have set upon a mighty endeavor, a struggle to preserve our republic, our religion, and our civilization, and to set free a suffering humanity.

"Lead them straight and true; give strength to their arms, stoutness to their hearts, steadfastness to their faith.

"They will need Thy blessings. Their road will be long and hard. The enemy is strong. He may hurl back our forces. Success may not come with rushing speed, but we shall return again and again; and we know that by Thy grace, and by the righteousness of our cause, our sons will triumph.

Fight to Liberate.

"They will be sore tried, by night and by day, without rest—till the victory is won. The darkness will be rent by noise and flame. Men's souls will be shaken with the violences of war.

"These are men lately drawn from the ways of peace. They fight not for the lust of conquest. They fight to end conquest. They fight to liberate. They fight to let justice arise, and tolerance and good will among all Thy people. They yearn but for the end of battle, for their return to the haven of home.

"Some will never return. Embrace these, Father, and receive them, Thy heroic servants, into Thy Kingdom.

"And for us at home—fathers, mothers, children, wives, sisters and brothers of brave men overseas, whose thoughts and prayers are ever with them—help us, Almighty God, to rededicate ourselves in renewed faith in Thee in this hour of great sacrifice.

Prayers for Each Day.

"Many people have urged that I call the nation into a single day of special prayer. But because the road is long and the desire is great, I ask that our people devote themselves in continuance of prayer. As we rise to each new day, and again when each day is spent, let words of prayer be on our lips, invoking Thy help to our efforts.

"Give us strength, too—strength in our daily tasks, to redouble the contributions we make in the physical and material support of our armed forces.

"And let our hearts be stout, to wait out the long travail, to bear sorrows that may come, to impart our courage unto our sons wheresoever they may be.

"And, O Lord, give us faith. Give us faith in Thee; faith in our sons; faith in each other; faith in our united crusade. Let not the keenness of our spirit ever be dulled. Let not the impacts of temporary events, of temporal matters of but fleeting moment—let not these deter us in our unconquerable purpose.

Hopes for Sure Peace.

"With Thy blessing, we shall prevail over the unholy forces of our enemy. Help us to conquer the apostles of greed and racial arrogances.

"Lead us to the saving of our country, and with our sister nations into a world unity that will spell a sure peace—a peace invulnerable to the schemings of unworthy men. And a peace that will let all men live in freedom, reaping the just rewards of their honest toil.

"Thy will be done, Almighty God.

"Amen."

LONDON REACTS IN TRUE BRITISH WAY—STOLIDLY

Crowds Found Only at News Stands.

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SUPREME HDQ., ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, England, June 6.—Londoners took the invasion calmly. Bleary eyed and sleepy after a night disturbed by the constant roar of heavy planes, which many had interpreted as the prelude to invasion, they plodded steadily about their business today outwardly unruffled by the most momentous news of this or any other war.

The only thing about the London streets away from Whitehall, the parliament buildings, and the ministry of information that might have indicated to a stranger that something unusual was going on was seen at the news stands. There crowds swarmed around the paper sellers tearing the editions from their hands and tossing coins in payment onto the inevitable box used by the newsboys as a seat when business is slack.

200 Wait to Buy.

At one time this Tribune correspondent counted more than 200 persons awaiting papers at a Fleet st. stand.

While I rode a street car to the Tribune office a new edition came on the streets. Both driver and conductor deserted the street car and dashed across the road to buy a paper. Crewmen of other cars did likewise and for a few moments there were half a dozen untended vehicles all over the highway in unconcerned violation of a Scotland Yard regulation.

After scanning the headlines and calling out "Everything fine" to the passengers, the street car men got back on the job and the traffic unwound.

Starved for News.

There was, of course, much talk and speculation in the pubs [taverns] and on street corners, but the side streets presented a normal, everyday appearance. It seemed to me that Londoners were starved for real news despite the banner headlines and invasion programs broadcast by the British Broadcasting company.

Churchill's assurances that everything was going well and that the surprise was complete consoled many. "Now it's Jerry's turn to take it," a tobacco store clerk said.

'IKE' DIRECTING ALLIED INVADERS FROM ENGLAND

LONDON, June 7 [Wednesday]—(AP).—Gen. Eisenhower is directing the invasion of western Europe from an advanced outpost in England, supreme headquarters of the AEF said early today, denying a report broadcast by the Brazzaville radio that the commander had established headquarters on French soil.

Gen. Eisenhower pressed the button for the invasion of France from a tented camp on the sleeping English countryside. There in a motor trailer he is directing the first phase of history's most gigantic amphibious operation.

In the morning he "chinned" in his familiar way with the men of a British unit as they embarked from an invasion quay. Late yesterday he toured airdromes where American parachute troops were preparing to take off. As dusk fell, he called at the headquarters of one of the airborne units. Then he walked up to the roof of a house and watched the procession in the darkening skies as the squadrons roared over him at 15 second intervals.

MONTY AGAIN IS CHASING DESERT FOX TO HIS LAIR

SUPREME HDQ., Allied Expeditionary Force, June 6 (AP).—It's "Monty" versus Desert Fox Rommel again on the shores of Normandy.

Marshal Erwin Rommel, who was chased out of Africa, is in command of the German army group in northern France opposing the American-British-Canadian invasion under Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery. Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt is in over-all command.

Montgomery believes Rommel will try at once to "knock us back into the sea," because he is a disrupter, "and to disrupt the invasion he will try to hit us early," he was quoted today as saying.

Keeping young folks happy at home is mostly a matter of having a house in which they and their friends feel welcome. So don't forget Coca-Cola... it's always a big attraction for the young crowd. It says better than words, Come on over to our house... we're glad to see you. Be sure there's "Coke" in your icebox. His One Desire in Life Was to Die
"One of the truly great novels of our times"

FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

Frederick Faust Killed in Action

ON MAY 16, as Frederick Faust's great novel was ready for the presses of the Post, word came that he was killed "about May 12" near Santa Maria Infante... and buried on the Garigliano Front in a soldier's grave.

Mr. Faust was a writer who believed that the only way to write about war was to write about the human beings who really fight it.

Refusing the comparative safety of the press camp, he crossed the Garigliano River to a forward unit and died in the storming of Santa Maria.

Frederick Faust, under the pen name of Max Brand, was creator and writer of the Dr. Kildare scenarios and novels... war correspondent... soldier of the pen. It was estimated that he had produced eighty-five novels and 25,000,000 words of fiction and scenarios. He gave his life to bring the brutal realities of war closer to the hearts of the people.

With mingled pride and admiration and sorrow at his passing, the Post is privileged to publish his last and perhaps his greatest work.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

Peter Gerard wanted only to die. There was the memory of Nazis bombing Rotterdam ... and the memory of a wife who had gone—a wife who was young and beautiful. And there was a dead look about him ... and a dead place in his heart.

Then miraculously, Peter Gerard found his lost wife—but she had forgotten—for there was neither recognition nor love in her eyes.

Thus begins this dramatic, heart-reaching story of a young Dutch flyer caught in the relentless coils of war ... a man who deliberately hunted death in the skies.

SPAN TIBER FROM ROME TO COAST; DRIVE ON 5 MILES

French Capture Tivoli; More Nazis Seized.

ALLIED HDQ., Naples, June 6 (AP).—Remnants of the German army fled in disorder north and west of Rome today, as 5th army troops swarming over the historic Tiber river in many places and against weak resistance advanced another five miles.

"The battle to destroy the enemy continues without pause," the allied war bulletin said, and it was made clear, there is to be no halt in the Italian campaign.

"With the capture of Rome, the allied armies in Italy have brought another phase of their campaign to a most successful conclusion," said the bulletin.

To the northeast, 15 miles from Rome, French troops have captured Tivoli on the important Avezzano road [highway 5], and as the 5th army offensive rolled forward, fanning out west and north of the Eternal city on a broad front, additional thousands of prisoners marched to the rear.

Drive Over Eleven Bridges.

All the way from Rome to the sea the troops of Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark have crossed or reached the Tiber, and in the Eternal city itself they plunged across the 11 spans still remaining intact. Infantry was reported driving due west of Vatican city, and allied armored forces spread out over a wide area.

Enemy divisions still in the flatlands below the city were in desperate straits. Westward from Rome to the sea all the Tiber's bridges have been blown up or have been captured by the allies, and in the coastal area alone, well over 2,000 Nazis apparently will be unable to extricate themselves.

Only isolated rear guards offered any serious resistance. In the mountains east of Rome Nazi rear guards threw strong opposition against the British 8th army in an attempt to cover the northward withdrawal of the German main body in that sector.

Nazis Resist in Hills.

The enemy still resisted in the hills north of the Via Casilina against 8th army troops, but Palena station and some mountain positions in that sector have been abandoned by the Germans.

The retreating enemy also was battered from the air. Tactical aircraft concentrated attacks yesterday on communications leading to the battle area, medium bombers hit road bridges in west-central Italy, north of Rome, fighter-bombers lashed at rail bridges, trucks, motor transport and ammunition dumps, and other aircraft concentrated on strategic targets over a wide area.

YANKS IN ROME PRAY FOR FORCES HITTING FRANCE

Many Awed by Art in St. Peter's.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Italy, June 6.—Allied soldiers and Italian civilians knelt today before lighted candles in St. Peter's cathedral and prayed for the success of the new invasion of Europe.

All thru Rome yesterday's jubilation over the allies' arrival was succeeded today by the excitement at the beginning of the next great phase of the battle of the continent. Meager reports of the thrust across the channel vied for space and headlines on the front pages of Italian newspapers with stories of the allies' arrival and the doings in this city. The feeling was that the invasion of France had been keyed to the fall of Rome.

Awed by Church Art.

It was the first visit to St. Peter's for many American soldiers. They expected to be and were awed by the art in the great halls and in the interior of the dome. Michelangelo, Bernini, Vignola, and Domenico Fontant had been just names to these Americans, but now they were viewing the works of these masters.

"What a day to come here," one sergeant remarked as he stood before the bronze doors. "I'd always wanted to pray one day in St. Peter's and certainly there is so much to pray for now."

Five lads I encountered had become detached from their unit and had planned several days of riotous living in Rome before going up to the front. They changed their minds when they heard of the invasion.

"Those guys are going into a tough fight in France," one of them told me, "and it's not quite the right time for us to go absent without leave."

Tanks Rumble Thru Streets.

Big guns, tanks and ammunition carriers rumbled thru the streets, but otherwise this city was returning to normalcy.

The Romans have accustomed themselves to the Americans much quicker than did the Neapolitans. The entrance or the presence of a GI in one of the little gatherings was enough to provoke a little burst of enthusiasm, back-slapping and yells of "Viva Americano."

The allied military government [AMG] is bringing in loads of food and other supplies. The food situation doesn't appear to be too critical and certainly the need of this city is not as great as was that of Naples.

At my hotel—the Grand—I was able to get a breakfast of ham and eggs and a cup of ersatz coffee. The latter was a sort of bitter bean brew, but it was better than what passes for coffee in England.

Bread Is Great Necessity.

The waiter brought me marmalade, but that didn't do much good for there was no bread. Bread is the only really great necessity right now. Some hotels and restaurants have a little, but it is parceled out very carefully—one slim slice at lunch and dinner. There seemed to be sufficient meat. Veal was on the menu for lunch and beefsteak for dinner. Spaghetti and antipasto also were served.

Water is available only at infrequent intervals, and the accepted procedure is to fill the bathtub and keep it as a personal reservoir, dipping in your helmet for washing or shaving just as with the army in the field. There is no way of heating water.

The bar in the Grand hotel was doing a big business last night and this morning. There were good stocks of liquor and vermouth. There are rumors that French champagnes and burgundies still repose in the cellars.

In the homes of the middle class and in the poorer sections of Rome—which I visited—there also seemed to be enough to eat—if not heartily, at least adequately.

Most Shops Are Open.

Most of the shops are open. Prices have been raised somewhat but haven't yet reached the outrageous levels in Naples. Good gloves could be purchased for about 200 lire [approximately $2] and silk stockings for 300. Rome shopkeepers are not yet used to handling the allied military currency and also have to be informed of the rate of exchange of the lire, being set up by us at 1 cent in the territory we occupy as we move up from the south.

The soldiers are paying much attention to the pretty Roman girls, voting them much better company than the Neapolitans. One reason, of course, for the preference is that the Roman girls have not yet caught onto the American "line" and still are awed greatly and complimented by the soldiers' attentions. It probably won't be for long.

Pope Receives Soldiers.

VATICAN CITY, June 6 (AP).—More than 150 soldiers, mostly Americans, were received by Pope Pius today in a surprise audience.

The soldiers gathered before St. Peter's and asked if they could call on the pope. Word came that the pontiff would see them and the group was led into the consistory hall. All knelt as the pope blessed them. He passed among the soldiers afterward, addressing several in their own languages.

20 SMALL NAZI WARSHIPS SAIL TURKISH STRAITS

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, June 5 [Delayed].—Twenty small German war vessels passed thru the Turkish straits to the Aegean sea in the last 10 days, one at least passing Istanbul today. The Germans may be evacuating craft from the Black sea in an effort to avoid losing them, and foreign observers here consider this transit an obvious breach of the Montreaux convention, which does not allow warships of belligerent nations to pass thru the straits.

All were disarmed before entering Turkish waters, but they were built for belligerent use and were proceeding from one theater of operations to another where they will again be employed in military operations. In Crimea they had been used in attempts to evacuate German troops.

Five of the vessels were small transports, normally mounting a pair of 3.7 inch guns. The others were 40 ton subchaser launches. Most of them carried deckloads of timber to justify the pretense they were merchant craft.

Senate Votes Debt Top Boost, Cabaret Tax Cut

Washington, D. C., June 6 (AP).—The senate today approved compromise legislation raising the public debt limit from $210,000,000,000 to $260,000,000,000 and cutting the cabaret tax from 30 to 20 per cent.

"THE RAILROAD COULDN'T GET ALONG WITHOUT YOU, MOM!"

YOUNGSTERS learn fast. Already, Jim has discovered something about the railroad well known to his Dad and 42,000 other Illinois Central railroaders: It's the wives and mothers who keep their men fit to tackle the toughest jobs.

These women understand how important their men's jobs are. When Dad opens the throttle of his locomotive, Mom realizes that the loaded cars behind it may be carrying supplies to her Dave and Ed overseas. She looks at the two service stars in her window and knows no war work comes ahead of moving that freight.

And it is our women, in their kitchens, in their Victory Gardens or beside the living room lamp with their mending, who feed the home fires of the Illinois Central family spirit ... the American spirit of teamwork our fighting men expect to come back to.

With the help of our women folk, one of these days the war will be won. Until then, our main concern is victory. After that, all we have learned during the war years will be turned to account in improving Illinois Central service. We want to keep on earning your good will.

J. L. Beven

YANKS ON BIAK 1½ MILES FROM JAP AIRDROME

Advance Along Cliff and Outflank Foe.

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, June 7 [Wednesday]—(AP).—American forces which since May 27 have been striving to capture Mokmer air field on Biak Island have battled to within a mile and a half of their objective, headquarters announced today.

The advance was scored by a flanking force along cliffs dominating the air field, a base coveted because it would put the Americans within good bombing range of the Philippines.

The enemy air force, out in greater force than it has risked in many months, was reported in today's bulletin to have twice ineffectively raided our positions in the Schoutens.

Ten other Japanese planes resisted Liberator bombings of rear positions. One interceptor was shot down, three others probably.

On another invasion beachhead 200 miles to the southeast at Maffin bay, 107 Japanese were slain Sunday as the Yanks there repulsed a counter-attack. In the Holland-Aitape vicinity patrols killed 283 Japanese, found 106 more dead and took 33 more prisoners.

Pacific Isles Bombed.

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HDQ., Pearl Harbor, June 6 (AP).—American bombers, carrying out a half dozen week-end raids against Japanese positions in the Central Pacific, battered air field runways and gun positions at Truk, Ponape, Nauru, and the eastern Marshalls.

The attacks were announced today by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz.

Jap Position Captured.

SOUTHEAST ASIA COMMAND HDQ., Kandy, Ceylon, June 6 (AP).—Allied forces under Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell have captured an enemy position on the northern edge of Myitkyina and have destroyed the defenses in the southern and southwestern sectors of that besieged Burma base, it was announced today.

A bulletin from Adm. Mountbatten's headquarters said Chinese troops advancing down the west side of the Mogaung valley have captured Tangaoyon. At Kamaing, 40 miles west of Myitkyina, allied troops were declared to have repulsed a Japanese attack on a road block and driven northward.

Stillwell Visits Chungking.

CHUNGKING, June 6 (AP).—Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stillwell made a brief visit to Chungking today from the Burma front and pinned the legion of merit medal on Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Timberman of San Diego, Cal., his newly appointed deputy chief of staff.

The Chinese high command announced tonight that the Japanese had reached the outer defenses of Changsha, with fighting in progress 22 miles northeast of the Hunan province city.

In Honan province, scene of another Japanese offensive, the Chinese said the enemy had started a drive along the east-west Lunghai railway toward Tungkwang but had fallen back under pressure. The Japanese recaptured several other points in Honan, however, notably Sunghsien and the provincial capital, Lushan.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

June 6, 1944.

LAST year Illinois farmers had their first experience in growing large acreage of hemp. When the nation's supply of fiber was cut off by the war, the government turned to American farmers and asked them to do the job. Hemp processing mills were built thruout the midwest and farmers pledged their acres to hemp.

The response was excellent, but now the government has closed most of the processing plants, and there will be a sharp reduction in hemp acreage this year because foreign producing areas have been opened.

A report from the University of Illinois on hemp operations contains interesting figures on production from the farmers' end. The statistics will give the farmer a good idea of the amount of time, labor, and money he put into his crop.

Farm Cost $21.19 a Ton.

According to the report, it cost Illinois farmers $21.19 a ton to produce and deliver the hemp. The cost per acre of growing hemp was $55.02, which is about double the cost of producing corn. The hemp yield averaged about 2.6 tons per acre, and sold for an average of $42.90 a ton, which made it a profitable crop.

It took 19 man hours an acre to produce and deliver the hemp, the report shows. This is approximately 10 hours more than is needed in the production of an acre of corn. Tractor time averaged 5.75 hours, about the same as corn, and 10 truck miles per acre were needed to deliver the hemp.

The cost of $55.02 in growing an acre of hemp included $23.21 for plowing, preparing seed bed, cost of seed, and sowing; $10.89 for cutting, turning, binding and shocking, and $9.29 for loading and delivering.

Government Sells Seed.

Seed cost to the growers was $12.52, with all seed sold by the government. Machines for cutting and binding the crop, which cost $5 an acre, were rented from the local hemp mills. The job that took the largest amount of labor was loading and delivering, which absorbed eight hours an acre.

Too many farmers have no idea how much their operations cost or the amount of labor they consume. Figures such as these will show that they are making less money on crops than they think, for they are apt to discount their labor and underestimate the time taken for a job. Farmers should keep accurate production cost records.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

LEAF HOPPERS are damaging bean and potato plantings in the Chicago area. These are small, light green, wedge shaped insects that cause leaf damage sometimes called leaf burn, for the tips of the leaves become dry and brown. In some localities these insects are called white fleas. When affected plants are shaken the insects fly out in swarms and then immediately return to the leaves.

A soap solution will defeat leaf hoppers on beans. This is made by mixing three tablespoonfuls of common soap flakes in half a gallon of water.

The gardener on the Wheaton farm uses a combination spray for all four of the common potato enemies: potato beetles, leaf hoppers, flea beetles, and leaf blight. This mixture is two tablespoonfuls of arsenate of lead and the same amount of Bordeaux mixture in a gallon of water.

PEARL HARBOR TRIAL BY SEPT. 7 VOTED IN HOUSE

Administration Plea for Delay Spurned.

mit court martial proceedings before the end of the war.

"Can it be," inquired Rep. Church [R., Ill.], "that the court martial of Kimmel and Short will reveal negligence on the part of civil heads rather than by military and naval commands? The American people are suspicious that political and not military considerations are the real reason for delay with an election approaching."

Rep. Rankin [D., Miss.] brought this question boldly into the open altho he was arguing against the resolution.

Doubts the Wisdom.

"I don't believe it would be wise at this time to force a public trial of Short and Kimmel," he remarked, "which might involve not only military leaders, but men in civil life.

"At this moment, our boys may be dying by the thousands on the western front."

Democratic Majority Leader McCormack [D., Mass.] said the invasion of Europe was an argument for further delay in the court martial proceedings.

"Altho I have been given no assurance," he said, "I assume the general staff feels it unwise to institute proceedings in the near future."

Rep. Walter [D., Pa.] backed McCormack, asserting no one was interested in "whitewashing those responsible for Pearl Harbor," but the military and naval authorities should be given discretion to decide when to make the facts public.

"This is the greatest hour in the history of the world," declared Rep. Rogers [R., Mass.]. "American young men are going to pay the price and the leaders of our armed forces must be warned against any possible negligence."

JAPS SEE NAZIS AS JUBILANT AT INVASION NEWS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Tokyo radio in its first reaction to the western invasion yesterday quoted Nobuhiko Ushiba, former secretary of the Japanese embassy at Berlin, as saying he "could well imagine the jubilation in the German high command upon receipt of the news."

Ushiba cautiously added that whether this invasion will develop into a full scale European second front remains to be seen.

Boasting of prepared Nazi defenses and declaring the most formidable of them were between Cherbourg and Dunkerque, embracing the area of the allied landings, Ushiba said the defense lines would give the Germans absolute advantage. He estimated that a least 60 German divisions are concentrated in these defense zones.

BADOGLIO BEGINS FORMING NEW ITALIAN REGIME

NAPLES, June 6 (AP).—Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio dissolved his Italian government today and was charged by Crown Prince Umberto with forming a new government to include political leaders in liberated Rome.

Badoglio went thru the parliamentary form of submitting the old government's resignation. An official announcement said the action would permit establishment of a government "composed of political figures from many regions of Italy." Umberto, 39, has received the "royal prerogatives" of 74 year old King Victor Emmanuel III., who made good his promise to step out of public life as soon as Rome was liberated.

WLB Opposes but Permits Transfer of Job Foremen

The regional war labor board yesterday ruled the Union Electric Co. of Missouri and Illinois might transfer foremen temporarily from one plant to another, but advised the firm not to "in the interests of good industrial relations." Such a transfer May 25 caused strikes in the Cahokia and Venice [Ill.] plants of the company and led to an appeal to the board for a ruling. The strikers are members of the International Union of Operating Engineers [AFL].

CHICAGO BACKS CRUSADE WITH SPEEDED WORK

Industry and Labor Join to Increase Output.

Solemn realization of the importance of the hour of invasion was expressed in Chicago yesterday in prayers for the troops striking at Hitler's fortress and in renewed determination to fulfill responsibilities of the home front to the utmost. Nowhere was there any suggestion of celebration.

There were prayer meetings in the churches, in army and navy establishments, and in the schools. In the great war plants, which make the Chicago area the major war production center of the country, workers took a few minutes off to attend prayers and then redoubled efforts at their machines. Spokesmen for organized labor made new pledges that no strikes would be permitted to interfere with production.

Leaders Call for Action.

Gov. Green, Mayor Kelly, and army and navy commanders noted the earnest spirit of the day in statements calling for purposeful action. Besides the heightened tempo in the war factories, the response was noticeable in purchases of war bonds and in blood donations at the Red Cross bank.

Rear Adm. A. S. Carpender, commandant of the 9th naval district, said: "I have complete confidence in the success of the difficult operations now taking place. All our hearts and souls are with our fighting men in the trying days ahead."

Brig. Gen. John F. Davis, commanding the 6th service command in the temporary absence of Maj. Gen. H. S. Aurand, said: "With the real test on over there, we on the home front must not let our soldiers down in this crucial hour."

Prayers Held in Schools.

Public school pupils, at the direction of Mayor Kelly, stood for one minute of silent prayer. Thruout the day, news dispatches in specially edited resumes were sent over the school radios. In some schools, classes were dismissed and the pupils permitted to gather in assembly rooms for the broadcasts.

Organized labor—both CIO and AFL—made new pledges against striking, and their leaders asserted that the workers had a share in an objective too great to permit interruptions to production.

"The invasion is the important issue—the one issue right now—the supply line to our men on the battle fronts must be kept open every moment," said Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois State Federation of Labor.

Michael Mann, secretary of the CIO Chicago Industrial Union council, issued the instructions that resulted in prayer meetings in many war plants. Included in the instructions, which went to 36 CIO international unions with 200 locals in the Chicago area, was the resolution "to maintain steadfastly the CIO's no-strike pledge and increase production and go all the way in support of our boys and allies."

Union Leader Pledges Aid.

Albert Towers, president of the Chicago Industrial Union council, sent telegrams to President Roosevelt and Gen. Eisenhower promising "to go all the way to achieve a complete and speedy victory and to destroy once and for all the forces of fascism from the face of the earth."

The following message was sent by Joseph Mattson, director of region 4 of the United Automobile Workers [CIO], to 110 locals with 100,000 members in Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Nebraska, and North Dakota:

"Now that the western front has been opened, let all UAW CIO members resolve to work to produce as never before in support of our boys bearing the brunt of battle."

Industry and Labor Join.

The International Harvester company and the United Farm Equipment and Metal Workers of America [CIO] issued a joint statment: "We pledge we will maintain relations that will insure the increased and uninterrupted production necessary to back the invasion to the full." The 1,500 employes of the Hallicrafters company contributed two hours' work after their regular day.

The promise "to continue to do our best in every way to promote the war effort" was made by the management and the 25,000 employes of the Dodge Chicago plant division of the Chrysler corporation.

Employes of the Illinois division plant of the Bendix Aviation corporation, which makes carburetors for airplane engines, circulated a pledge not to be absent or late "until the invasion is over and Europe is won." Eighty per cent of the workers are women.

At the Aluminum Corporation of America's plant in Brookfield, where "skins" for warplanes are produced, the number of applicants for jobs increased 50 per cent during the day, L. R. Mercer, employment manager said.

Second Bond Bought by Woman.

A woman riveter at the Douglas plant, Mrs. Grace King Lee, 5121 Schubert av., bought a $1,000 bond Monday for the fifth war loan drive and yesterday she bought another of the same denomination.

Workers at both the Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. plants in the stock yards observed a minute of silent prayer at 11 o'clock.

Steel Plant Keeps Plugging.

Production was continued thru the day at the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation plant in Gary, where it was said that even two minutes out would be a serious loss.

It began as a slack day at the Red Cross blood bank, 5 N. Wabash av., with only 525 appointments scheduled of the 800 needed to maintain the daily quota. However, as the day wore on, a sharp increase in phone calls was noted and numerous persons who hadn't made appointments came in.

In Chinatown the Rev. Augustinius Yseu, pastor of the Chinese Catholic mission, 2302 Wentworth av., made up the slogan, "Step by step, Berlin next, then Tokyo." It was repeated by Won S. Lee, co-editor of the San Min morning paper, 2127 Archer av.

Briton Predicts Victory.

Wilfred Hanson Gallienne, consul general for Great Britain, said: "Only a few days ago I was with the British and American troops in England who are now fighting this supreme battle on the coast of France, and probably at my own home in the Channel Islands, where my family have been waiting four years for liberation. Victory is certain. Let us pray it comes soon and may God bless our gallant men."

Statements by other representatives of allied nations in Chicago included:

Henry Lageneste, French agency of the Committee of National Liberation: "This is the beginning of the end of the end of the sufferings of our people."

Jvan Rickstal, Belgian consul general for the middle west: "The invasion is beautiful news. May it hasten the liberation of the whole world."

Sigurd Maseng, Norwegian consul: "We are all thrilled about this and hope it [the invasion] will soon come to Norway. Norwegians are with the troops in the invasion, and I know they'll do their best."

J. I. Noest, Netherlands consul general: "Hundreds of thousands in the Netherlands stand ready to aid allied armies armies as soon as Holland is invaded. But even after the Germans are chased out of the Netherlands the war is not over for the Dutch. The Dutch East Indies must be liberated from the Japs."

Judges Invoke Divine Aid.

Superior court judges adopted a resolution presented by Judge John P. McGoorty invoking "God's aid to the success of our military forces" and praying for a peace "based upon the eternal principles of civil and religious liberty." Seven judges McGoorty, John F. Bolton, Robert E. Crowe, John C. Lewe, Peter H. Schwaba, U. S. Schwartz, and Donald S. McKinlay, have sons in the army or navy.

The Cook county council of the American Legion will pray for success of the invasion and plan a Legion observance at its regular meeting tonight, Commander William P. Kleuskens said.

The Communist Political association, which recently succeeded the Communist party, announced it had pledged itself to increase production and blood donations and to buy more bonds.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with the queries.]

J. E. B. writes: "We are producing on an average of 20 acres of wild digitalis which is an important heart drug extremely critical in the present war effort. On May 31, I received a letter from my local board informing me 'Your reclassification [from 2-A] previous to the termination of your fixed deferment date of June 14, 1944, was by national order on April 4 as covered by LBM 115. This order makes it imperative to reclassify all 2-A and 2-B men who passed their physical examination into 1-A. This board does not have the power to change that order and the only redress a registrant has is by submission of form 42-A [special] to the state director of selective service.' What I want to know is why . . . people like myself who are producing what it takes to keep them alive are drafted even against the best interests of the war effort and against the advice of all the experts?"

ANSWER: We are informed the production of 20 acres of digitalis is considered very substantial, and we can not understand why you were classified 2-A by your board instead of 2-C when obviously you are engaged in agricultural production. The 42-A special would be all right for war production or activities in support of the war, but it has no application whatever to agriculture nor does LBM 115 have anything to do with agriculture. This obviously is a case to be taken directly to the state director of selective service so he can put the board in line. If you were misclassified originally, it still is not too late for the local board to classify you properly and then apply the proper rules to your case.

S. I. O. asks: "When one gets ready to convert national service life insurance that has been in force for 47 months, is it possible to convert it on the basis of the age of the insured as of the 18th month?"

ANSWER: Yes, it is possible to make the converted insurance retroactive to the insured's age on the 13th month of the contract by paying up all at one time difference in the premiums between the two types of contracts. For example, on the 13th month of your five year level premium term insurance, your annual premium would be $8.41 per thousand at age 30, and two years later the annual premium on the ordinary life plan would be $19.53 per thousand, but if you had converted the insurance two years earlier the annual premium would have been $18.47 per thousand. While this difference would seem to be insignificant, it would amount to a considerable savings on $10,000 over a number of years.

T. A. A. asks: "Would being gassed in World War I. be the same as being wounded in so far as the Purple Heart award is concerned?"

ANSWER: Yes, if you were hospitalized at the time.

Tokyo Radio Goes Off Air, but Only to Shift Beam

San Francisco, Cal., June 6 (AP).—A brief suspension in shortwave broadcasts by the Tokyo radio today caused a flurry of excitement in invasion conscious America, but government listeners here said the Japanese had merely switched from one broadcast beam to another, a fairly common occurrence.

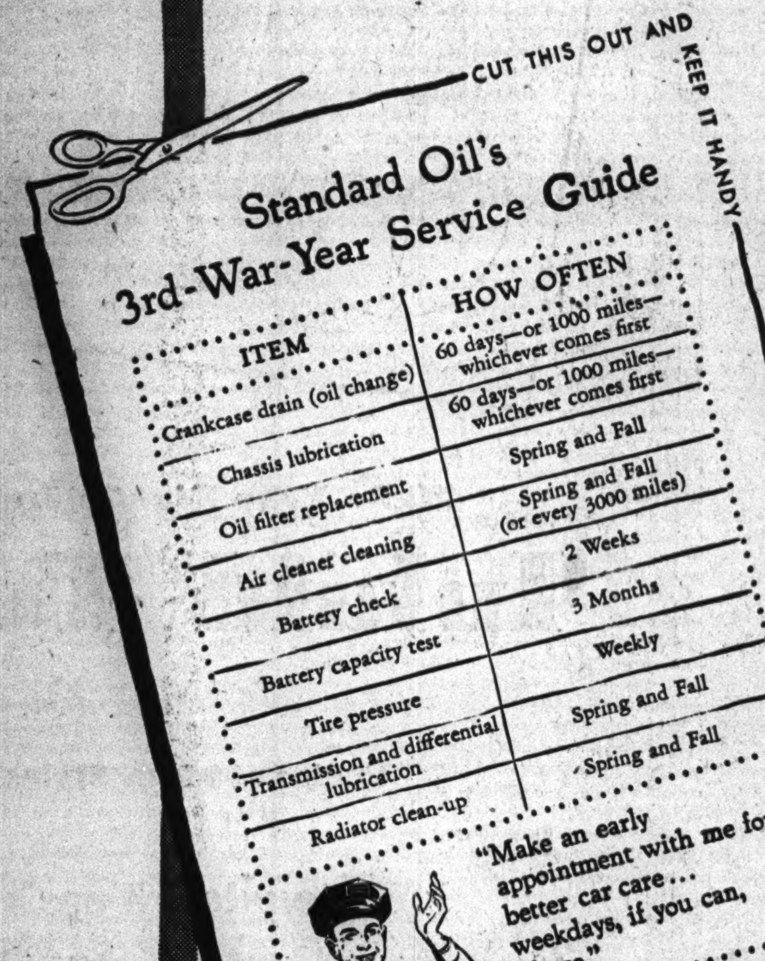
Mom and Pop and the Car...

60 DAYS
THE CLINK

"60 days! I knew that reminded me of something important, George, —the car needs an oil change!"



CUT THIS OUT AND KEEP IT HANDY

Standard Oil's 3rd-War-Year Service Guide

ITEM	HOW OFTEN
Crankcase drain (oil change)	60 days—or 1000 miles—whichever comes first
Chassis lubrication	60 days—or 1000 miles—whichever comes first
Oil filter replacement	Spring and Fall
Air cleaner cleaning	Spring and Fall (or every 3000 miles)
Battery check	2 Weeks
Battery capacity test	3 Months
Tire pressure	Weekly
Transmission and differential lubrication	Spring and Fall
Radiator clean-up	Spring and Fall

"Make an early appointment with me for better car care... weekdays, if you can, please."

Mom's dead right about getting the oil changed every 60 days—or at 1000 miles—whichever comes first. Fresh oil is cheaper than new bearings and a lot easier to get.

• • •

The average car was designed to operate best under continuous driving at high speeds on long runs. That kind of driving helped prevent excessive moisture condensation from getting into the crankcase and staying there to contaminate the oil.

• • •

That's why—under present driving conditions—oil change is the top item in your Standard Oil Dealer's 3rd-War-Year Service Guide.

What kind of man or woman would take a job like this?

HERE IS a tough job. With long hours. No pay. And little thanks.

Yet many a man and many a woman is gladly giving up spare time to take it on.

The Volunteer War Bond Warden. Starting June 12 he'll knock on your door or stop at your desk or your machine, swallow once or twice, and ask you to buy extra Bonds during this Fifth War Loan.

Why does he take the time to do it? Certainly it would be more pleasant to be sitting at home, smoking a pipe, reading a paper, or tending the garden.

But this Volunteer War Bond Warden is burning inside. He feels the crisis. He knows that now is the high point. Now is the agony. Now is the last turn of the screw. Now is the time to buy the Bonds you can't afford. The count is 3 balls and 2 strikes. The time is now. Now. NOW!

So when the Volunteer War Bond Warden comes to you, welcome him. And buy double the amount of Bonds you bought last time! We've got to!

A Special Message
to Chicago and Cook County

When the Volunteer War Bond Warden calls at your home, give him the largest subscription possible. Your block and community have a quota.

Your block will get credit for any of your purchases made at other places than your home, such as your place of business, your bank, church, theater, store or post office by your signing the RED, WHITE AND BLUE CREDIT SLIP provided by your Block Warden.

THE INVASION.

While the nation watches the invasion every one in the nation is thinking of some one in the invasion, son, husband, brother, or friend.

As a nation we are confident that glorious days are at hand. A mighty blow is being struck to free a score of peoples from slavery. As individuals we await the details anxiously, knowing that the battle will be won only at the cost of lives dear to us.

We are confident in our men, certain that whatever hazards they meet they will face them as American soldiers. We are confident in our army. We know that it has the finest arms in the world; that it is well trained; that our military leaders have left nothing undone that can contribute to its success. In the anxious days ahead we at home must emulate the courage of those in the midst of the battle and trust that a just God will favor those who fight in a just cause.

The first reports from France have been most favorable. The sea-borne transit was made without serious loss, thanks to the stupendous air and naval cover, and casualties on land are reported to be less than were anticipated. Our armored divisions are going ashore. Fighting has extended some miles inland from the beaches and it appears possible that the two great ports of Le Havre and Cherbourg may fall to us soon, thereby facilitating the landing of the rest of the invasion force.

Both the military and the civilian mind were greatly influenced by the Dieppe disaster. To the military mind it was a challenge to the invasion technique as it was practiced at that time, and the initial successes of the present allied expeditionary force indicate that the Dieppe lesson was digested well and with profit. To civilians Dieppe gave a false picture of invasion, a picture of riflemen and machine gunners fighting with their feet in the water and on narrow beaches against German pillboxes and forts. When the invasion came that was not the way we fought. We are past the beaches and our casualties are light, we are told.

The real crisis of the invasion is still to come. Hitler and his marshals would have been foolhardy to have massed at the shore enough of their strength to overcome our invading army of a quarter of a million. Had they massed their troops at one point we could have struck at another. It will take the Germans several days to gather a force sufficient to strike back at the troops we have ashore. When they do strike back the real battle for France will have been joined.

The problems of the allied command are tremendous. Those of Hitler are even greater. We may find hope in viewing the problem as he faces it.

Hitler is reduced to two hopes. One is that our armies will trip on their own shoestrings; that, having seized a gateway to France, we shall be unable to exploit our initial success by pushing our forces out vigorously and, most important of all, by keeping the great volume of supplies a modern army needs rolling forward rapidly. This, we may be reasonably confident, is a faint hope. Our supply arrangements in the African landing were wretched and might have caused defeat if the French had not stopped fighting. We have learned much from every campaign since then and supply problems have certainly been given the same careful attention and preparation that have been devoted to combat problems.

If our army does not stop itself Hitler must stop it. The supreme question is whether the German army can still muster the force and morale for a counter-attack on the grand scale necessary to hold an army as numerous, as well armed and trained, and as confident as the invaders are. We know from recent experiences in Italy that the German soldier is still a hard, tough fighter. We also know from experience on the eastern front that for a year the Nazi counter-attacks have never been able to muster the force necessary to accomplish their purpose.

Somewhere in France, not many days hence, the situation will arise in which one side or the other will have thrown in its last division and last battalion. That battle can well determine whether the war in Europe is to end this year.

NOTES ON WILD LIFE.

Inch worms are, as the name implies, small things, intrinsically and relatively. Ordinarily they would not be associated with a moral intention. They drop in on us about this time of the year along with the first mosquitoes when the peonies follow the lilacs on the year's circuit. The life purpose of the inch worm seems quite simple on casual acquaintance. He appears on a leaf and having eaten part of it is destined to hit out for the soil on a gossamer thread. That you find him on your neck may be less your misfortune than his. The distaste for this landing may be reciprocal. Your own is in the nature of a loathing.

An observance of the inch worm's ways discloses some contradictions. On his gossamer thread he may be some two or three feet on his way to the ground, or your neck, when he decides to return to the jump off and this requires a process of chinning himself which would win the admiration of any gymnastic performer. When the descent and the return have been achieved several times the inch worm's idea of a definite purpose in life becomes questionable. When he parks on the neck he carries a moral admonition we'd not expect from so small an animal.

We are, of course, aware that our Pacific and Burmese jungle fighters encounter animal and insect life in dangerous and repulsive forms and must learn to take what they find while they hunt out the fanatical Japs. Our civilian revulsion against the inch worm, the mosquito, and other discomforts of the summer garden might properly become a matter of self-reproach.

Are we unaware that there is a war on and have we no idea of proportions? Apparently not when after a half hour of uncertainty it is discovered beyond doubt that there is an inch worm on the neck. Any one who has seen an ant or two ants seize one of the inch worms and carry him off to the collectivized abattoir of a highly socialized life has seen one of the triumphs of insect over animal life. The mosquito offers another. No animal would be allowed to prowl the lot and drive the human being to live behind a fortification of screens. What the wolf can't do the mosquito can.

And so we come to the rabbit and what to do about him. He appears to say: "Garden, where is thy victory?" Some people have a formula of appeasement. They plant one particular delicacy for him and hope to keep him off the others. Then there is the school of counter-offensive with a .22. One bullet, ricocheting off a sidewalk, hit a neighbor in the leg. At first all was sympathy and understanding and congratulations that it wasn't an eye. But after 24 hours reflection, the more reliable elements of human nature asserted themselves with attorneys at law. The winnuh—the rabbit.

TOWARD AN ITALIAN REPUBLIC.

Victor Emmanuel is now king of Italy only in name. He has transferred all his royal prerogatives to his son and heir, Prince Umberto. The king had promised to take this step when Rome was delivered from the Germans. The speed with which the transfer was effected after the 5th army entered the capital suggests that the papers were prepared and signed many weeks ago, probably at the time Count Sforza and other advocates of an Italian republic agreed to serve as ministers. They sought at first to force an abdication not only of the king but of the royal house, but finally compromised on the terms which now seem to have been fulfilled.

The Italian people have not yet been consulted. Sooner or later they must be. There is no evidence to suggest that Victor Emmanuel's departure will be regretted. He never was a particularly popular king and his people can hardly forget that their present troubles stem from his coöperation with Mussolini at a time when the king could have refused to accept him as prime minister on constitutional grounds. Umberto, no doubt, inherits a good deal of the disfavor that attaches to his father.

It is therefore more than possible—it is probable—that if the Italian people are allowed to decide the question in a free election, they will do as the Icelanders did the other day and establish a republic. A great number of Italians must be looking forward with eagerness to the moment when a convention of the people's delegates can decide the nature of the new regime that is to govern their country.

Italians, better than most Europeans, are familiar with the advantages of the republican form of government. Millions of them know from their own experiences in America, or from the lips of relatives who have lived in America, that a society without hereditary castes and privileges is preferable to a monarchy. Moreover, these people know that Italians are not incapable of taking their part in republican government.

The Italians have seen that the American Republic won the war in Africa and Italy after the kingdoms had lost it. In so far as Italy is freed from the Germans today, it is thanks to the Republic. The lesson is a powerful one and it will be reinforced as time goes on.

THE CRADLE OF AMERICANISM.

If Republican voters save America from conquest by New Deal totalitarianism on Nov. 7 the middle west can claim a large share of the credit. The middle west led the renaissance of Republicanism in America because its leaders adopted American principles and refused to be swayed from them. In the east there is too much bipartisanship and compromise; too much yielding to the selfish, the voracious, the un-American.

It is not surprising that the rebirth of Republicanism and Americanism should have come in the middle west. Liberty always has been the tradition of the west. The Revolution had its many seaboard adherents, but New York City was the capital of the tories and the loyalists during the greater part of the American Revolution. A large part of the south in that day was disaffected as far as liberty and freedom were concerned.

It was only when the British and their loyalist allies penetrated into the west, in the back hills section of the Carolinas, that they met patriot heroes such as those who defeated Ferguson at King's mountain and Tarleton at Cowpens. Burgoyne's defeat at Saratoga was a western victory, too. History may repeat, and it may not, but the patriot fervor of populations, their love of liberty and freedom, passes down with the generations. The westerners of Revolutionary days kept going west. They settled the middle west and their sons and daughters have held the middle west for America and Americans ever since.

A lot of this "reconversion for peace" is going to be personal, beginning with a quick refresher course in an earlier principle that maybe the customer is right.—Hartford Courant.

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. Which one of these words breaks the train of thought?
   Peroxide Strawberry Olive Platinum
2. Which one of these terms includes the other three? Passion Rage Grief Emotion
3. Which one of these ancient world powers is associated with good roads?
   Greece Rome Egypt Babylon
4. Which one of the following has nothing to do with a house?
   Stubble Stucco Studding Stipple
5. Which one of these terms is inappropriate in this general grouping?
   Rabies Malaria Mosquito Swamps
6. Here is a practical medical problem in which you are to distinguish between the ailments in the left hand column which are due to glandular disturbance and those based on germs. Place a check mark under the appropriate heading for each. You deserve one point for each correct judgment.

	Glandular.	Germs.
Tuberculosis
Goiter
Diphtheria
Diabetes
Syphilis

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

ANSWERS.

1. Olive. 2. Emotion. 3. Rome. 4. Stubble. 5. Rabies. 6. Goiter and diabetes are glandular ailments. The others are germ.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

NOT THE FIRST TIME.

The historians with the allied armies in the taking of Rome, and their rewriters behind the lines, have proclaimed to the world that this was the first time the Eternal City had ever been captured in an advance from the south. Apparently they never heard about a general named Belisarius, who chased the Goths out of Rome A. D. 536, by the same route and in much the same way. The parallel, in fact, is exact: Rome held by unwelcome Teutons; same line of advance; same swiftness and ease of conquest; same joyous welcome by the liberated inhabitants; same hasty withdrawal of the garrison toward the north.

* * *

Belisarius led an army of the eastern and then better half of the Roman empire, and was an old Constantinople boy himself. He came into Italy from Africa after smashing the Vandals around Carthage, and on the road to Rome he took Naples by storm after a short siege. This campaign follows the pattern of the allied military operations of 1943-'44 so closely that it has deserved mention by the writers who have been experting for the allied liberators.

* * *

Captures of Rome were too frequent in that period for Gibbon to give the exploit of Belisarius much attention in his great work on the decline and fall. He puts it in a few words:

"As soon as Belisarius had fortified his new conquests, Naples and Cumae, he advanced about 20 miles to the banks of the Vulturnus, contemplated the decayed grandeur of Capua, and halted at the separation of the Latin and Appian Ways. . . . He preferred the Latin Way which, at a distance from the marshes, skirted in a space of 120 miles along the foot of the mountains. His enemies had disappeared: when he made his entrance thru the Asinarian gate; the garrison departed without molestation along the Flaminian Way, and the city, after 60 years' servitude, was delivered from the yoke of the barbarian."

* * *

Advice to war correspondents: It is never safe to make sweeping assertions about "first times" in the history of Rome.

THERE ARE SHADOWS.

There are shadows walking on the earth tonight;
Their ghostly footsteps gird the war-rent world,
To pause in shattered towns that once were bright—
In jungles where the smoke of battle swirled.
Their misty fingers touch the cross's mark
On fields where, lately, hallowed blood was shed;
And muted voices whisper, from the dark:
"Say no empty eulogies for us, the dead!
Is this, Lord, why man fights and why man dies?
To roam the world of shadows, ne'er to cease?
Or perished we to make man realize
Through ghastly war, the heav'nly joys of peace?
For when man learns, and war's alarms have passed,
Then can we restless shades find sleep at last."

Reverie at a Music Box.

On a table beside my bed stands a beautiful little chest of inlaid wood, expertly pieced together and highly polished. Its lovely exterior is but the temple of something lovelier within, and the turn of a key brings it to life. It is a Swiss music box.

At the close of a careworn day I have but to unleash its melody and lie receptive and pliable beside it to be carried away to an enchanted realm. With its "O Tannenbaum" I drift back to childhood Christmases on a small island in the North sea. The Barcarolle from "Tales of Hoffman" sends me down the Grand canal with a crooning gondolier. "Swanee River" comes out of the prickly brass cylinder and quickly I feel the clean brilliance of Florida about me, the pungency of her salty coastline, and the beatitude of her moss-hung trees.

Best of all is the "Blue Danube" waltz. As it tinkles sweetly from the heart of the music box the room is filled with exquisite Dresdenlike figures, dancing gayly with fervor and abandon. I see the Leopoldskron at Salzburg with its candlelight chandeliers, and Reinhardt, the host, effervescing as only those can who revel in the night and sleep in the day.

Seductive little wooden chest! Your music is silver and golden bells that bewitch the ear and lure your victim to rapturous dreaming. You point the way to pleasant memories, and promise to soothe future pain. How worthy your mission; how blessed your task!

SPRING SOLACE.

Bereft, dismayed, alone, and insecure,
I wept for what I could no longer claim,
For vanished love I wept, and then—Spring came!
Eternal Spring returned with soothing lure,
Wide fields their promise gave for rich and poor.
Caressing winds, rare sunset flame,
Wee twittering wrens, lilacs of purple fame,
These lovely things of earth could still endure.

When Spring comes back, no more the futile quest
For vanished joys, no more our fears remain.
We rise anew from earth's maternal breast
In smile of sun and lull of falling rain;
And vernal tide brings hope to hearts of men—
Prayers do avail, and peace will come again.

How to Keep Well

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SHINGLES, A BOTHERSOME VIRUS MALADY.

A GOOD many jokes are made about shingles but one who has suffered a rather sharp bout with the disorder will rarely see the point. It is a painful affliction at best.

What are we dealing with? The cause is a virus and the disease is strictly a poliomyelitis involving a posterior segment of the spinal cord. In this, it differs from infantile paralysis, which affects the anterior portions. There is probably no difference between the chickenpox organism and that which is responsible for herpes zoster. However, the species which brings on cold sores is another variety entirely.

Those who are overworked or rundown are more susceptible. Before the eruption is seen, the patient will complain of fatigue and pains in the chest, which may be mistaken for heart trouble. Then comes the characteristic discomfort, accompanied by reddening of the cuticle. As a rule, this is first observed on one side along the course of a nerve. Gradually, certain areas become more pronounced and, within a day or two, blisters will appear. New blemishes may continue to break out for three or four days.

The abdomen is not exempt; neither is the hip region. The ailment may be looked upon as unusual when the scalp or the forehead is attacked. Now and then, however, a fanshaped figure will manifest itself over one eyebrow, extending upward into the hair. We must always be on the lookout for eye trouble. In the presence of agonizing neuralgia involving the organs of sight, we must suspect complications. In such a situation the physician must be notified promptly. Careful attention is essential as inflammation of one of the eyes may ensue. Fortunately, such episodes are unusual. It is more common, however, to observe a distribution of the vesicles over the face, one cheek, the flare of the nose, and half of the lip or chin.

What to do is the dominant question. Calamine lotion, mildly reinforced with a drop or two of carbolic acid, makes an excellent application. The preparation will prove soothing and be sufficiently antiseptic to ward off the invasion of bacteria. Under this type of management the lesions dry up and healthy crusts will form which later may be covered with lanolin or some mild ointment.

Sedatives may be needed to control pain. Salicylates [aspirin] will handle ordinary sieges, where pain is not excruciating. Only rarely will opiates be demanded. One of the best plans to shorten the duration includes the employment of carefully filtered X-rays. The dose is light and, within a few hours, considerable relief may be experienced. Should the patient be confined to bed? Not if the case is mild. If temperature is present or suffering is severe, bed rest is imperative.

Just why the administration of a small amount of the patient's own blood is helpful, we do not know. This procedure, however, has been followed for many years. Five or 10 cubic centimeters are withdrawn in a sterile syringe and injected into the muscles of the buttocks. In like fashion, the use of thiamin chloride hastens recovery. Sometimes this compound can be given by mouth and is particularly valuable when the condition has a tendency to hang on. The system may not have quite enough power to throw off the infection completely. In such instances the malady may persist for months.

Day of Hope.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—You can't help thinking how scanty a knowledge of human nature was held by those persons who thought sirens should be sounded and joyous bells pealed when the hour of the invasion of Europe had come. Bells and sirens may have been sounded somewhere last night and today, but there were no bells, no sirens, no shrieks of joy here, and there are none now. All is grave.

Even the corner newsboys, who usually cry their headlines with wanton disregard for their worth, are not shouting. They just stack their papers on the sidewalk, and the people throng up hour after hour looking for a new headline, buy a paper, and walk on reading it in the bright sun. And all day long people have quietly wandered into the churches to pause a minute, utter a fervent silent prayer, and go on back to work.

For 128 years the doors of old St. John's, the little yellow stuccoed church separated from the White House by the trees and pigeons of Lafayette square, have been opened every day at 7 a. m. Usually the worshipers are church members, devout persons who come in singly at a stated time every day, to kneel in the cool, white interior between the numbered pews upholstered still in the dark red of a century ago and say the same prayers they have said all their lives, just as all the Presidents of the United States who have knelt there since James Madison have done.

No so today. Today hundreds drifted in to kneel, press a troubled head between throbbing hands, and utter the silent prayer that surged from their hearts and minds, the personal prayer, worded differently for every man, that all be well with all of ours.

And occasionally, every half hour or so, the assistant rector, a slender man with a frieze of gray hair and delicate, ascetic features, would come in, his tall figure clothed in a black cassock, to lead the clusters of worshipers in prayers that had been written by others. He, too, disregarded the routine prayers of the Episcopal church. He read those in his hand quietly and often with a catch in his voice, for his own son, young John C. Magee Jr., already was gone. He led the long array of young American aviators dead in this war, for he crashed with the royal Canadian air force back in December, 1941, but behind him he left one of the memorable poems of the war, his lovely "High Flight."

Mr. Magee read many prayers today, but there was one he read every time he appeared. It was written the other day by a young Washington lawyer, and it says a great many things well:

"Eternal God, hear us as we turn to Thee in this fateful hour. Thou alone dost govern all things; in Thy hands are the destinies of nations.

"We ask no victory but Thine: The triumph of good over evil, of freedom over slavery, of decency over brutality, and of order over chaos. . . . From Thee cometh the power which alone can discipline the desires and control the deeds of the victors. . . .

"Be with our men and women on land and in the sky and in every ship at sea. Sustain them in battle, and in hours of calm be Thou their rest. Make the strong humble, restore the weak, support the dying, receive the dead.

"And that these sacrifices may not be in vain, give to all peoples true penitence, clear vision, and a firm will for a just peace."

"When St. John's was built in 1816 the White House was still standing, half burnt by the War of 1812," says a pamphlet on the historic little church. "The old church saw the agony and confusion of the city in the four years of the war between the states, and in the first World war, and today it stands quietly as a place of peace. . . ."

PSEUDO-CITIZENS OF AMERICA.

Chicago, June 2.—The Polish-American congress "implores F. D. R. to help save homeland." Isn't America good enough for a "homeland"? Can't it replace their old homeland? Those who become naturalized citizens should, like the rest, forswear allegiance to their old homeland, and make America their only homeland.

How about having the Swedish-Americans, the Greek-Americans, the French-Americans, the Belgian-Americans, the Romanian-Americans, the Yugoslav-Americans, implore F. D. R. to save their homeland? We naturalized citizens must remember that America is now our only homeland, henceforth and forever. Let those in your old homeland educate their mass of poorer classes to the level that they will try to set up a government "of the people, by the people, and for the people," and, until they do, let them get along as best they can. Your pledge of allegiance to the United States of America is not a hollow mockery, to be forgotten when you read of Poland's suffering.

Where would America be if she were to champion the honor and rights of every oppressed country in the old world, just to please her pseudo-citizenry whose heartstrings are still imbedded in their old homeland?

SHORT-KIMMEL.

Chicago, June 3.—The current discussion over the Roosevelt administration's lengthening reluctance to put Adm. Kimmel and Gen. Short on trial recalls an expressive coinage from the pen of Shamus O'Slattery, epigrammatist laureate of California. "Don't 'short-kimmel' me"—is a more modern way of saying, "Don't make me the scapegoat."

This new word "short-kimmel" has gained considerable currency on the west coast and seems destined for inclusion in future English dictionaries. No New Dealer is likely to use it because of its obvious implication, but it would seem it is a new word the outspoken Republicans should not overlook in the Presidential campaign.

WANTS FORTHRIGHT CANDIDATES.

Indianapolis, Ind., June 2.—I know of many people who thoroly agree with Carl M. Rhodes about "reticent candidates." If Gov. Dewey and F. D. R. can't come out like men and face the people with their ideas and suggestions in a pre-nomination fight why should the people instruct delegates to vote for them? O. M. HENRY.

ABUSE OF POWER.

Camp Campbell, Ky., June 1.—As far as I can ascertain, the chief bone of contention between Mr. Avery of Ward's and the CIO union is the maintenance of membership clause in the union contract.

I was a working man before the war and probably will be one after the war, and I believe a union can be a good thing. But with the advent of labor tyrants and their abuse of power, I say thank God for a man who will stand up for the freedom and natural rights of the working man. There must be something radically wrong with a union that has to use the coercive power of the federal government to maintain its membership.

Freedom of choice and individual responsibility is the only safe and sound basis on which any organization within the nation can function. Since organized labor is recognized and protected by law from coercion and intimidation by employers, there can be no excuse for giving the unions power to coerce and intimidate workers. No other organization in the United States is given such power and the union's record of racketeering, monopolistic labor practices, unpatriotic work stoppages in war industries, and defiance of government authority when the safety of the nation and its fighting forces was manifestly at stake, all show clearly that under the present system of abuse such power is dangerous.

FARM WIFE ON STRIKES.

Carmi, Ill., June 2.—I am only a farmer's wife and really do not have the time to take out for this, but I just can't hold it any longer. What, if the farmers all went on a strike for a week [and if some of these people worked their hours from 5 a. m. to 7 p. m. every day and made their pay of $2.25 per day they would really howl] would happen, or what if the boys on the front lines quit for one hour? I say put these strikers in the front lines and bring the real Americans home.

MRS. HENRY C. DETTLING.

WHERE WERE BIDDLE AND THE WLB.

Beloit, Wis., June 3.—Regarding Gov. Bricker's active campaign for the Republican nomination for President, I cannot but recall a strike in a rubber factory in his state last summer that was permitted to drag along for about two weeks. I do not remember that he did anything to hasten its end, or to keep an imperatively needed war product in production. A. A. OGDEN.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. If questions are based on some previously printed problem a clipping of the article should accompany. Most of the replies are mailed. Letters bearing no name are disregarded. A self-addressed envelope will expedite handling.

WIFE INHERITS.

Chicago, Ill., June 5.—My husband died last month. In 1929, before our marriage, he made a will naming his sister sole heir and never changed it. Does this will still govern? R. E.

No. Marriage subsequent to the making of the will would revoke it. The surviving spouse could renounce the will and take instead the statutory share.

FOES SURPRISED BY FIRST BLOW, SAYS CHURCHILL

Progress O.K.; Loss Light; Heavy Fight Ahead.

LONDON, June 6 (AP).—Prime Minister Churchill said tonight that allied troops had penetrated in some cases several miles inland from the coast of France and that "this operation is proceeding in a thoroly satisfactory manner," with losses far less than anticipated.

In his second statement of this D-day, Churchill said he had been at centers where the latest information was received, and reported that "the passage of the sea has been made with far less loss than we apprehended."

He said it appeared that tactical surprise had been achieved over the Germans as the allies established lodgments "on a broad front."

"The resistance of batteries has been greatly weakened by the bombing of the air force, and the superior bombardment of our ships greatly reduced their fire to dimensions which did not affect the problem," he said, adding that "air-borne troops are well established and the followups all are proceeding with very much less loss than we expected."

Heavy Fighting Ahead.

After visiting supreme headquarters of Gen. Eisenhower with King George VI., the prime minister described those air-borne landings as "an outstanding feat on a scale far larger than anything there has been so far in the world. These landings took place with extremely little loss and great accuracy."

"Many dangers and difficulties which appeared at this time last night extremely formidable are behind us," Churchill said.

"All this, of course, altho very valuable, is a first and vitally essential step and gives no indication whatever of what may be the course of the battle in the next days and weeks, because the enemy will now probably endeavor to concentrate on this area. In that event, heavy fighting will soon begin and will continue."

4,000 Ships in Armada.

In his first report, the prime minister told a cheering house of commons "there is complete confidence in the supreme commander, Gen. Eisenhower, and in his lieutenants, and also in the commander of the expeditionary force, Gen. Montgomery."

Churchill told how the assault was launched by an armada of 4,000 ships and thousands of lighter craft, supported by 11,000 first-line planes, and added that "the whole process of opening this great new front will be pursued with the utmost determination."

The assault, he told commons, was "proceeding according to plan—and what a plan!"

Tactical Surprise Indicated.

"There are already hopes that actual tactical surprise has been attained, and we hope to furnish the enemy with a succession of surprises during the course of the fighting. The battle which is now beginning will grow constantly in scale and in intensity for many weeks to come, and I shall not attempt to speculate upon its course."

In a report on the campaign in Italy Churchill said the battle of the Anzio beachhead cost the allies 20,000 men and the Germans about 25,000.

GRANDMOTHER GETS DIPLOMA AT HIGH SCHOOL

Mrs. Chanie Durham, 65 year old Negro grandmother, received her high school diploma last night from Wendell Phillips Evening school, where she had a perfect attendance record for the six years required to complete the regular four year course. She was among the 12 high school and 38 elementary school graduates who were presented diplomas by William Abrams, principal, at the school's commencement exercises.

Mrs. Chanie Durham.

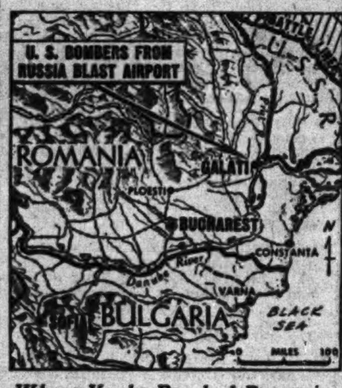
Mrs. Durham, who lives at 419 E. 48th pl., was born in Mississippi, one of a family of 17 children. She came to Chicago as a widow in 1923. She saw all her eight children complete high school and four of them earn college degrees before she decided to return to school.

Mrs. Durham said she planned to continue her studies in college if it is possible for her to do so. In addition to her high school diploma, she was awarded a medal for her perfect attendance.

Woman Awaiting Trial Hangs Self in Bridewell

Mrs. Helena Milicchio, 20, of 18 W. Huron st., hanged herself yesterday in the Bridewell, where she was being held pending trial in Women's court on a disorderly conduct charge. Supt. William G. Milotta of the Bridewell said she was a narcotics addict. The body was discovered by Mrs. Anne Sebek, matron in the women's section of the Bridewell.

Strike from Russia



Where Yanks Bombed Romania.

YANK BOMBERS BASED IN RUSSIA POUND GERMANS

Hit Air Base in 2d Leg of Shuttle Plan.

A U. S. BOMBER BASE IN RUSSIA, June 6 (AP).—Striking from bases in Russia for the first time in history, heavy bombers of the 15th United States air force today blasted a German airport at the Romanian city of Galati, at the mouth of the Danube river.

It was the second phase of the shuttle bombing over the Russian-German border by the Mediterranean based American heavy bombers which landed in Russia after hammering Debrecen, Hungary, last week.

The attack was in direct support of the Red army and the Flying Fortresses were escorted by both soviet and American fighters, as they were in the initial phase of the shuttle bombing. Red army ground crews helped G. I.'s load bombs and service the ships.

An official report said six enemy planes were shot down and two American fighters had not returned.

[A Berlin broadcast reported big air battles over Romania between Nazi fighters and bombers of the allied Mediterranean air force.]

Chicagoan Leads Raiders.

"The target was well hit," said the commander from Chicago after landing on Russian soil again. "I believe you will find the air field completely destroyed."

Asked if he had heard about the invasion he gasped and said:

"Boy! Has it really come off?"

Maj. John Morris of Oaklandon, Ind., a pilot, said he heard of the invasion while returning to the base after dropping his bombs. He said flak was light over the target.

Lt. Harry T. Leigner of Nashotah, Wis., learned of the invasion about the time he was crossing the Russian-German front. He said: "That's wonderful. Things are going fine."

Expect Red Blow in East.

MOSCOW, June 6 (AP).—The three year dream of a western land front came true for the Russians today when the allies invaded France.

The Red army was understood to be massing for its expected blow from the east to follow up the western assault.

[A German commentator broadcast from Berlin that a Russian offensive would open soon along the lower Dnestr. Other German commentators said multiple assaults could be expected.]

U. S. General Announces It.

News of the invasion was welcomed here with a heart warming reaction.

A joint announcement of the momentous western invasion was made to the soviet press by Maj. Gen. John R. Deane, chief of the United States military mission, and Lt. Gen. Brocas Burrows, chief of the British mission.

These men, who four days ago announced the arrival of United States bombers at a base in Russia, told the Russian people that the allies and the Red army would go forward to victory.

Repulse Nazis at Iasi.

LONDON, June 6 (AP).—Russian troops have repulsed new German attacks in the area north and northwest of Iasi, Romania, the broadcast soviet war report said tonight.

The ground fighting was supported by a mass air raid on the rail junction and military installations at Iasi, the bulletin added. Ninety fires were started among trains, station building and military stores.

During the day 49 German tanks were knocked out and 42 enemy planes shot down in the Iasi area, said the report recorded by the soviet monitor.

Moscow's midnight supplement to the war report indicated the Germans were weakening in the Iasi battle. It reported they have "suffered heavy losses and Tuesday brought into action comparatively smaller forces." It also said Baltic fleet planes sank three German transports and shot down 20 planes on Monday night.

Phone Firm Suit Charges $550,000 Subway Damage

TALK, TALK, TALK AND DOUBLETALK ON ALLIED RADIO

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 6.—The allied assault on the continent was marked by a new high in the battle of words. On all wavelengths and in all the European languages, American and British radio transmitters today kept up an offensive to hearten their friends and to break the morale of the enemy. They promised that liberation is near.

Underground movements were instructed in code and doubletalk. The Tribune correspondent listened in on one station beamed to France. "Philippe," whoever he might be, was told to expect "three peasants" who would visit him tonight. "The Three Musketeers" were told that "the professor has had a bad night" but that the "doctor" had had a good night.

Instructions Are Mysterious.

What it all meant was Greek to the uninitiated, but it was quite clear that precise instructions of some kind were being sent.

Invasion day meant record activity for other British Broadcasting company transmitter stations, too. The dramatic news of the invasion was broadcast to all parts of the world.

The allied radio broadcasts were supplemented by the activity of cargo planes dumping tons of propaganda pamphlets in every language on the peoples of the German occupied countries.

Altho Londoners had been kept awake from nearly midnight on until after daybreak by the thunderous roar of airplanes, bombers, and fighters heading for the channel or returning, and guessed "this is it," "D" day was unceremoniously announced by the Supreme Headquarters of the Allied Expeditionary Force two hours or so before the first official bulletin was released.

Warnings Given to Dutch.

It was the German radio which first told the news that the second front had been opened. The Nazis announced paratroops had landed behind the German lines.

The allied warning for the Dutch to keep away from a two mile coastal belt had carried the hint that immediate action was contemplated.

Official broadcasts sent out the alert to the people of Norway, Belgium, and France. These were followed by a broadcast by King Haakon [of Norway] and the prime ministers of Belgium, the Netherlands, Poland, and Luxembourg.

The German radio thruout the day kept up its fishing for information from allied headquarters. German propagandists said that life continued normal in Berlin, "with no excitement, no extra editions, no special radio announcements."

The German press chief was quoted as saying the allies had started the invasion "on the order of Moscow."

Georgia Returns School Fugitive, Another Gives Up

James Graver, 16, of 6830 Peoria st., a fugitive from the Illinois State Training School for Boys, near St. Charles, was returned yesterday from Hazelhurst, Ga., and locked in the Kane county jail at Geneva on a charge of automobile theft. William Craig, 16, of 6446 Yale av., who fled from the training school Sunday night, surrendered yesterday to Richard Eddy, its director.

FLEES HOSPITAL AT ELGIN.

William Mattingly, 19, of 1155 Erie st., escaped yesterday from the Elgin state hospital, where he was committed Thursday after pleading guilty to a tavern robbery in Gabery, near Kankakee.

NEWS WRITERS HELD 8 DAYS TO AWAIT INVASION

General Tells Tribune Men He'll Help.

BY DON WHITEHEAD.

AN INVASION SHIP, June 3 [Delayed] (AP).—Newspaper correspondents accompanying American assault forces were whisked out of London May 29 with only an hour's notice—and so tight was the secrecy that none knew whether he was heading for the real show or just another exercise.

Altho all had been waiting for weeks to be called to join the units to which they had been assigned, almost every one was taken by surprise when the call finally came.

I received a telephone call at my London flat at 9:30 a. m. and Lt. Col. Jack Redding, a former Chicago reporter, chatted casually for a while, and then said, "I'd like you to come over in an hour, and it would be a good idea to bring along a musette bag. You might go out of town for a day or two."

General Promises Help.

The other correspondents were at Redding's office when I arrived.

John Thompson of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and I met the commanding general of the unit. He gave us the warmest welcome ever received in any outfit.

"Regard yourselves as members of this unit," he said. "You have complete freedom of movement, and I want you to get all the information you can. The people at home won't know what is happening unless you are given information and I want them to know.

"You both know how to take care of yourselves and won't forget to duck. But if an unlucky shell should get you we'll do all we can. If you're wounded we'll take care of you. If you're killed we'll bury you. Meantime, we'll feed you and see that you get what you want."

Rescues His Money.

John O'Reilly of the New York Herald Tribune remarked that he had sent a thousand dollars in money orders out to be pressed in a pocket of a suit. He was permitted, under escort, to return to his hotel to salvage the money orders, and others were given escort to pick up forgotten papers or uniforms. No one was allowed to leave the hotel room except under escort.

We were given an overseas visa which said "No correspondent may quit the overseas theater during the validity of this overseas visa without the express permission of the supreme commander."

Then we were loaded into jeeps and under the watchful eye of a security officer began the long drive from London. Only Lt. Sam Brightman knew where we were going.

Writers Split Up.

The next day the 20 correspondents split up to join various units. We were driven by back roads and winding lanes to avoid towns, and were finally delivered to the unit which was making preparations to board ship.

"I've been throwing another extra sock in my bag each time I heard the rumor we were leaving," said Maj. Owen B. Murphy of Lexington, Ky. "Now that you boys have shown up I guess it's official this time."

Among the girls operating a Red Cross clubmobile at the unit headquarters was Webb Roosevelt of Kansas City, Mo., recently married to Capt. Quentin Roosevelt.

RUSSIA AGREES TO LET JAP SHIP GET YANK AID

Washington, D. C., June 6 (AP).—The soviet government has agreed to permit a Japanese ship to enter a specified Russian port near Vladivostok to pick up relief supplies for American prisoners in the orient.

In making this announcement today, the state department said stocks of supplies sent to Russia last year have been awaiting transportation, and it is hoped that they will be distributed soon.

AVERY CHARGES CONSPIRACY OF U.S., RACKETEERS

Calls Ward Seizure Fake and Hypocrisy.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—Sewell L. Avery, 69 year old chairman of Montgomery Ward & Co., pounded his fist on a table and told congress today why he refused to surrender the company he heads to the administration until soldiers bodily carried him from the plant.

"The seizure," he said, "was illegal. It was hyprocisy. It was fake. Why did I resist? To halt the march toward dictatorship in this nation. And to protest against a conspiracy by the government and union racketeers to take over private business.

"This administration has for 12 years smeared those who have fought for the rights of private citizens. I was one victim. I acted, sirs, in the interest of liberty and for the welfare of the nation."

Uses Scorn and Humor.

The uncompromising industrialist thus stated his case calmly and forcefully to the special house committee investigating the government's seizure of the Ward plant in Chicago April 25. The plant was returned to the company on May 9.

Thruout an all-day session, speaking sometimes with scorn, often with a shaft of humor, Avery drove home his thesis that this administration, and President Roosevelt himself, are seeking to destroy the liberties guaranteed American citizens under the Constitution.

"The President," he said, "to force Ward's to obey an order known to his advisers to be unfair and illegal ordered Ward's property seized by force.

Usurpation of Power.

"The President's action was the usurpation of a power not granted him by congress and denied him by the Constitution he was sworn to uphold and defend.

"The seizure of Ward's plant developed a spontaneous and continuing public indignation. This indignation is easily interpreted. A free American people will not accept dictatorship."

The company chairman took up and challenged, point by point, the contention of Atty. Gen. Biddle that the administration acted legally in seizing Ward's as a "war plant" without seeking court authority for the action.

Not a War Plant.

The company, Avery said, is a retail concern and in no sense a war plant. Hence, he continued, the war labor board had no authority to settle its labor dispute and the government had no power to seize.

The WLB and other New Deal agencies, by falsely charging the company with anti-labor policies and law defiance, "conspired" to seize the company and "enforce an order which they knew to be illegal and unfair."

The agencies, he continued, "with the approval of the President have acted to give illegal and unfair assistance to the CIO union at Chicago."

Avery, in a graphic account of the conversation in his private office immediately preceding his ejection on April 27, disclosed that Biddle himself gave the order to the soldiers to carry him out. Biddle recently denied this before the committee and claimed Wayne C. Taylor, undersecretary of commerce, had given the order.

Spurned Biddle "Advice."

The attorney general, Avery said, told him he was the "only man in the country" who had resisted a seizure order and started to "advise me."

"I want none of your damned advice," Avery said he told Biddle. The attorney general then turned to the soldiers, standing by with fixed bayonets, according to Avery, and shouted: "What are you waiting for? Throw him out."

Avery said the soldiers advanced and he told them he "wouldn't move an inch," whereupon one of the federal officials shouted "throw him out."

"I Rode Out."

"The soldiers picked me up and in that situation I rode out," the witness said.

Just before this episode, Avery said, Commerce Undersecretary Taylor called him to one side and urged him to leave the plant voluntarily.

"Mr. Taylor said he had talked by phone with Mr. Jones [secretary of commerce] and that Jones said he'd give his right arm to prevent this thing happening. I walked away after telling Mr. Taylor I could readily understand Jones' state of mind."

Cites "Merry Trick."

The witness said that thru some "merry trick which I can't understand," the federal court in Chicago did not rule on the legality of the seizure, obstensibly, he added, because the plant was returned the day before the court ruling by Judge William Holly was promised.

"The court supinely said, 'it's moot'," Avery added.

Testimony by Avery and two other Ward officials who appeared today will be continued tomorrow.

SONS IN PACIFIC SUE MOTHER ON WHEELER'S WILL

Leslie and Henry Wheeler, brothers, filed suit in Lake county Circuit court yesterday to test whether their mother, Mrs. Clarence C. Prentice, of 20 S. Mayflower rd., Lake Forest, is complying with their father's will in the payments she is making to herself from the estate.

Leslie Wheeler Sr., a manufacturer and sportsman, who died in February, 1937, and left an estate of $1,450,000, directed that his widow, niece of the late James A. Patten, wheat king, should receive income sufficient for her needs from the estate for 21 years and thereafter the entire income. Mrs. Wheeler is trustee of the estate under the will. On her death the estate is to be divided equally between the two sons.

Leslie Wheeler Jr., 26, is a lieutenant on submarine duty in the Pacific, and Henry, 24, is an officer in the marines in the Pacific. Their mother was married to Prentice in April, 1939.

150 ALIENS MADE CITIZENS OF U. S. ON INVASION DAY

The impact of the invasion was evident yesterday in the federal District court of Judge Michael L. Igoe, where 150 aliens, many of them German and Italian, had gathered to take their oaths of citizenship.

Many of the new Americans wept. Judge Igoe spoke of the meaning of their new status.

"The news that you have read in today's newspapers," he said, "will give you, I am sure, an increased feeling of patriotism. I hope you will all pray for the success of the mission on the European continent, and for the welfare of our young men overseas."

Poles, Russians, Lithuanians, Austrians, Hungarians, Greeks, Yugoslavs, Turks, Swiss, Scots, Canadians, Chileans, Romanians, Swedes, and Irish were in the group.

ASSERT CHICAGO MAKES 450,000 INVASION ITEMS

Area Leads in Weapon Output, Says U. S.

Federal officials yesterday lauded Chicago's industries and workers for their part in producing a wider variety of war materials for the allied attack on Europe than any other city in the world, but cautioned against "even an hour's letdown" until the capitulation of Hitler and the German armies.

Praise was voiced by John Nuveen Jr., regional chairman of the war production board; William H. Spencer, man power director of three states; Edgar L. Warren, regional head of the war labor board, and Brig. Gen. Franklin O. Carroll, head of the army air forces' material command here.

Sees End of "Unrest."

Warren predicted "the recent wave of industrial unrest will disappear completely," and declared that "there can be no place for disputes or differences between employer and employe which would affect to the slightest degree our national morale or the production of war materials, and I am sure they both realize this."

Gen. Carroll said Chicago plants in conjunction with the army have made "the greatest engineering and production effort in history" and have provided "the staggering total of 450,000 separate items."

War "Far from Won."

"This war is far from being won," he said. "We still need thousands more planes and thousands of new items of equipment, to get which will require the help of every person in war production. This is not the time to relax."

Spencer said the Chicago area "is doing a magnificent job, and the day to day news from Europe will provide incentive for increasing output to a peak that only yesterday would have been called impossible.

New Battle Incentive.

"I hope this new battle, with its inevitable cost in lives of our own people, not only foreshadows ultimate victory," he said, "but will prove to our workers they must not slow down for a moment the flow of munitions so that our armies can overcome the enemy by sheer force of arms and equipment alone. Better too much than too little this time."

Nuveen warned that even after Germany is beaten "we shall have another member of the axis to fight, and we will continue to need all-out production until that war is over."

SCHOOLS START U. S. VETERANS TRAINING PLAN

Training of disabled veterans of this war in Chicago public schools has been started under a contract signed with the veterans' administration, James B. McCahey, president of the board of education, disclosed yesterday.

Six students are enrolled at the Dunbar Vocational school, 14 at Washburne Trade school, and one each at Chicago Teachers college, Herzl and Wilson Junior colleges. More are being enrolled almost daily and by next fall 100 veterans, being paid during their training by the federal government, are expected to be taking trade and other courses in Chicago schools.

Under the contract the schools are paid $33 a month for each student.

DAD AWARDED BABY'S CUSTODY IN 'KIDNAP' CASE

Rudolph J. Skala, advertising executive, yesterday was awarded custody of his daughter, Marilyn Lee, 16 months old, until 10 days after his divorced wife, Mrs. Ella Skala, of 7701 Stewart av., leaves the Englewood hospital, where she recently gave birth to another daughter.

The temporary custody arrangement was ordered by Judge Robert J. Dunne in Circuit court, who also ordered that Marilyn Lee be returned to the home of Skala's mother, Anna, at 10509 Claremont av., by noon today.

Mrs. Mildred Havelka of 3150 Cermak rd., an aunt, acting on the mother's request, took the child from the grandmother last Friday and left it with other relatives. When the Skalas were divorced May 23, Mrs. Skala was given custody of Marilyn Lee except on week-ends, when the father was to have her. This custody rule will return to effect 10 days after she leaves the hospital.

COUNTY HIRES BANK CASHIERS FOR TAX RUSH

County Treasurer Schlaeger said last night that five cashiers on vacation from the First National bank will start temporary jobs in his office this morning helping his six regular cashiers collect tax bills.

Five other cashiers from the National Cash Register company are expected to join the county's staff temporarily within a few days, Schlaeger said.

Approximately 7,300 persons, principally small home owners, paid $400,000 yesterday on 1943 personal property and real estate tax bills, bringing the total collected to more than four million dollars.

BUNDIST FACES QUIZ TODAY IN SEDITION TRIAL

U. S. Ends Examination of Waukegan Witness.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 6.—The prosecution today completed direct examination of its first witness in the trial of 29 persons charged with conspiring with the Nazis to aid in establishing a National Socialist form of government in the United States.

When proceedings are resumed at 10 a. m. tomorrow, the defense will begin what promises to be an extensive cross-examination of the witness, Peter Gissibl, a Waukegan, Ill., tailor, who was one of the leaders of the German-American bund in Chicago.

Quizzed on Bund Order.

Gissibl was questioned today about a Nazi order to the bund to put American citizens in official positions in the organization, displacing German nationals. He said the Nazis issued this order because German nationals holding bund offices had embarrassed the German government and the German embassy.

Gissibl also testified that he made a speech in 1938 before Nazi party members at the German foreign institute at Stuttgart, Germany. He was not questioned about the subject of his speech.

A photograph with the underline "A Jew, like a louse, is a pest in the house," appearing in March, 1935, in the Nazi publication, Der Stuermer, was passed around the jury at the end of the session. No explanation was given for its introduction into evidence at this time.

Before the session began word was circulated that Edward James Smythe, one of the defendants, intended to ask the court to halt the proceedings for a minute of silent prayer for success of the invasion. It was understood, however, that Smythe's attorney told him he "lacked the proper dignity" to make such a request, and none was made.

DRAKE MURDER INQUEST HELD UP UNTIL AUG. 1

The inquest into the fatal shooting last Jan. 19 in the Drake hotel of Mrs. Adele Starr Williams was continued yesterday by Coroner Brodie until Aug. 1. Present at yesterday's session in the county morgue was the victim's husband, Frank Starr Williams, former diplomatic attache at the United States embassy in Japan. Mrs. Williams was slain by a mysterious woman intruder who fired on Mrs. Williams and her daughter, Mrs. Patricia Goodbody. No clew to the slayer's identity has yet been found.

HAUPT TREASON CASE WILL GO TO U. S. JURY TODAY

A federal court jury of six men and six women today will be given the treason case against Hans Max Haupt, charged with giving aid to his son, Herbert Haupt, a Nazi saboteur who was executed after failing to damage war plants. He is on trial before Judge John P. Barnes.

In closing arguments, Richard G. Finn, assistant federal attorney, said the jurors should have no doubt that young Haupt, on the first night after he returned to Chicago from Germany, told his parents of the plot to destroy vital factories. That plot, he said, was planned carefully and, if successful, would have hampered war production seriously.

"The doors of every citizen must be closed to enemy agents of the type of young Herbert Haupt," said Finn. "If they do not receive aid and comfort they will not be able to go about their treasonable work."

Attorneys spent the morning in Judge Barnes' chambers agreeing on the 64 instructions to be given the jurors today after the defense completes its final arguments.

Slayer of Sailor Husband Declared Insane by Jury

Mrs. Jane Anna Duffin, 24, of 3739 Emerald av., who last May 20 shot and killed her husband, Patrick, a discharged sailor, was found insane yesterday by a jury in the Criminal court of Chief Justice Benjamin P. Epstein. Assistant State's Atty. Samuel Freedman said that a murder indictment against Mrs. Duffin will be dismissed.

MAYOR MAY CUT RED TAPE IN USE OF AMBULANCES

Action to cut "red tape" involving the use of city-controled ambulances was indicated by Mayor Kelly yesterday as the result of an incident Monday when a city laborer whose left leg was amputated by a crane turntable was refused the use of an ambulance by Fire Capt. Michael Boyle at No. 93 engine house, 330 W. 104th st.

In his report to Chief Fire Marshal Mullaney, Capt. Boyle explained that he sought permission from three superiors before it was obtained and that by that time a private ambulance had been called and had taken the laborer, Dominick Kadlubowski, 56, of 12008 Indiana av., to Roseland Community hospital. About seven or eight minutes elapsed before permission was granted, Capt. Boyle said.

Kadlubowski's leg was caught between the turntable and the crane bed while he was helping to unload coal at the Roseland pumping station, 351 W. 104th st. James W. Beatty, chief operating engineer, said yesterday: "I don't blame Capt. Boyle. I think somebody downtown was in error."

Kadlubowski was "holding his own," his physician said.

New Sugar Stamp, No. 32 in Book 4, Valid June 16

The office of price administration announced yesterday that sugar stamp 32 in ration book 4 will become valid June 16 for five pounds of sugar, continuing the present rate of five pounds per person every two and one-half months.

2 FOOD STORES ARE SUSPENDED 20 DAYS BY OPA

Two food stores owned by Arnold Frank, at 2433 and 3043 W. 63d st., yesterday were suspended for 20 days each from dealing in rationed commodities by John R. Allen, office of price administration hearing commissioner. Frank was charged with misrepresenting the number of points in his ration bank deposits. The OPA said he reported he had 549,931 points when he actually had only 174,962.

Allen also imposed a suspension of 15 days on the Ravenswood Food mart, 4554 Ravenswood av., for an alleged overdraft of 31,000 points, and one of seven days on Sam Friedman, owner of Goranson's Food store at 3249 North av. Friedman was charged with selling at over ceiling prices and failing to collect ration stamps. His suspension covered processed foods and cheeses only.

In wartime, is cleanliness next to...impossible?

ARE your laundry problems a headache these days? Even if you know the ropes, busier days and fewer conveniences probably add to your washing troubles.

And if you're doing your wash for the first time, as so many women are, you undoubtedly face many questions you can't answer.

Even the simplest family wash is far from simple for a beginner. And as for blankets—few women ever got the hang of washing the old ones, let alone these new rayon-and-cotton-and-wool combinations.

What price...oh what price cleanliness?

We at Good Housekeeping, realize how hard it is to keep clean nowadays and we're doing our level best to help make it easier for you.

Every day is washday here. We're always washing—anything that's washable—and always with you in mind.

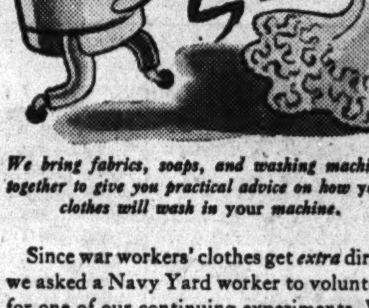
We're constantly comparing various laundering methods—for whiteness retention, for tensile-strength loss, for iron-stain removal, and for general all-around cleaning efficiency.

We take in family washing

To match your work-a-day problems, we have set up a plan that duplicates the usual U. S. household conditions. A carefully selected group of families send us their wash regularly. They're typical families, with the normal laundry problems of busy American homes.

Their wash comes to us just as yours would go to a commercial laundry.

Every batch sheds more light on your problem of keeping clean in wartime—with the least expenditure of time and energy, with the least damage to clothes.



We bring fabrics, soaps, and washing machines together to give you practical advice on how your clothes will wash in your machine.

Since war workers' clothes get extra dirty, we asked a Navy Yard worker to volunteer for one of our continuing experiments. We bought all his work clothes and washables. Then we did all his laundry for six months—did it by different methods, timed each job, noted the results.

All this was done so that our laundry advice to those of you who are war-workers' wives would be based upon sound experience, not on guesswork.

Your blanket problems are ours

Another thing you find in our laundry workshop these days is blankets.

All-wool blankets, rayon-and-wool blankets, rayon-and-cotton-and-wool blankets are being washed. We wash them by hand; in regular washers; and in automatic washing machines.

They're being dried in the air, in tumbler driers—such as commercial laundries use—and in regular home driers.

Why? So that we can tell you (from experience, not hearsay) what things to look for and what to avoid when you buy blankets; tell you how to keep blankets clean, how to make them last longer.

Finding the facts

It may take months of study to provide the data for a single page in Good Housekeeping. But when that page appears every statement on it is a fact substantiated to our satisfaction by the most painstaking investigation.

It is this sort of thorough-going analysis, we feel, that has helped Good Housekeeping earn your respect and confidence.

"Find the facts," we tell each scientist, technician, home economist, and research expert on our staff. And just as we work to find the facts for our editorial pages, so, too, we investigate the products advertised in Good Housekeeping, and the performance claims made for them.

Don't worry, it's just a test! These mats will help tell us whether the new water-repellant finishes really resist stains and watermarks.

Do bluing spots leave you blue? We're looking for ways to eliminate this laundry nuisance by comparing different bluing methods.

Over the years, the Good Housekeeping Guaranty Seal has become a symbol of reliability to millions of American women. We intend to deserve and hold that reputation for reliability. This intention we have put in the form of a pledge to you—a pledge we propose to repeat so long as there is a Good Housekeeping Magazine:

That at no time, and not for any reason, or any profit, will any page of Good Housekeeping—editorial or advertising—trade unfairly on your trust.

CONSTIPATION GONE WRITES INVENTOR!

"4 years' use convinces me nothing helps like KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN"

This true incident may bring new hope to constipation sufferers. Read this unsolicited letter!

"Some of my friends were talking about a laxative ad in the Post. I cut in and insisted there's nothing like ALL-BRAN—and told them how it has helped keep me out of a condition I was in 4 years ago. Then they told me the ad they were discussing was an ALL-BRAN ad—they told me I should have a medal for spreading the good news about ALL-BRAN — which had helped these friends too." W. J. McLaughlin, 605 2nd No. St., Camden, N. J.

Scientists say KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN can really "get at" a common cause of constipation—lack of sufficient "cellulosic" elements in the diet—because it is one of Nature's most effective sources of these elements. They work by helping the friendly colonic flora to fluff up and prepare the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is not a purgative medicine — but a wholesome, gentle-acting, "regulating" food.

If you have constipation of this type, eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN or several ALL-BRAN muffins regularly. Drink plenty of water. See if you don't cheer its welcome relief. Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

Growth Brings Its Changes in Child Behavior

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

A conscientious father writes the following letter:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"We are badly in need of advice on how to cope with our 8½ year old daughter who seems to have developed an attitude of laziness and forgetfulness. She is not dumb, yet she appears to be living in a dream world and has no speed or alertness. It is especially noticeable in contrast with our youngest daughter of 4 years who is vivacious, alert, and fast. Also, of late we have caught our oldest daughter lying to cover the mentioned deficiencies.

"We would be deeply grateful for any help you can give us or make available to us."

Altho a personal reply was sent to the father who wrote this letter, the situation is one that arises in other families.

The first, and I believe most illuminating, comment I can make has to do with the great difference that age brings about in children. If you understand that, it sheds a light on what is otherwise absolutely baffling behavior, and as a result makes it possible for you to treat your child in a more intelligent and more humane way.

So in this particular case it is usual as well as normal for a 3 or 4 year old to be bubbling and energetic, affectionate and docile, and quick in physical movements. Also, at that age little children are interested in everything under the sun, especially things about home.

In contrast, the stage of growth and development, which occurs at around 7, 8, and 9, often results in just the very kind of behavior that the older little girl in this family is manifesting. Heedlessness and forgetfulness are almost always linked with any tale about our "in-between" children. At this age also comes a change of interest. All the little things which fascinate the very young child, lose some of their charm when you get to the age of 9. Especially if the child is imaginative, a sort of wool-gathering habit may take possession of a boy or girl for awhile.

So you see there is a perfectly normal difference which must be accepted. In addition, no two children in a family should be expected to be alike, and one child should never be favored over another.

Nine Northwest Side Schools Honored for Paper Salvage Work

Nine northwest side elementary schools were honored at a luncheon yesterday for their collection of waste paper in a special drive recently which brought in a half million pounds of salvage paper. The luncheon was held at the Northwest Lions' club, 4306 North av., and trophies amounting to $500 were awarded jointly by the club and Mike Rotunno, chairman of the program.

The top ranking school, Funston, won a victory trophy, and its highest paper collector, George Ronning, received a watch. Lloyd school, second place winner, received a smaller trophy. Watches, clocks, dresser sets, and war bonds were awarded to the pupils of the seven other schools—Nixon, Nobel, Stowe, Lowell, Mozart, Orr, and Cameron.

John R. Robinson of the Chicago Newspaper Publishers' association and Miss Nellie Ryan spoke.

Women in War Work

By Dorothy Johnson

Henry F. Tenney.

Solemnly aware of the increased responsibilities which the invasion of the European continent by American military forces has placed upon them, 1,600 of the 70,000 Chicago women volunteers yesterday attended the annual luncheon meeting of the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross, the largest single unit in the United States, in the Grand ballroom of the Stevens hotel.

Agenda of the session included executives' reports of the chapter's services in the last year, the election of officers, and tributes to the volunteers, women serving in 10 corps who have contributed 10,877,440 hours of work in the chapter year just ended.

James B. Forgan, outgoing chairman of the chapter and its leader for 20 years, presided over the first part of the meeting, later turning the gavel over to Henry F. Tenney, newly elected chairman, who called upon members of the board of directors for resolutions according special recognition to workers who have given outstanding service.

Among those so recognized were Mrs. James A. Cathcart, for three years head of volunteer special services and yesterday elected as vice chairman of the chapter, the first women to be so named, and Miss Marie Youngberg, director of home service, who has been reassigned as assistant national director of the corps.

Officers elected to guide the chapter in the coming year, in addition to Mr. Tenney and Mrs. Cathcart, are Edward K. Wells, vice chairman; Col. A. A. Sprague, treasurer, and Norman D. Stockade, secretary and assistant treasurer. Miss Harriet McLaughlin was named to succeed Mrs. Cathcart as head of volunteer services.

The principal luncheon speaker was James T. Nicholson, national director of the Junior Red Cross, director of personnel for the national Red Cross, and its vice chairman.

Recently returned from a tour of war theaters, where he observed Red Cross field workers in their relations with men in uniform, he gave the assembled volunteers a reassuring account of the care which American men receive in the field and of the sympathy and understanding extended to fighting men by Red Cross workers.

Taking special notice of D day, Mr. Nicholson told his audience of the greatness of the G. I. and the gob, and the jobs they are doing. "We must rededicate ourselves on this day to the goal we have set," he said.

Other speakers included Mrs. Cathcart, who gave a resume of volunteer services; Miss Youngberg, who traced the home service corps' increased aid to men in uniform and their families, and Mr. Tenney, who said, on assuming office: "I feel privileged to serve on a winning team."

Bishop Bernard J. Sheil, senior bishop of the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago, gave the invocation. Military personnel at the speakers' table included Lt. Comdr. Robert C. Eardley of the coast guard, Capt. Reginald P. Hervieux of the marine corps, Col. Robert Gardner of the army, and Capt. Marshall Collins and Capt. John E. Johnson, chaplain, both of the navy.

Honor Students See Chicago as Tribune Guests

BY JUNE GESERICK.

Forty-eight high school seniors from Chicago and the five Chicagoland states were guests yesterday of THE TRIBUNE during an all-day program of activities, which included their own presentation of plans for the future thru the W-G-N radio program, Citizens of Tomorrow, which will be broadcast at 1:30 p. m. Sunday.

The students, all members of the "Citizens of Tomorrow" honor roll and leaders in scholastics and extracurricular activities in their respective schools, arrived early and were met by Philip Maxwell, organizer of the youth program and master of ceremonies.

As special guests of the Rotary club of Chicago at a luncheon in the Hotel Sherman, the 48 youthful leaders heard an address by Andrew Jackson Higgins, ship and aircraft builder, and in turn told Rotarians what they, as citizens of tomorrow, plan for the future. Thruout the day waiters, clerks, and other workers with access to radios, were besieged by the students with requests on "What's new on the invasion?"

A motor coach met the students at the hotel after the luncheon and whisked them to the Adler planetarium, where they heard a special lecture and demonstration by the planetarium's director, Miss Maude Bennot. At the close of the lecture, they were taken by bus to the W-G-N studios, where they made a recording of the "Parade of Ambition," which will be heard Sunday on the "Citizens of Tomorrow" broadcast.

Stanley Johnston, Tribune war correspondent, spoke at a dinner given for the young guests in the evening in the Hotel Sherman. Later they were guests of Frank and A. L. Bering, owners of the Sherman, in the Panther room, the first visit for most of them in a Chicago night club.

Altho the schedule for their day accounted for all but a few minutes, some of the out-of-town guests managed to sandwich in a ride on the city's subway system, a call on a prospective employer, or a walk on Michigan av. to view shop windows.

Nineteen of the students selected for the trip were unable to accept the invitation of THE TRIBUNE. Thirteen of that number are now in the army or navy. Malcolm Bosse of Moline, who was a member of the group that visited the city yesterday, is scheduled to be ordered to active service as a midshipman cadet with the naval reserve.

More than half of the 48 student guests yesterday have been awarded scholarships to various colleges and universities. Seventy-five per cent of the group are helping maintain themselves while in school by holding part-time jobs. Twenty-six of the boys and girls are the highest ranking students in their classes. Sixteen are class valedictorians and six are salutorians. Seven are class presidents. Almost all of them plan to continue their education, unless they are called into service.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., June 6.—Darryl Zanuck certainly is nice to the ladies this year. Most of his top pictures have been written by the fair sex. He's bought another—"Cluny Brown"—for Ernst Lubitsch. Jimmy Hilton will adapt it. It's about an English girl who marries a Polish prince. Has nothing to do with the war. It was written by Margery Sharp. Other pictures in the making, also by the distaff side, are "Laura," "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," "Nob Hill," "Sunday Dinner for a Soldier," [which, incidentally, Joan Fontaine turned down without even reading], "Dragonwyck," and "Thunderhead." Makes you pretty proud of your sex. . . . Helen Broderick will do "Three's a Family," so everybody wants her for a play. Jack Wilson was the first to send her a script. It's "The Bloomer Girl" for Broadway.

All's Peaceful and Lovely.

Hal Wallis phoned to say "Hello." Says the first one to call and welcome him back was Buddy De Sylva. Joe Hazen, Hal's partner, arrives next Monday. Hal's expecting Lillian Hellman soon. While he's working on stories, he won't actually begin at studio until September. In the meantime, he's still talking with Orson Welles about "Under Cover," but it hasn't gone beyond the talk stage. Letters are pouring in to my desk, saying that should never be made. . . . Edgar Bergen and Charlie are off to Mexico City. I don't blame them, they're beloved down there. Charlie always wears a big sombrero. They talk to him as tho he were a real live person. Then, too, Edgar's smart. He's learned Spanish—at least, a little. . . . Reason Maj. Ken Trout and Ella Raines have parted is that he's gone back to Florida. She stayed behind to do a picture.

Thirty's Quite a Crowd.

Joe Pasternak is out-De Mille-ing Cecil in Metro commissary. Cast of "Music for Millions" lunches with him every day. That includes José Iturbi, Margaret O'Brien, Jimmy Durante, June Allyson, Marsha Hunt—whole kit and caboodle. As Henry Koster passed the table, he said, "you haven't got elbow room for conversation" . . . Joe's mighty nice to work with, most artists are children at heart. Iturbi always feels depressed on a cloudy day, so Joe never asks him to record on a cloudy day. "A picture studio is not a factory," says Joe. "If you make people happy on the set that quality gets on the screen."

And Who Says They're Wrong?

Some sour pusses think it's wrong for soldiers to have pictures of pin-up girls. Had a note from Kalamazoo, Mich., enclosing a clipping written by a former minister: "Some think pin-up pictures an expression of primitive sex impulse and should be stopped. I cannot think of it that way. The pin-up girl is a symbol of that for which the soldier is fighting. Her popularity is closely linked with patriotism." Then he quotes from one of Tennyson's songs:

> "A moment while the trumpets blow
> He sees his brood about thy knee,
> The next, on fire, he meets the foe
> And strikes him dead for thine and thee."

"Behind his love for and devotion to his country," comments the writer, "are 'his brood' and 'thine and thee.'"

He's Still in There Pitching.

Akim Tamiroff has learned all sorts of athletic stunts, from cracking an Australian bull whip to wrestling. He's now learning to croon for "Can't Help Singing" with Deanna Durbin. The report that Deanna's trying to get out of her Universal contract is untrue. . . . Nice blending—Judy Garland and Bing Crosby on radio. But listening to Bob Hope's jokes—he'll have to have better ones. He felt it so keenly himself that he made a crack about being at McKinley Utter's. For those not in the know, that's an undertaking establishment. . . . "Ziegfeld Follies" girls are making their own publicity via matrimony. Third one announced her engagement—Shirley Howard, who'll be wed to Lt. Michael Charley of army air forces Thursday. Other two were Eve Whitney, who married Eddie Cherkose, and Dorothy Gilmore, engaged to Don Ray.

The Solid Side Speaks Out—in All Candor

BY MAUREEN DALY.

[Copyright: 1944: By The Chicago Tribune.]

"I've liked a certain boy for about eight weeks now. For the first four I think he liked me, too, but he never took me out. However, he didn't take anyone else out during that time, either. A friend of his told me that he liked me and he practically told me himself, tho evidently he didn't want me to get the idea that I was his girl. I asked him to several parties to which he went but never returned the invitations. A short while ago he began taking other girls out, never the same one twice.

"My friends and I have good reason to believe he takes these girls out because of his boy friends; you see, these girls are friends of his boy friends' girls. But I think there's still a spark in his heart for me, tho his friends are killing it slow but sure. What can I do? You see, he has very litle mind of his own. . . ."

That joe is a smart operator and he has just enough mind of his own to know that he doesn't want any part of a friendship with you! He just plain doesn't like you. You've asked him to several parties, he went with you, he knows whether you're good company or not—but he never asked you out again. Isn't that sufficient proof that he's not fond of your chasing type of honeychile?

After the way he treated you, what gave you the idea that there was a "spark in his heart" at all? You chased him so hard that you've got him running—but in the opposite direction. Most boys like to do their own picking and choosing, so next time you get a glow for a joe just sit tight and let him make the first move. Remember there is a very fine line between being "friendly" and being "cheap." Any jackson would consider you a pretty dull doll if you have to ask for dates! Relax, you'll last longer.

Hirsch High's Annual Festival Will Feature Allied Nations' Music

Reveille calls of 11 of the allied nations will be sounded by buglers of the Hirsch High school R. O. T. C. drum and bugle corps in the school's 10th annual music festival tomorrow and Friday nights in the school auditorium. Other music of the allied nations will be played and sung, some in native tongue, and a massed chorus of nearly 500 students will close the program singing "America's Message." The Greek national anthem will be sung in Greek, and songs will be sung in Swedish, Norwegian, and Hebrew. The new Russian national anthem will be sung in English. The program will be presented for student assemblies at 9:30 each morning and public programs will begin at 8:15 each night.

How This Energy-Charged Wonder Bread Can Give You All The Extra Energy You Want

Contains Vitamins of the B Complex and Iron Your Body Needs To Help Get All The Energy Out of It

As you know, energy comes only from the food you eat. Thus, to get more energy—eat more energy food.

To get energy out of food, Nature must have the help of Vitamins B_1 and B_2 and Iron.

The two vitamins help to oxidize the food in the cells to get the energy out of it. The Iron in your blood acts to bring the oxygen to the cells.

Study the chart. Then eat the extra number of slices of energy-charged Wonder Bread every day to get the extra amount of energy you want.

GET VITAMINS, IRON

When you eat energy-charged Wonder Bread you know it contains Vitamins B_1 and B_2 and Iron which you know are necessary to help Nature transform it into energy properly.

And only Wonder Bread is sold under $1,000 guarantee of continual tests of Vitamin B_1 content.

Only WONDER BREAD Makes This $1,000 Vitamin B_1 Guarantee

Regular laboratory tests of typical loaves of Wonder White Bread show an average Vitamin B_1 content substantially in excess of the minimum requirements as recommended for bread by the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

We will pay $1,000 to any charitable organization named by the citizen of the United States first to disprove the above statement.

Continental Baking Co., Inc.

DOUBLY FRESH

In addition, energy-charged Wonder Bread is doubly fresh—fresh when you buy it, fresh when you eat it.

Because Wonder Bread is slo-baked—13% longer than many ordinary kinds for lasting freshness.

For extra energy, eat extra slices of energy-charged Wonder Bread every day. Serve your husband and children extra Wonder Bread, too.

Get Wonder Bread fresh from your grocer today. You'll be glad you did.

THIS CHART SHOWS YOU HOW MUCH MORE ENERGY EXTRA WONDER BREAD DAILY CAN GIVE YOU

Invasion News Is Chief Topic of Conversation in All Circles

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE invasion is THE topic of the conversation in homes, clubs, restaurants, and wherever people gather, and the thousands of families with sons, fathers, and brothers in the invasion area are being bombarded with questions such as "When did you hear from Tom last?" for mail from England has been sporadic lately. Hardly a large Chicago family is without representation in the present gigantic undertaking, and those with relatives in the air forces are particularly anxious.

Lt. Col. William Waller III., for instance, is in command of a fighter squadron that supports Flying Fortresses; Capt. Secor D. Browne, whose parents, the Aldis J. Brownes, had a letter from him yesterday, is connected with a troop carrier command; Lt. Shaw McCutcheon is a meteorology officer at a Flying Fortress base, and Lt. Bruce Dixon, son of the William W. Dixons, is a pilot. Lt. Samuel H. Brown, son-in-law of the Laird Bells; Capt. Arthur A. Frank Jr., Lt. Peter Pook, and Donald A. K. Brown are others with the army air forces, while the Walther Buchens' son-in-law, Werner Pese, and the Ernest S. Ballards' son, Corp. Joseph Ballard, are in the force of infantrymen stationed in England, or perhaps by now on French soil with the invading armies.

Chicagoans in London are not all masculine, for the Rev. and Mrs. E. Ashley Gerhard's daughter, Lt. Dorothy Gerhard, is there with an evacuation hospital unit, after having served in Africa and Sicily, and Miss Nancy Bastian, Miss Anne Stuart, and Miss Nancy Orr are there with the American Red Cross. Miss Stuart's brother-in-law, Maj. Augustine J. Hart, also is stationed in England, and a member of another prominent Chicago family who also is in England is Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins' son, Tech. Sgt. Chauncey K. Hutchins.

Wedding News.

Just back from duty in the English channel, and so out of the present tension and turmoil, is Lt. [j. g.] Lester Gorslein of the coast guard, who Saturday will take Miss Constance Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ainslie Bell of Evanston, as his bride. The wedding will take place at 4:30 p. m. in St. Mark's chapel, with a reception following in the Bell home. Miss Bell will have her sister, Mrs. Robert Wagner of Pittsburgh, as her matron of honor. Lt. Gorslein, son of the William W. Gorsleins of Chicago, and his bride are graduates of Northwestern university. He has 30 days' leave, after having served many months in Africa, India, and then England. Miss Bell's brother, Lt. [j. g.] Luther William Conover, and his bride now are in New London, Conn.

Master Sgt. Nicholas Blatchford's return from Newfoundland last Wednesday gave the "go ahead" signal to plans for his marriage to Miss Lois Greeley. The two young people arrived Friday from New York, where she has been pursuing a business career, and their marriage took place at 4:30 p. m. Saturday in the chapel of Christ church, with a reception following in the garden of the Samuel A. Greeleys' Winnetka home.

Miss Dixie Greeley was her sister's maid of honor, and Sgt. Blatchford's sister, Peggy, served as bridesmaid with Miss Anne Strong. The bridegroom had his brother, Nathaniel H. Blatchford III., as best man. Ushering were an uncle, Dr. Frank Blatchford, and a cousin, Comdr. Larned Blatchford. Mr. and Mrs. Blatchford Sr. came from their home in Long Beach, Ind., for the ceremony. Absent from the family circle were Lt. [j. g.] Samuel Sewall Greeley, who is on an aircraft carrier in the Atlantic, and Lt. Frederick Greeley, missing in action over Germany.

Hull House Sale.

The charming wares which the Hull House shop offers in its semiannual exhibits will go on sale from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Saturday in the Lake Forest home of Mrs. John Andrews King. The hand made linens, china, and summery gifts will be displayed in the room in which the wedding presents sent to Mrs. King's daughter, Blissie, and her recent bridegroom, Ensign Arthur Davis Fulton Jr., were shown. Mrs. William McCormick Blair is chairman of the sale. The women assisting her will be entertained at luncheon Saturday by Mrs. King.

One of Hull House's most ardent workers, Mrs. Donald F. McPherson, will miss the benefit sale, as she left last week for the east. Follow-

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Uncensored Letter.

It's really fairly warm for June;
We had a thunderstorm at noon;
[O, darling, is it many miles
And many months between our smiles?]

My boss is very tired and meek!
Vacations will begin next week;
[My dear one—it's your phrase you know—
I truly love you . . . love you so!]

Guess what! I got a raise! Okay?
And will I hear from you—what day?
[And will you find me anxious, sweet,
The way you say two souls should meet?]

It's really fairly warm for June;
[What was the pretty little tune
That echoed every rippling note
My dearest one, when last you wrote?]

O, censors may have eyes to see
But do they have a heart as we?

SALLY.

Success.

A reader sends along a letter "from one of the best known women in America" written in answer to the quest for success. The reader [who says she is 28] wonders if the somewhat bitter tone of her admired friend indicates that all successful women feel they have lacked something in life; that they are ready to grant success wasn't worth the price.

The young woman wonders if her conception of success differs from others, for to her mind "gain of money and fame does not mean so much as acquiring an inner satisfaction of work well done and appreciated by others."

The letter—and the comments on it—reveal a curious quirk of human nature: We emphasize the things we have missed. The identical woman, now famous, might have taken her pen in hand—had she lived an obscure life—and discouraged others from the humdrum and uneventful.

No woman knows whether the price of success is worth it until she tries it—and then she knows only for herself.

Does that answer Miss 28-Year-Old—or is there a better answer tucked in the minds of our readers?

A Catch.

Speaking of good bosses, our office is blessed with one who besides being considerate, respectful, and possessing a sense of humor, distributes his catch from his fishing trips among the employes. How's that for perfection?

BOOKKEEPER.

Double Trouble.

Your white collar girls do not know what trouble is until they contend with the public. Pity the poor theater cashier who deals with thousands of people each day. The W. C. G. could make her life more pleasant if she would coöperate in little ways. Here as a few suggestions: Have your money ready; do not take time to clean out your purse at the box office window; if you have a bill, notify the cashier how many tickets you wish; if you ask questions, be brief, and, be as courteous as we try to be to you.

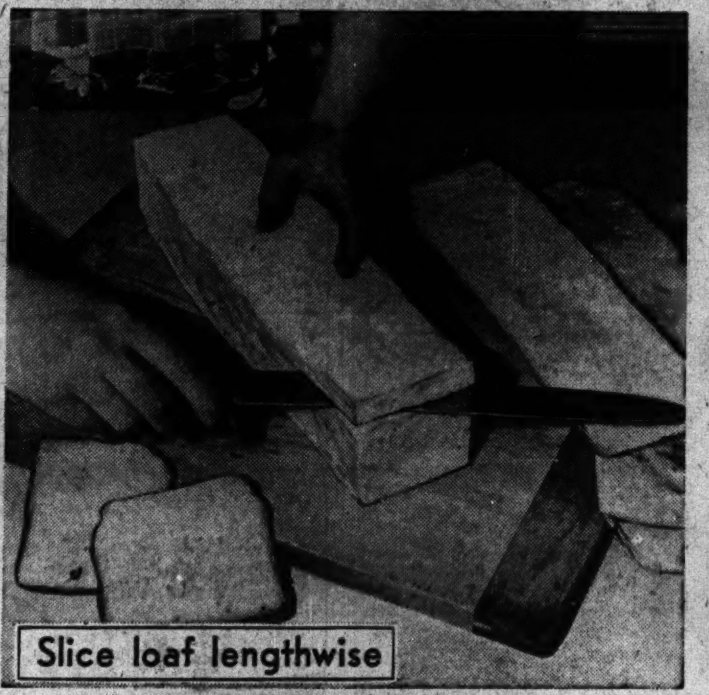
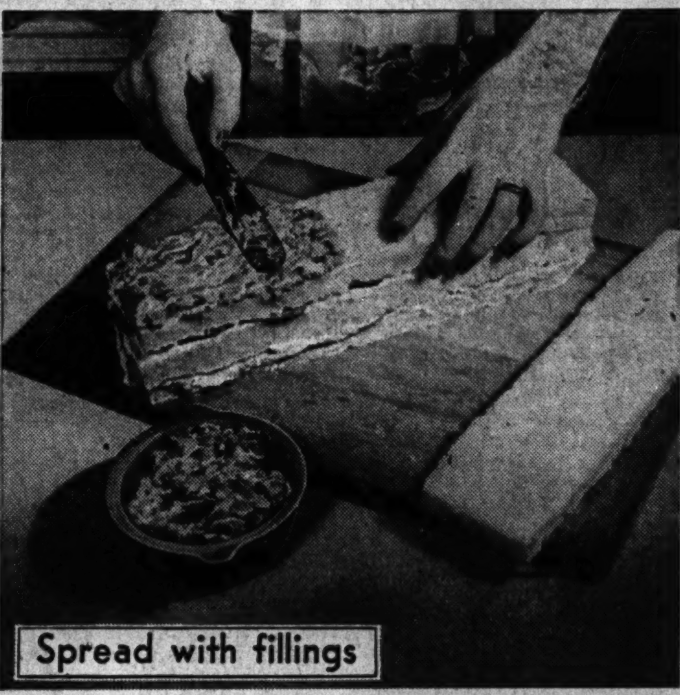
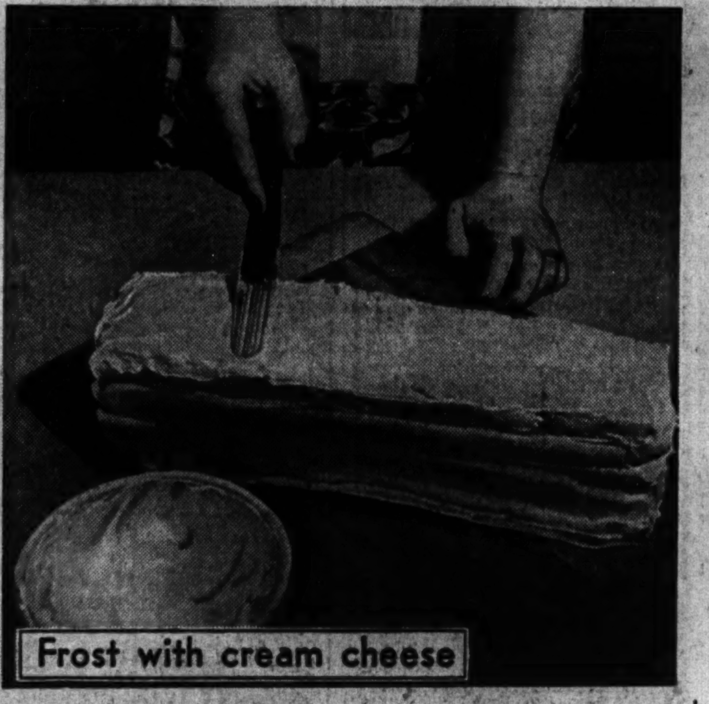
A Tasty and Attractive Sandwich Loaf Is Easy to Make



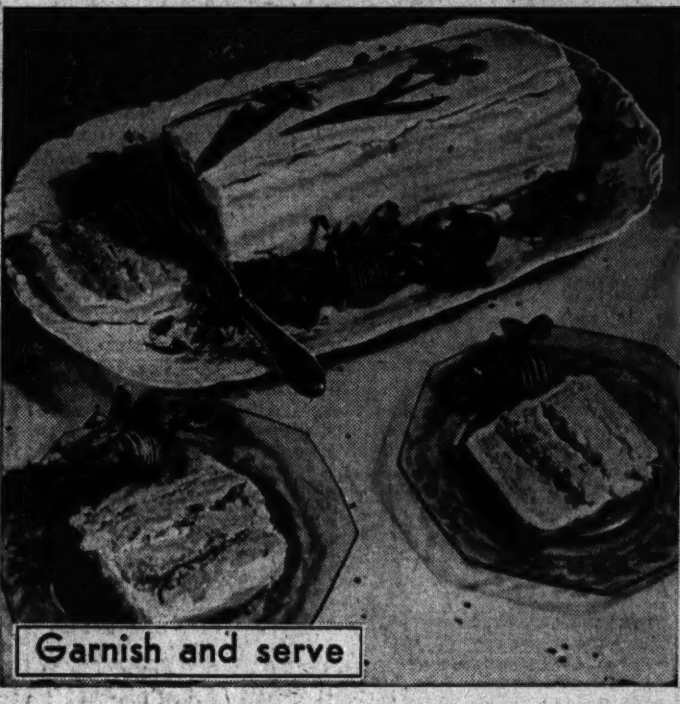
1. Remove crusts from a 1½ pound loaf of day-old sandwich bread. Cut evenly into four lengthwise slices with bread knife.



2. Spread three layers with fillings. Ham salad, egg salad, and thinly sliced tomatoes with mayonnaise are used in this loaf.



3. Place fourth slice of bread on top of last layer. Frost the loaf with 4 packages cream cheese softened with ½ cup milk.



4. Arrange almonds and green onion stems in flower pattern on loaf. Garnish with radishes and watercress. Chill. Slice to serve.

Y. M. C. A. Centennial Celebrated at Several Centers with Parties

John Nuveen Jr., a member of the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. and regional director of the war production board, was the guest speaker last night at the Lawson Y. M. C. A.'s observance of Second Century day commemorating the founding of the Y. M. C. A. 100 years ago. The Blue Jacket choir from Great Lakes sang, and centennial movies were exhibited.

Guests at the Division st. Y. M. C. A. last night received pieces of the huge 100th anniversary birthday cake displayed in the lobby. John Fuhrer of George Williams college spoke before members of the Rogers Park Y. M. C. A. at another centennial program, while Henry P. Chandler, Washington, D. C., delivered an address on "A Century of Service with Youth" at the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A.

Englewood community old timers related stories of early days at a joint program of the Englewood Y. M. C. A. and the Englewood Historical association. A 2d century dinner was held at the 111th st. center, with Dr. Wayne Lee Allen as chairman. Austin Y. M. C. A. members presented a play for parents which depicted the founding of the Y. M. C. A., and the Sears-Roebuck Y. M. C. A. center had a historical exhibit.

Tiny Toppers Just Right for Summer Wear

BY REA SEEGER.

Step up to the hat bars around the shops and stores and find complete assortments of small hats, tiny dabs of hats, and the best of medium brims—all cut and fashioned for summer weather. The first pill boxes, the tiny cap hats, and the six gore models, all of spanking white cotton pique, make ideal toppers when worn with city cottons for office and general wear.

New linen weaves in the same sort of head wear have arrived, so have the sun shade hats that are nothing more than a brim with a head band and are secured with a button, leaving the top of the head open to the breezes. These are the most easily packed hats to be found, also easy to launder as they are unbuttoned and ironed flat.

Many models of confectionery trifles, made of effective cotton lace or lacy weave materials, come in cake frosting white. They are unquestionably the lightest weight hats, and are flattering and very dress parade because of the lace effect. Tiny hat pins to match keep them anchored to the headline. Coronet hats, also of white pique, feature the serene brow line. They're just a band with a cluster of flowers made of the pique over each ear. Clear cut outlines of pique loops or cool looking leaves, also of the white pique in garland arrangement over each ear, are available in a wide choice of models.

Dashing berets of white and pastel colors are made of fine, smooth braid or straw, so are pill boxes or the "beanies." Other new air conditioned beauties are made of very open meshed coarse net, fitted and molded to the head, with perky bows of the same coarse net for trim. White horsehair braid makes delightfully cool and airy summer hats—all neat casual type small models; just a topper and that's all. And the prices are as small as the hats.

Art Institute School's Commencement Will Be Friday Afternoon

The School of the Art Institute will hold commencement exercises for its graduates at 2:30 p. m. Friday in the Goodman theater. Chauncey McCormick, president of the Art institute, will preside at the ceremonies, and Daniel Catton Rich, director of fine arts at the institute, will be the speaker.

Mr. Rich, who was sent by the committee on inter-American artistic and intellectual relations last summer to study the art and culture of Latin American countries, will talk on "The Challenge of Art in the Americas." The invocation and benediction will be pronounced by Msgr. Thomas V. Shannon of St. Mary's church, Lake Forest.

Dean Hubert Ropp will present the candidates for diplomas and degrees. The program will include music by the institute glee club, directed by Charles Fabens Kelley.

Thru the Looking Glass

If father is a man who likes the great open spaces but is bound to the job and the town by his home front duties he'll be particularly susceptible to the gift of toiletries for men that are especially styled in the sportsmen motif.

These are excitingly packaged, with great appeal to sound masculine tastes. But what undoubtedly is more important, they're of excellent quality. And we have this on the authority of some men who tried them, not unwillingly but with an "I'm from Missouri" smirk that became broad grins of real masculine satisfaction.

The shaving lotion, cologne, and hair dressing come in handsome, man sized bottles with three dimensional reproductions of quite beautiful sports paintings in natural colors. The theme of these varies; you can take your choice— or what you would judge to be his choice— of mallards, racing cutters, quail, muskie, or other subjects.

The cologne is especially nice, we think; it's discreetly scented, with more emphasis on exhilarating freshness than on an exotic fragrance. Men like it because it makes them feel well groomed but not perfumed. The hair dressing is fine, too; it keeps hair lustrous and manageable. The shaving lotion, men tell us, has just the right cool "bite" they like. There is talc, too.

There are also shaving bowls; one is a replica of a bowling ball with a three finger grip in the lid. The other is a duck decoy, of ceramic. Both are filled with a fine, bland shaving soap that gives super-dooper quantities of lather.

These things, singly or in set combinations, are slick ideas for your father's day gift hunting.

SYNOPSIS: Joseph Higgins, postman, delivers seven letters accepting service in Heron's Park Military hospital from Dr. Gervase Eden, Jane Woods, Esther Sanson, Dr. Moon, Dr. Barnes, Frederica Linley, and Nurse Marion Bates. Within a year one of them will die a self-confessed murderer. Dr. Eden tires of his flirtation with Sister Bates. It's love at first sight when Dr. Barnes sees Frederica. During an air raid Esther remains on duty to help Frederica. Joseph Higgins is brought in with a fractured femur. A second victim arrives. During a lull, Dr. Barnes comes to the booth to see Freddi. He is followed by Dr. Eden, who kisses her. Sister Bates, finding Gervase in the booth, creates a scene. To protect Freddi, Woods lures Gervase into a flirtation. Esther takes Higgins to the operating theater. Dr. Barnes gives the anesthetic, under which Higgins dies. The night Higgins was admitted to the hospital, a masked figure took the key to the operating theater from its hook. Inspector Cockrill asks Dr. Barnes to demonstrate his anesthetizing apparatus. At a hospital party, Bates declares she has proof of the murder and goes to get it. Woods finds her, murdered, in the operating theater. The inspector summons Dr. Moon, Dr. Eden, Dr. Barnes, Woods, Freddi, and Esther. None has an alibi. As Cockrill outlines his idea of the killing, Esther becomes hysterical. Next morning Esther finds Freddi overcome by gas. A clothes peg had been inserted in her window. Esther falls in love with William, the second air raid victim. Maj. Moon saw Gervase enter the nurses' cottage. Cockrill questions William about the three nurses' aids. An operation on William will be necessary. Dr. Barnes asks Esther if she would prefer another anesthetist.

INSTALMENT XXXIII.

CAREFUL PREPARATION.

"I believe Maj. Moon has quite a crush on her," said Woods, as Esther departed. "It was that night that she and William fixed it up; I went in afterward and Esther was in the office with Maj. Moon and he was looking at her as tho she were made of—of treacle and Devonshire cream. I'm not surprised because she really looked perfectly lovely that evening—all lit up like a Christmas tree. Well, I'll push off to my arduous duties and leave you two love birds alone."

Barney could not appear brokenhearted at this suggestion. He held Frederica closely in his arms, and thought that he had never been so happy in all his life. Even on the night that she had consented to marry him, she had sent a stab of pain and jealousy thru his heart with that odd little, sly little glance at Gervase Eden. But now—she refused to have anything to do with Eden; she had promised to marry him, Barney, as soon as they could arrange the wedding.

William was lying on a wheeled stretcher when Cockrill arrived and, losing his way, blundered into the anesthetic room. Sgt. Bray was sitting in a corner. He favored the inspector with a reassuring nod of the head. William lifted his head from the pillow, smiled wanly and said: "Hallo! "

"Hallo, my boy," said Cockrill.

"Come to see the execution?" mumbled William.

"That's right," said Cockie. "That's a fine pair of socks you've got!"

William wriggled his feet in their vast white woolen stockings.

Esther came into the room, thrusting her arms into the sleeves of a green surgical gown as she walked, and looked very white and strained. Barnes followed her, also gowned, his mask hanging by its tapes round his neck. He said, smiling: "Hallo, inspector."

"Maj. Moon arranged for me to come in and watch," said Cockie, glancing apologetically at William.

"Yes, he told me; come along and we'll get you fixed up with a gown."

In the washroom was Woods, assisting Maj. Moon and Theater Sister to scrub up. Cockrill rinsed his fingers and submitted to having a sort of green night-gown tied on to him and a mask over his mouth and nose; stumbling slightly over the gown, which was much too long for him, he meandered back to the operating theater, his bright little eyes peeping over the mask, very bright and alert. Esther came in from the anesthetic room; she said, in a low voice: "Thank you for letting the sergeant come up from the ward with him and wait there . . ."

"William will never be out of his sight or mine," promised Cockrill.

"I can't say 'thank you' enough; I'm being foolish, I know; it's good of you to humor me."

"That's all right; nothing to thank me for," said Cockie.

"I'm getting them to put out everything fresh," she said, moving restlessly about the hot, green room. "Then nothing can go wrong." As Woods came in carrying a cylinder of gas, she said, irritably: "Do hurry up, Woody. They'll be starting soon and you simply must have everything ready."

"All right, all right," said Woody equably. "I'm coming."

Cockrill relieved her of her burden and held it while she unclipped one half used cylinder from the anesthetic trolley and put the new one in and connected up the tubes. He watched her carefully, checking over in his mind the points of Barney's lesson a few days before. Esther said, fidgeting: "Have you opened a new drum, Woody?"

"Yes, Esther, darling, I'm seeing to all that."

"And fresh bundles of swabs."

"Yes, of course, darling; we would in any case."

"And a new bottle of iodine, Woody; open a new bottle. Have you done Barney's trolley?"

"I'm coming to that, Esther," said Woods. "I can't do everything at once."

"What is it you want, Esther?" asked Barney, coming into the theater.

"O, Barney, I do want to have everything fresh on your trolley; I want everything brand new so that it can't possibly have been tampered with. I asked Theater Sister and she said it would be all right. It doesn't involve very much and the other stuff can be used up afterwards. Of course the instruments come straight out of the sterilizer—they must be all right, don't you think so, Barney? Don't you think they must be all right?"

"Yes, of course, Esther."

"And the needles and gut and knives and things are in antiseptic . . . It's just the bottles, Barney, and your stuff. You don't mind, do you?"

"No, I don't mind in the least, my dear, if it makes you any happier."

Woods came staggering across the theater with a second cylinder and Barnes helped her to fit it into its holder. "I'm sorry to give you all this extra trouble, Woody," said Esther humbly.

Cockrill watched the tubes fitted up to his own satisfaction. He said suddenly, darting a finger at the three glass jars suspended over the trolley. "These bottles—the gas and oxygen mix in the first one, above the surface of the water, and pass along a single tube to the patient . . . ?

"That's right," said Barney.

"Could anything go wrong there? Are we sure this is water in the bottom of the jars?"

"I don't see what else it could be; but we can jolly soon make sure," said Barney, without excitement. He took down the jars and sniffed at them each in turn. "They seem all right; but still, just in case, you could empty them out, Woody, and put fresh water in."

Cockrill satisfied himself that the jars were replaced with nothing more perilous in them than a little sterile water, and returned to the trolley. He ran over the various points in his mind, trying to eliminate anything irrelevant. "Nothing involved except this one cylinder, black, of nitrous oxide; and this one, black and white, of oxygen. The green cylinder of carbon dioxide in the middle is duly switched off, and so are the spares of gas and oxygen. Everything is connected up properly. The patient has nitrous oxide first, and then oxygen as well and you can judge from the outside tubes in the clear glass jar over the trolley how much of each he's getting. The gas and oxygen mix in the jar, and pass along the single tube to the mask over the patient's face."

BACK INVASION WITH BONDS, KELLY URGES

Assurances that American home front workers would back up the invasion fighters with unprecedented war bond purchases were voiced yesterday by Mayor Kelly and other public officials at a meeting in the city council chamber, held to organize public employes in the 5th war loan drive. The drive will be started Monday.

"We've got to put every ounce of energy behind our drive for the 5th war loan," declared the mayor. "We must show Chicago to be really patriotic. We must bring the boys back safely. Our bonds will supply them with equipment."

City employes and those of the board of education, county, sanitary district, and park district were given a quota of $3,654,000, including present purchases or deductions for war bonds. Each employe will be asked to devote 40 per cent of one month's salary to war bonds.

The quota is divided as follows: City employes, $1,540,000; board of education, $1,428,000; county, $392,000; park district, $182,000; and sanitary district, $112,000.

Upon receipt of the invasion news, Clarke said:

"Our soldiers had their D-day yesterday. D-day for the home front is next Monday when the fifth and greatest of war loans for Chicago and Cook county gets under way."

The city and county over-all quota totals $894,014,000, of which 277 million dollars is in bonds for individuals and the balance for corporation purchase.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 diam.	Pass	1 no trump	Double
2 diam.	2 spades	3 diamonds	3 spades
Pass	Pass	4 diamonds	Double
Pass	Pass	Pass

This bidding offers a perfect illustration of how a team can "get away with murder" against a gullible opponent, largely thru the possession of the higher ranking suit. West had no earthly right to enter the auction freely with his two spade overcall of two diamonds, and East's three spade bid could have been defeated a trick for a high match point score for North-South. North, however, was not satisfied to let well enough alone. After he got away with his strategic raise to three diamonds, he apparently felt that he could send the pitcher to the well once more. If the opponents went on to four spades, North would double; if they didn't, they would be afraid to double a less than game contract.

That, however, was only what North thought! East was experienced enough to recognize a "push" when he heard one, and he did not at all mind doubling a four diamond contract. [Only timid players are inhibited in that respect.] The result was that East-West collected 300 points, for an absolute top on the board.

Lt. Col. Oswald Earle Gray, now stationed with the Presbyterian hospital unit in New Guinea, and his wife, the former Susan Heaney, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Noble S. Heaney, became the parents of a daughter, Deborah Floy, Monday in Presbyterian hospital. On the same day another member of the hospital staff, Dr. Roland L. Kesler, and his wife, the former Margaret Lee, also became the parents of a daughter, who has been named Pamela Ann.

Ensign and Mrs. Charles Howell Gedge became the parents of a son, Charles Jr., June 1 in Wesley Memorial hospital. Ensign Gedge heard the news by cable to the Pacific, where he is on duty. The baby is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Karl H. Rehnberg of River Forest.

Sandra Smith is the name the Malcolm W. Stevensons have selected for their new daughter, born June 4 in the Evanston hospital. The baby and her 3 year old sister, Diana Dill, are grandchildren of the John C. Caratys of the north side.

Mrs. McCormick Dawes and her daughter and son, Miss Harriet Dawes and Rufus Dawes II., have returned to their Lake Shore dr. apartment after having spent the winter in Ormond Beach, Fla. Rufus will enter the Lawrenceville school this fall. Miss Dawes, who studied at Connecticut college, was graduated from the Casements at Ormond Beach this spring.

Mrs. John Prosser and Miss Diana Prosser will be present for the graduation of their daughter and sister, Sylvia, from Miss Hill's school at Pittsfield, Mass., today. John Prosser Jr. is a student at the Pomfret school.

Miss Pauline Thompson, daughter of the junior John R. Thompsons, will be graduated from the Emma Willard school today.

Tale of Yank's Broken Home Is War Lesson

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

They were married even tho both families wondered whether they were not acting too hastily. But he was leaving for war, and so they decided to have the ceremony performed.

A year later, he came back wounded, not seriously, but sufficiently so to necessitate a hospital stay of three months. During that interim in the hospital he became the pet of one of those older women of means whose intentions may be honorable enough but whose hero worshipping is piling up a number of marriage casualties. Not that the older woman became romantically involved. But she took him on as her charge and entertained him frequently in her home where he met her attractive young daughter.

When his young and still loyal wife made an unexpected trip to see him in the hospital, she was met with a rebuff. She was told he had been invited for the week-end to the rich woman's home and that he wanted to go. With a few more disclosures, the young wife was left in no doubt as to her unwelcome presence. Before long, the situation reached the point where she was asked for a divorce on the grounds that the husband had fallen in love with the daughter of his benefactress.

As even the sun has spots, so may one of our brave men fail in the good soldier's traditional behavior, as has this man. The object of our bona fide tale is not to offer this man as a common denominator, but to warn those kindly hearted women not to go overboard in their manifestations of good will. It may seem a brutal thing to say about men who have fought and been invalided back home, but you women have a responsibility toward them. They're not on their feet mentally or economically, and your greatest kindness to these men is not to disrupt the ordinary tenor of their lives. It is to encourage them to take up in their old economic groove and, by all means, where a wife's security is in peril, to do everything possible to stabilize her position.

TELLS OF COSTLY NEW DEAL FLOP IN BRAZIL RUBBER

Johnston Finds U. S. Did Best by Getting Out.

[This is the 18th article in a series by a Tribune reporter who has just returned from a tour of Latin America.]

BY STANLEY JOHNSTON.

That the American people were humbugged about the New Deal's extravagant fling in Amazon jungle rubber production and that the situation was improved only when the United States finally got out of it were the considered opinions held by South Americans I met in the rubber country.

"The so-called experts' lack of knowledge of the Amazon probably was an advantage," they observed dryly, "because the sooner they failed the sooner the job could be given back to the unimportant men who are too stupid to understand anything else except how to get rubber."

Their criticism was based principally on the failure to produce the rubber the United States needs so vitally. They were not so concerned over the money wasted, for it, of course, was the North Americanos'. The dereliction as they saw it, was that the rubber was in the trees along the Amazon when the New Deal "experts" launched the vast boondoggling program and that it still is there after colossal spending.

Sign to Buy Brazil's Surplus.

The government's multi-million dollar wild rubber project, repeatedly termed a fiasco, was undertaken when the western Pacific rubber plantations fell to the Japanese. Turning to the Amazon basin, original habitat of the rubber tree, the United States contracted with Brazil, the western hemisphere's chief crude rubber producer, to buy her exportable surplus rubber for five years. The agreement was made March 3, 1942.

Thru the Rubber Development corporation, a subsidiary of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the United States assumed all responsibility for producing rubber in Brazil. Similar agreements were made with Peru and Bolivia, the other Amazon valley rubber states.

After nearly $60,000,000 had been disbursed in the Amazon countries, and little more than the normal supply of rubber had been produced, the United States several weeks ago abondoned its costly effort in Brazil. It agreed to let Brazil manage the program and to buy her rubber at a premium of 15 cents a pound above the 45 cent basic price. Negotiators also left open the door to further increases. The RDC's withdrawal from the venture was regarded as an admission that its Amazon program was a failure.

Officials Get the Blame.

Brazilians with whom I discussed the matter blamed the failure on the inefficiency of the officials managing the work and their general lack of knowledge of the task.

These critics cited the Americans' way of scattering some 10,000 workers over 7,500,000 acres of Amazon jungle instead of first selecting the area to be exploited, establishing transportation facilities to bases of operation, and assigning teams of men to zones. The scattering of the forces, they said, resulted in an almost impossible supply problem, an undirectable working force, and no organized plan.

Altho hopes had been expressed that Brazil would produce 50,000 tons of rubber a year, the RDC conceded that only 15,660 long tons [a long ton is 2,200 pounds] of crude rubber were exported to us from the Amazon countries between April, 1942, and October, 1943, tho $59,710,477 was spent there during that period.

Little Gain in Brazil.

The small production increase which accompanied this vast spending is indicated by the following table of Brazil's rubber production:

Year.	Long tons.
1939	14,622
1940	16,135
1941	16,899
1942	17,854
1943	19,390

Thus, during the two years encompassing the United States' lavish spending—1942 and 1943—production in Brazil was increased by less than 3,000 tons. Under the contract with the United States, Brazil was permitted to retain 10,000 tons of rubber during each of those two years, for which she paid this country 45 cents a pound.

A reckless waste of money in impractical plans and experiments undoubtedly added greatly to the cost of the rubber we obtained. The New Deal shipped to the Amazon basin shotguns, white flour, patent outhouses, sewing machines, and hair curling equipment and 10,000 bottles of beer for the workers and their wives.

5,000 Sewing Machines Bought.

The RDC admitted that, at an investment of about $200,000, it had purchased 5,000 sewing machines and sent approximately half that number to Bolivia, Peru, and Brazil. When the details of these shipments were recounted during a senate subcommittee inquiry into the rubber program, Sen. Gillette of Iowa observed:

"I can't see the logical connection between getting a laborer in the upper part of the Amazon to tap a rubber tree and selling him a sewing machine when he gets up there."

The shotguns which the RDC bought for its native rubber workers cost approximately $780,000, exclusive of the millions of shells that accompanied them. One reason for the shortage of shotgun shells in this country was the government's heavy purchase for South Americans.

37,000 of 78,233 Guns Delivered.

Officials of the rubber agency said the native tappers used the guns to shoot birds and monkeys to supplement their food supply and to get skins to increase their income, but conceded that their desire to have a shotgun was comparable to the American cowboy's liking for a pistol in his belt.

The RDC purchased 78,233 shotguns and sent 37,000 to Latin America. It was observed in the senate subcommittee hearing that this would mean an average of more than two shotguns each for the 16,000 men it was estimated were at work, and that the RDC still had some 40,000 more guns.

THE QUESTION.

What absent-minded thing have you done lately?

WHERE ASKED.

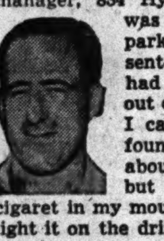
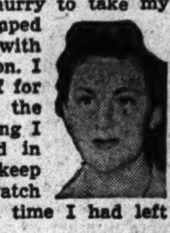
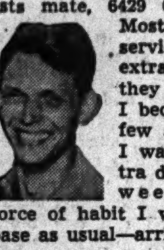
THE ANSWERS.



Howard Budweiser, production manager, 834 Hyde Park blvd.—I was walking in the park and did an absent-minded thing. I had taken a cigaret out of my pocket when I came to a drinking fountain. I thought about getting a drink but instead put the cigaret in my mouth and stooped to light it on the drinking fountain.

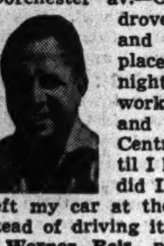


Pearl Pomsovy, clerk, 5330 Harper av.—I was in a hurry to take my shower and jumped under the water with my wrist watch on. I can excuse myself for doing that but the absent-minded thing I did was to stand in the shower and keep glancing at my watch to see how much time I had left to get to work.

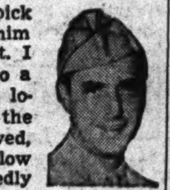


Frank Barrow, aviation machinists mate, 6429 Greenwood av.—Most people in the service appreciate an extra day's leave when they get it and so do I because they are so few and far between. I was granted an extra day's leave after a week-end, but by force of habit I went back to the base as usual—arriving one day too soon.

Madelon Biller, gage inspector, 5540 Drexel blvd.—The absent-minded thing I did not so long ago might have been embarrassing had I not caught myself. I was all dressed up to go to the opera—hair perfectly groomed, nails manicured, everything intact. I started to get on the street car when I noticed I was wearing moccasins.



Larry Berenson, gas dealer, 5316 Dorchester av.—One rainy day I drove my car to work and parked it at my place of business. That night after I finished work I caught a bus and then the Illinois Central home. Not until I had arrived home did I remember I had left my car at the gas station instead of driving it home.



Werner Reis, private 1st class, 5221 Woodlawn av.—A friend of mine asked me to pick him up and take him to a radio broadcast. I had some tickets to a play at the same location for later in the day. When we arrived, I started to follow him, absent-mindedly thinking I was going to see the play for which I had tickets.

Missing Aurora Sailor Declared Dead by Navy

Mrs. Rose Balog of 714 Delius av., Aurora, was notified by the navy department yesterday that her son, George Darban, 17, missing in action two years, has been declared legally dead. A Purple Heart was awarded posthumously. Darban was serving on the cruiser Vincennes when it was sunk in the South Pacific. He enlisted in 1941 while a student in East High school, Aurora.

WIFE TELLS HOW 'FLYING TIGER' OFTEN HIT HER

Santa Ana, Cal., June 6 [Special].—Capt. Morrison J. Wilkinson, 28, Washington, D. C., former member of the Flying Tigers in China, struck his wife "several times" and once threatened to disfigure her face so she "would be ashamed to walk down the street," an army court martial was told by the wife today.

Capt. Wilkinson pleaded not guilty before Maj. James D. Garibaldi, trial judge advocate, to seven morals charges involving seven women, one charge of bigamy and one of theft. He is being tried by a 10 officer general court martial at the army air base here.

The charges against Capt. Wilkinson, who was returned to the United States from China early this year "for medical reasons," include two counts of forcible rape, conviction of which carries a possible death or life prison sentence, and an attempted rape of Caprice Capron, 17 year old Earl Carroll dancer.

Married Him Twice.

Mrs. Margaret Gonzales Wilkinson, 23, the captain's estranged wife, said she had been married to him in May, 1940, in Yuma, Ariz., and again March 31, 1942—the second time to "prove I was his wife because he was going overseas." She said she had obtained an interlocutory divorce decree in June, 1943, and the army charges the flyer committed bigamy by marrying Lawriene [Rennie] Murphy in Phoenix, Ariz., Aug. 4, 1943, before his first wife's divorce decree became final.

Mrs. Wilkinson related an incident on April 17 this year when Capt. Wilkinson called at her Los Angeles apartment to pick up some papers she had been keeping for him.

"He tried to kiss me and I resisted," she said. "He left and I started undressing. A few minutes later I heard a knock on the door. When I opened it he pushed his way into the room, pushed me and told me, 'You are still my wife and you'll always be my wife.'

Slept in Bathroom.

"He held his fists over my face and threatened me, saying he would disfigure my face so that I would be ashamed to walk down the street."

"Had he ever struck you before?" asked Maj. Garibaldi.

"Yes, several times," she replied. She then told of struggling with her husband and running into the bathroom, where she slept all night on the floor behind a locked door.

PARENTS LEARN OF SON'S DEATH IN PRISON CAMP

Staff Sgt. Donald E. Liebman, 19, of the army air corps, died in a German prison camp April 2, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Liebman, of Cable, Wis., learned recently. A holder of the air medal and other decorations. Sgt. Liebman was downed over the Netherlands last winter while he was on his 20th mission. He was first reported missing March 6. Sgt. Liebman's family formerly lived in Chicago. He was an employe of Mandel Brothers before entering the army.

Chicago Heights Sergeant Killed, Father Informed

Tech. Sgt. John R. Paarlberg, 26, crew chief of a B-25 bomber, was killed in action over Corsica on May 13, his father, Teunis P. Paarlberg of Joe Orr rd. and Cottage Grove av., Chicago Heights, was notified yesterday. He had served in the North African, Sicilian, and Italian campaigns since enlisting in the army air forces in February, 1942.

HOW TO GET FAT—ON YOUR LIVESTOCK!

Fatten them fast and profitably is the theme of F. B. Morrison's latest edition of his farmers' "Bible" for live stock raisers—"Feeds and Feeding." No costly theory here. This is precise, factual data in the feeding, care and management of all farm animals, including poultry. It's the "know how" to put extra pounds on your live stock and extra dollars in your pocket.

MARION STEPHENS

Miss Marion Stephens reports a lively sale on this standard reference book at the Board of Trade Book Shop. "Feeds and Feeding" results from the study over many years of the major experiments carried on in this and other countries, including those of our many experimental stations. The findings have been carefully compiled, averaged and analyzed to give you a completely scientific guide.

If you are interested in feeding for profit, stop in at the Board of Trade Book Shop, or order by mail. The price is only $5.00, but the dividends on that investment will pay you back many times over.

You will find the Board of Trade Book Shop carries a complete line of new books on subjects of current interest, including a special group for investors. Miss Stephens is always glad to help you find the books of particular interest to you.

3 BROTHERS WIN APPEALS ON U. S. FRAUD CHARGES

Cincinnati, O., June 6 (AP).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today cleared three brothers, officials of the National Bronze and Aluminum Foundry company of Cleveland of a charge of conspiracy to defraud the government in the manufacture of aluminum castings and it ordered the United States District court there to grant their motion for a directed acquittal.

The three appellants were John L. Schmeller, vice president of the company; Frank I. Schmeller, plant manager, and Edward Schmeller, assistant plant manager. A federal jury convicted them Oct. 11, 1943, on one of nine counts in an indictment returned May 7, 1943, charging conspiracy to defraud thru alleged manufacture of aluminum castings in a defective manner.

"There was no evidence whatever of deliberate sabotage at the plant," said the opinion written by Judge Florence E. Allen and concurred in by Judges Charles C. Simons of Detroit and John D. Martin of Memphis.

FINED FOR SHORT WEIGHT.

10 OF 60 SEIZED IN GAMING RAID FREED ON BONDS

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Supervising Capt. Michael P. Naughton's investigation of the ownership and operation of a large first floor gambling house at 2349 Chicago av. was interrupted last night when legal maneuvers brought the release on bond of 10 of 60 persons he had seized in a raid on the den.

The 10 were admitted to bail after being charged with being inmates of a gambling house. Placing of the charge had been preceded by the service of a writ of habeas corpus on Naughton at noon yesterday. The writ ordered him to produce the 10 before Chief Justice Benjamin P. Epstein of the Criminal court. In court, Judge Epstein told Naughton he must file charges against the prisoners or free them.

Assistant State's Atty. George McMahon said the men would be booked at once, but Judge Epstein said the police could have custody of the prisoners until 6 p. m. It was explained that the court had no discretion in issuing the writ.

Seven Called Ex-Convicts.

Of the 10 who posted bond, seven were ex-convicts, Naughton said. The three others had police records.

Naughton said the ex-convicts were Angelo Lamantia, 41, 4136 Sheridan rd.; Jasper Trapani, 39, 1522 Mohawk st.; Joseph Gagliano, 30, 856 N. Kedvale av.; Max Brenner, 49, 1620 S. Ridgeway av.; Louis Bieder, 40, 1420 S. Trumbull av.; John Wolek, 39, 2231 Huron st.; William Placzek, 34, 1901 Superior st.

The three others named in the writ who had police records were Frank Cudia, 37, 2311 Grand av.; Jacob Eisen, 43, 1257 N. Honore st.; Nichols Garambone, 30, 3706 Huron.

Gangster Believed Owner.

Naughton said the owner of the den was believed to be "Tough Tony" Capezio, an old time Capone gangster.

Naughton, Lt. Thomas Lyons, and Policemen Arthur Manger, John Baird, and John Murphy chopped thru a double wooden wall in the rear to enter the den because the front entrance was reinforced by a steel door.

LINCOLN FIELDS CONTRIBUTION IS $104,657.12

Red Cross, Service Centers Benefit.

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN.

Coincident with the cancelation of yesterday's eight race program of the Lincoln Fields Jockey club at Hawthorne Park upon news of the allied armies' invasion of France, Matt J. Winn, executive director of Lincoln Fields, announced the track's contribution of $104,657.12 to war charities.

The sum represents the net profits on $1,229,087 wagered by 34,406 patrons on Memorial day, of which profits the Red Cross will receive 66⅔ per cent or $69,771.41, and the Chicago Service Men's centers 33⅓ per cent or $34,885.71. Presentation of the checks will be made at the track today by Stuyvesant Peabody, president of Lincoln Fields, to Mayor Kelly as representative of the Service Men's centers, and Martin H. Kennelly for the Red Cross.

Last year Lincoln Fields contributed $101,000 to the same organizations on the same basis.

Williams Issues Statement.

Cancelation of yesterday's racing conformed to a recent suggestion by Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman of the Turf Committee of America, an organization formed in Chicago in 1942 by the National Association of State Racing Commissioners for the purpose of fitting thorobred racing into the war pattern. The Illinois racing board approved Swope's idea and yesterday Chairman Ednyfed H. Williams made the following statement:

"There will be no racing in Illinois today. The least we, who are not privileged to be active in the invasion, can do is to set aside all activity and devote the day to prayer for God's blessing upon our gallant boys and girls engaged in this terrific undertaking."

Yesterday's Lincoln Fields program of eight races will not be held over for today, the management announced, but an entire new card, featuring the $2,000 Morrison Hotel handicap, has been arranged. Five horses have been named for the mile and one-sixteenth event for 3 year olds and up, with C. N. Fitch's Yar and Mrs. Marie Evans' Shot Put carrying top weight of 114 pounds. Alafiag, Choppy Sea, and Juke Box round out the field.

Activity at Washington Park.

Arlington and Washington Park officials announced yesterday that leading contenders for the national championships in the age and sex divisions are beginning to arrive at Washington Park for the 70 day meeting which will open June 19.

Latest to arrive from New York was Mrs. George Poulson's Broadcloth, the black son of Good Goods-Anaeron which jumped into prominence by finishing second to Pensive in the Kentucky Derby after winning the Derby Trial in impressive fashion. Broadcloth did not start in the Preakness and in the Withers mile was injured at the starting gate.

In the same shipment of nine horses was W. C. Hobson's Diavolaw, which led the entire Kentucky Derby field for a while. Trainer Phil Reilly has Diavolaw eligible for the Arlington Classic.

NET RESULT: KELVYN PARK TITLE

Schurz' 14½ Points Lead Prep Track

Schurz High looms as the favorite to capture the senior division title in the annual city high school league track meet Friday afternoon in Key Branch stadium on the basis of its showing in preliminaries and finals yesterday afternoon.

Schurz trackmen collected 14½ points in four senior finals and qualified nine in the remaining events, leading second place Roosevelt and Crane by 6½ points. The totals for other teams were: Roosevelt and Crane, 8 each; Steinmetz, 7½; Hyde Park, 7; Lane, 6; Von Steuben, 3½, and Senn, 3. Finals were held in the shot put, broad jump, high jump, and pole vault.

Tilden qualified five for the finals and its relay team and Lane also sent five individuals into the finals. The junior division preliminaries will be run off this afternoon in Key Branch stadium. Summaries:

23 Colleges Seek National Track Honors

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Twenty-three colleges and universities, including eight Western conference schools, now have submitted entries for the National Collegiate track meet Saturday night in Milwaukee. The discus and javelin throw championships will be decided in the afternoon in Marquette's stadium, and the other 12 events are scheduled at night.

Boston college and New York university head the list of eastern teams. The Pacific coast will be represented by Fresno State, and the bulk of other entries outside of the Western conference territory will come from the Rocky Mountain conference and the Big Six.

Great Race in 440 Looms.

Fresno State and Boston college will send excellent 440 yard dash men to challenge Capt. Bob Kelley of Illinois, who has been undefeated this year. He finished behind Cliff Bourland of Southern California in the 1943 N. C. A. A. competition. Kelley's principal rivals now apparently are Herbert McKenley of Boston college and Joe Shropshire of Fresno State, altho 16 others are reqistered for the quarter mile.

SOX SEEK 7TH IN ROW AGAINST TIGERS TONIGHT

Game Opens Series on South Side.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The third place Detroit Tigers and the fourth place White Sox, a game and a half apart in the American league standings, will meet tonight in Comiskey park in the first contest of a five game series.

If the White Sox can sweep these games, as they did their last series with the Tigers, they may go into first place. There is a catch in it, however. The Yankees and Browns will have to do a lot of losing along with the Tigers.

Seek Seventh Straight.

The Sox will be out to prolong their winning streak, which has reached six straight by virtue of two over the Philadelphia Athletics and four straight over the Washington Senators. Both the A's and the Senators were full of pennant dreams until jolted by Jim Dykes' currently wide awake Sox. They will have no pushover in Detroit, a team that has been playing some of the best baseball in the majors during the last two weeks.

Tonight's match will be the second in Chicago between the Sox and the Tigers. On April 27 Hal Newhouser and Thornton Lee hooked up in a pitchers' battle which was decided, 2 to 0, when the Detroiters made two singles and a double in the 12th inning.

Great Lakes Game Called Off.

The Sox fared better later on. On May 6, in Detroit, they rose up in the ninth for three runs and a 3 to 2 victory and in a double header the following day they won, 2 to 1 and 4 to 2.

The Tigers and Sox tomorrow will play off an April 25 postponement. There will be a single game Saturday and a double header Sunday. After the third place Tigers will come the first place Browns, for afternoon games Monday and Tuesday and a night game a week from tonight.

The scheduled game between the Sox and Great Lakes Bluejackets, which was to have been played at the training center yesterday afternoon, was called off because of D day.

TUCKER HAS WIDE LEAD

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Pursued by a Sunday jinx, Thurman Tucker, Chicago White Sox outfielder, fell 12 points off his batting beam during the week but still held the American league hitting lead with .383.

Tucker has batted in 26 games this season and has hit safely in 23 of them. The three blanks he has drawn were in Sunday games. He delivered only one blow in eight attempts last Sunday in a double header with Washington, chopping his average from a week's high of .404 to .383. His leading figure a week ago was .395.

Tucker, however, still maintained a wide lead over his nearest rival, Cleveland's Oris Hockett, who soared from a fourth place .333 to a second place .354, when Detroit's Chuck Hostetler dropped from .352 to .320 and fifth position.

POSTPONE RING, BASEBALL AND RACING EVENTS

Others Interrupted for Prayer.

BY EDWARD PRELL

The nation's major sports of the season, baseball and racing, suspended operations yesterday, except in isolated instances, in a solemn observance of the allied invasion of France. Only two major league games were scheduled, both in the National league. Of the 13 race tracks holding meets, 11 postponed their programs, including Lincoln Fields, giving the horses a vacation in their barns at Hawthorne Park.

Several days ago the nation's turf leaders had announced plans to call off their programs on invasion day. Lincoln Fields, and the New York, Boston, and Detroit tracks were quick to give notice that their plants would be dark. Bay Meadows, in California, and Delaware Park, Md., went thru with their scheduled races.

National League Games Off.

Major league games affected were Philadelphia at Brooklyn and Cincinnati at Pittsburgh, each scheduled for last night. It was first announced the games would be played, but later in the day the postponements were announced. The exhibition game between the White Sox and Great Lakes teams at the naval center was called off. The Cubs, however, went to Camp Shanks, N. Y., for their exhibition game yesterday.

In New York, Gen. John J. Phelan, chairman of the state's athletic commission, ordered postponement of all boxing bouts in the state. There was none scheduled in Chicago.

The minor baseball leagues were somewhat divided in their observance of invasion day. Those games which were played were to be preceded by a minute of silence, with play interrupted for President Roosevelt's prayer over the radio.

Call Off Entire Slate.

All games were postponed in the American association, and the International and Eastern leagues called off their entire slate for the day and night. The Pacific Coast league played.

After previously announcing that the boxing match in Philadelphia between Sammy Angott and Ike Williams would be scheduled, the promoter postponed it until tonight.

Baseball, track, and tennis competition among Chicago's city public high schools proceeded, but semi-finals in the golf tournament were suspended. A. H. Pritzlaff, director of physical education for the schools, said that at noon all pupils stood silently for a minute of prayer. Later in the day most of the schools held assemblies.

Likewise, play continued in the Illinois state tennis tournament at the Fullerton Tennis club.

TECHAWK NINE, TENNIS TEAM IN ACTION TODAY

Illinois Institute of Technology's baseball and tennis teams will both see action today as the Techawk diamondmen meet a new foe, the 87th Street Marines, and the netmen battle George Williams.

Scheduled for 6:30 p. m. in Tuley park, the baseball game will find Illinois Tech spurred on by a defeat suffered Sunday at the hands of the Joliet penitentiary squad.

Illinois Tech netmen will play George Williams at 4 p. m. on the University of Chicago courts.

Boston, Mass., June 6 (AP).—Second Baseman Bobby Doerr, Catcher Roy Partee, and Center Fielder Leon Culberson of the Red Sox were rejected temporarily for military service today at the Boston induction center, but were informed they would be recalled for reëxamination at a future date.

No reasons were given for the rejections but Doerr, 26, and Culberson, 24, have been benched on several occasions in the past with knee injuries.

FISHERMEN FIND REEL SPORT IN FLOODED WATER

Odds 10 to 1 on Bass on Lake Chautauqua.

BY BOB BECKER.

Talk about high water in a trout stream, a big river [such as the Mississippi] or in some fishing lakes, and a fisherman shudders because high water usually means fishing below par. But a few days ago when we opened the bass season on Chautauqua lake, five miles from Havana, Ill., it was high water that made unusually good fishing. The Illinois river had pushed the lake levels up so far that the water was reaching back into the stands of smartweed and button bush along the banks and covering some of the lush meadows in which the black bass were finding plenty of food.

As a result the fish were in from 3 to 5 or 6 feet of fairly clear water—the ideal depths for working a weedless silver minnow and Uncle Josh pork chunk decorated with red yarn. It wasn't easy to work one of our own pop and wiggle bass bugs in the heavy vegetation, but we had several equipped with weed guards made from small pieces of mandolin strings.

Odds 10 to 1 on Bass.

They came thru the smartweed in fine style altho in most cases it didn't do us much good to hook a bass. The odds were 10 to 1 on the bass every time. A couple of swirls around a thick stem of smartweed and goodby, Mr. Bass! But it was fun and we alternated our fishing equipment between a 9 foot bass rod and a pop and wiggle bass bug, and a bait casting rod with a weedless spoon.

When you fish with Dr. T. H. Frison, chief of the Illinois Natural History Survey, you can expect to not only fish hard every minute, but also work after you return to the survey laboratory, because accurate records of the length and weight of each fish [plus scale samples] must be taken. After a few hours of bass fishing close to the laboratory [on the east shore of the lake] our boat had six fish on the stringer which were measured before they were put on ice.

Lose at Least Six.

All had been found in the smartweed beds or in the pockets among the vegetation. We lost at least six and had several more strikes. Of the six brought in one weighed almost 3½ pounds and three others weighed 2 pounds or better.

23 Colleges Seek National Track Honors

is :48.1 which he established in winning the Western conference title. McKenley was three-tenths of a second slower when he finished second in the I. C. 4-A meet, but he won the National A. A. U. junior 400 meter championship last year in :47.7. Shropshire took first place in the west coast relays this spring in 48 seconds, which is the best mark of all 440 yard men in the National collegiates.

Harris Never Beaten.

Elmore Harris of Morgan State is another quarter miler who cannot be overlooked Saturday. Harris never has been beaten at this distance altho his best time is only :48.4. As a member of the Morgan State mile relay team, with advantage of a running start, he has clipped four-tenths of a second from the above time.

The quarter mile is one of Illinois' best events and if the Illini are to take the team championship, as is predicted, Dick Young and Marce Gonzalez must finish in the six scoring positions. If either is blanked, and if Kelley fails to take first place, Illinois conceivably may not have an easy time in piling up the largest point total.

Illinois Hurdlers Challenged.

Dave Nichols and Bob Ruther, Illinois hurdlers, also will have better competition than they have faced recently since Harold Fisher of Miami university, Oxford, O., is entered in the National Collegiates. Fisher won the 120 yard high hurdle race at the Drake relays last April and his mark of 15 seconds indicates equality, at least, with the Illinois men. Fisher's best time in the low hurdles this year is :23.8.

Fisher may be the athlete to stop Buddy Young, Illinois sprinter, from winning four national titles. Young hopes to take the low hurdles and broad jump as well as the two dashes.

Bangert Weight Favorite.

The University of Missouri has an exceptional weight man in Bill Bangert, who threatens in both the shot put and the discus. Bangert's best distance with the 16 pound shot, a 49 foot put in a meet with Iowa Pre-Flight, is better than the best by Nelson Klaus of Purdue, Western conference and Central Collegiate champion.

Bangert probably is better in the discus than in the shotput.

The number of qualifying trials Saturday afternoon depends on the field in each event. Trials are certain in the sprints and hurdles, however, and probably must be held in the quarter mile.

HACK'S DECISION TO RETURN FAILS TO EXCITE CUBS

Cubs Sign Schalk

RAY SCHALK, one of the greatest catchers of all time, yesterday signed as a scout for the Chicago Cubs.

Schalk, who started his major league career with the Chicago White Sox in 1912, managed the team in 1927 and 1928. He was the White Sox regular catcher for 15 years, playing in 100 games or more in each of 12 seasons.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, N. Y., June 6.—The Cubs, who should be grateful for anything that might hurry their release from the cellar, didn't seem unduly excited today when told that Stan Hack, Old Junior, we call him, had decided to come on from his west coast ranch and attempt to give them some assistance.

Even Boss Charley Grimm, who now is willing to grab at straws and will be chasing butterflies before long unless there is a marked pickup in business, didn't wax hilarious over the impending return of the veteran. Grimm conceded that Hack's comeback is just one of those things.

It All Depends on Hack.

It all depends on just what sort of physical shape Old Junior has kept himself in since he put away his uniform last fall. If he is in good trim he can get in there quickly and try to help. Either way, Grimm will be glad to see his one time infield companion if for no other reason that Stan's mere presence might give the other boys a lift.

Hack, who no longer is in the age range at which ball players can remain at their peak, slowed considerably as a third base defender last season and there's no reason to think that he will have perked up in this respect as the result of his layoff. But he should remain a pretty handy fellow with the bat and that will help.

In Old Leadoff Spot.

As soon as he is ready Hack will undoubtedly be restored to his old leadoff spot in the batting order. The oftener Hack can get on base, the oftener it will provide Bill Nicholson with a chance to clean up, that is if Bill ever emerges from his present feeble status.

Ed Hanyzewski, who in advance had been figured on as the best possibility for pacing the pitching staff, revealed today that his return to action might be delayed considerably. He suffered a pulled elbow muscle several weeks ago and thought he'd be back on the mound long before this. A local expert looked at the arm and gave as his opinion that another month might elapse before nature can complete the needed repairs.

Wyse to Face Pirates.

If the doctor is not too pessimistic that's as tough a blow as the eighth placers could suffer because it hits them where, even at their best, they are the weakest.

The latest is that the Cubs, after doing another exhibition act tomorrow at Camp Kilmer, will leave at midnight for Pittsburgh where they'll be able to resume with their league schedule. Grimm has delegated Hank Wyse for the pitching job in Thursday's opener against the Pirates.

CUBS BEAT SOLDIERS

Camp Shanks, N. Y., June 6 (AP).—The Chicago Cubs defeated the Camp Shanks nine, 5 to 2, in a D day exhibition game today before a crowd of soldiers and WACs.

Johnny Miklos, rookie Cub pitcher, struck out 11 soldiers while yielding seven hits. Louis Works and Jack Best, who divided the pitching duties for Camp Shanks, held the Cubs to four singles and four doubles, two by Bill Nicholson. Score:

Chicago ....101 012 000—5 8 2
Camp Shanks ......000 002 000—2 7 5

Batteries—Miklos and Kreitner, Easterwood; Works, Best and Sader.

Ask Again Tomorrow—

If your dealer does not have El Producto today, ask again tomorrow. The quality cigar shortage is acute but we are trying hard to distribute El Producto fairly so that no dealer is ever out of El Producto for long.

NATURALLY the heaviest demand is for the finest quality. This may answer the question as to why El Producto is out of stock more frequently than any other popular brand.

El Producto's real enjoyment comes from quality—and we will never roll back that quality. We have the armed forces to consider, too. So be patient if sometimes your dealer does not have the El Producto you want for real enjoyment.

INDUSTRY SHIFT HINGES ON NEW DRIVE'S NEEDS

First Few Days Hold Key to Conversion.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The signal to industry to prepare for the shift from war to peace time operation awaits the outcome of the allied invasion of western Europe. Industry's plans for months to come hinge on the progress that is made by the allies in the next few days.

Plans for the changeover of large sections of industry to peace production have been delayed for months pending the critical moment of the invasion's start. Civilian agencies of the government that have been pressing for more rapid conversion of industry have made no substantial headway because military leaders have felt that such plans should be put off until the big military test of the war was under way.

Insist on Learning Needs.

The military leaders have insisted that materials and man power must be conserved until the course of the invasion has demonstrated what will be needed most by the allied armies in the weeks to come.

Whether factories now engaged in war production may again soon resume the manufacture of such civilian products as automobiles, electric ranges, mechanical refrigerators, and radios will depend more on the developments in Europe than the deliberation of Washington officials, it is believed.

If the invasion goes well industry is prepared for wholesale cutbacks and cancellations of war orders. This does not mean that war production will end suddenly, but as the probable course of the European war becomes clearer the military agencies will know more definitely their future needs. Some factories may be released completely from war production in the next few months. Others will not be relieved of their military assignments until the final shot is fired in the war.

Would Extend Changeover.

If, as has been generally assumed, the Pacific war outlasts the European war by many months, or years, the changeover of industry will be stretched over a long period, lessening the impact of sudden wholesale cancellation of war contracts.

When the cutbacks and cancellations come they will affect with greatest force such industries as aircraft, shipbuilding, chemical, steel, and machinery. Those industries in which immediate expansion is expected when war controls are lifted include construction and trade. The automobile industry, on which the livelihood of every fifth American is dependent in one way or another, is expected to attain a level of operation exceeding that in the pre-war period. Such expansion from prewar levels, however, will not enable auto makers to provide jobs for all people now employed in the industry's war production.

PUT 30 MILLION OF ALLEGHANY NOTES ON SALE

A 30 million dollar issue of Alleghany corporation 3¼ per cent secured convertible notes, due April 15, 1954, will be offered publicly today by a large underwriting group headed by Dillon, Read and company, and Hemphill, Noyes and company, at 102.15. Pledged as collateral are 1,100,000 shares of Chesapeake and Ohio railway common stock owned by Alleghany. Each $1,000 note is convertible into 20 shares of C. & O. stock.

Proceeds will be used with other funds to redeem Alleghany's $21,661,000 of 5 per cent bonds, due in 1949, and $18,036,000 of 5s due in 1950.

Lehman Brothers is making a public offering of 113,333⅓ shares of National Airlines, Inc., $1 par value common stock at $13.75 a share. Proceeds will be used for expansion, including the establishment of a new route from Jacksonville, Fla., to New York City.

R-K-O FORMS NEW TELEVISION UNIT TO SELL TALENT

New York, June 6 (AP).—Formation of a new subsidiary to supply television broadcasting stations with both filmed and live talent programs was announced today by N. Peter Rathvon, president of Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation. To be known as RKO Television corporation, it will have its headquarters in New York and will be headed by Rathvon.

He predicted that motion picture techniques may play a greater part than existing radio techniques in making televised programs successful and that films will be used in television to a greater degree than electrical transcriptions are used in radio broadcasting.

Expect Much Improvement in Future Car

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., June 6.—Great improvements in post-war automobiles are being projected for production starting three to five years after peace comes, engineers attending a meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers said today. In the years immediately after the war the automobiles will be largely the 1942 models with such improvements as can be incorporated without delaying production.

The engineers are doing a lot of talking among themselves in preparation for the time when their ideas are transferred to blueprints.

Processes Made Flexible.

The experts agree that the automobile industry has learned much from the aviation industry during the war. One thing is flexibility of the manufacturing process which makes possible changes and improvements as production proceeds. Another is means in obtaining more precision in the manufacture of certain parts.

Among the things the engineers are talking about are air cooling, changes in the location of the engine in the car, and use of improved materials.

Use of air cooled aviation engines in tanks was said to have induced thinking among some engineers as to the feasibility of such cooling for future automobiles. They explained that air cooling would save weight and would eliminate cooling mechanism, giving more simplicity. Air cooling is not new, but new materials will make it more practicable now.

Discuss Improved Steels.

One engineer discussed the advisability of building the engine and rear axle in one piece. Location of the engine at the rear or under the seat was mentioned, altho the main objection continues to be that people wish for psychological reasons to have the engine in front of them. Improved steels which will give longer life to bearings and other wearing parts are being discussed.

Plastic bodies are forgotten for the time being, pending further development of plastics, it was said. More aluminum will be used. Use of hydraulic transmission will likely be extended. There will be an increase of a few ratings in octanes in gasoline, but not so many as have been predicted, it was said.

CHICAGO STOCK MARKET PROFIT AT SIX YEAR LOW

The Chicago Stock exchange yesterday reported net income of $40,680 in the fiscal year ended April 30, compared with $59,581 in the preceding year. It was the smallest profit since 1938.

Operating income increased to $113,211 from $85,595, and other income to $19,566 from $7,164. Operating expenses totaled $173,457, compared with $152,341. Net worth of the general fund of the exchange amounted to $1,306,437 at the close of the fiscal year, largely in cash and United States government bonds.

Kenneth L. Smith, president, said the newly adopted fees based on net commissions were in effect for only 10 months of the year. For the current year dues and various fees have been increased. The membership base has been broadened by admission of eight firms, including four corporations, Smith said.

GRAINS SWEEP HIGHER AFTER EARLY DECLINE

Heavy Selling Fails to Develop.

Grain prices slumped as much as 1½ cents a bushel in early trading yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade on scattered liquidation brought about by the allied invasion of France, but soon rallied. Heavy selling failed to develop and the upturn carried wheat 2 to 2½ cents, oats 1¼ to 1⅜ cents, and rye 3 to 3⅝ cents above the low time.

At the close wheat prices showed a net gain of 1⅜ to 2 cents, oats ⅝ to 1¼ cents, rye 2⅛ to 2½ cents, and barley ¼ to ½ cent.

Depends on Progress.

Whether the invasion will result in higher grain prices was uncertain, much depending on the speed with which various European countries can be freed from German domination to permit free entry of foodstuffs from North America which is expected to supply most of the wheat, meat, and other commodities.

The government was reported in the market for flour for lend-lease, but the extent of purchasing was not disclosed. The government was estimated to have 1 million barrels of flour stored in mills and part of this is expected to be available for European relief operations when they become necessary. There was some buying of rye on the prospect of export business. Strength in the stock market had some effect on wheat and rye prices.

Wheat Outlook Brightens.

The possibility of a shortage of wheat is growing more remote on increased harvesting in the southwest. Receipts of more than 100 cars of new hard winter wheat are expected in Fort Worth, Tex. over the week end.

A forecast of frost in parts of Iowa, Minnesota, and central and northern Wisconsin attracted some attention. Experts, however, said small grain crops were not sufficiently advanced in growth in this area to be seriously damaged, altho the early planted corn could be nipped and give the plant a setback from which it would take a week or 10 days to recover.

COURT UPHOLDS, 2-1, FPC ORDER TO CUT GAS RATE

St. Louis, Mo., June 6 (AP).—The eighth United States Circuit Court of Appeals today affirmed a federal power commission order reducing the rates of the Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line company and its subsidiaries, the Illinois Natural Gas company, and the Michigan Gas Transmission corporation.

The company sought reversal and review of a rate reduction to 6½ per cent on an investment capital of $4,363,925 ordered by the FPC Sept. 23, 1942.

Concurring Judges John B. Sanborn and Joseph W. Woodrough said the FPC should be free from judicial interference in regulating rates of natural gas companies. Judge Walter G. Riddick, who dissented, expressed the opinion the order in effect was a confiscation of company property and exceeded statutory limitations.

Keep Pioneer Spirit, Farley Urges

James A. Farley.

Despite the suggestions of those who have formulas for security and happiness, America's task in the future will be to bear in mind "that the United States was not built on formulas; it was built upon the individual," James A. Farley, former chairman of the Democratic national committee, said last night. He spoke at the annual banquet of the National Association of Retail Grocers in the Palmer House.

"We shall retain the power that is essential to the maintenance of America's responsibilities in the world only so far as we retain the spirit of the pioneer in each individual American," he asserted. "It is for us to preserve for posterity what our forefathers created for us, a nation of free people, ever helpful to others, but always selfish for the continuance, within our own domain, of the American way of life."

Says Home Gardening Lags.

The grocers earlier heard that consumer demand for canned foods will show a marked increase. G. Sherwin Haxton, president of the National Canners' association, said that because every one has plenty to eat this year home gardening has declined.

"Seed houses tell me that sales for victory garden use are 30 to 50 per cent less than a year ago," he said. "It will be some time before the result will be apparent in your stores, but in time the consumers will have used up this canned surplus and will come to you for more canned foods, thereby increasing your already large demand."

Labor is proving a bottleneck in the supply situation, Haxton said, and will result in a national cutdown of production. He warned the grocers to expect less canned merchandise to distribute than a year ago, particularly if their customers insist on higher grades.

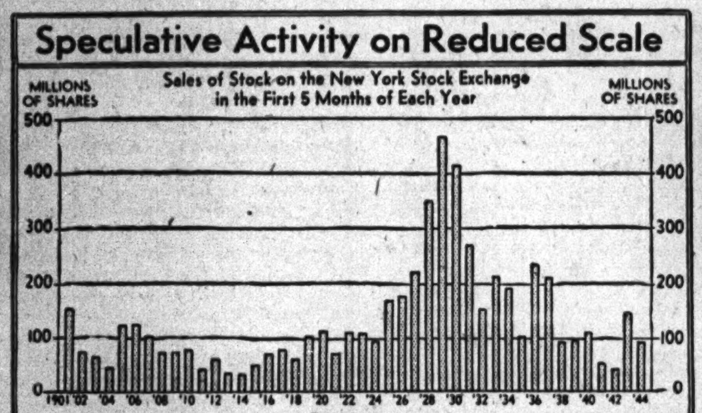
Hits Tax Free Crop Status.

Discussing coöperatives, Haxton attacked their tax free status.

"I believe if there is a way of doing things better and making a richer living for most people, all should see it and be for it; but I do say that you can not continue our democratic form of government and permit one class of business to go tax free and take almost all the taxes from another class," he declared.

Fred Kaminows, of the war production board's office of civilian requirements, said every effort is being made to obtain the essential operating facilities for retail food stores. The outlook for paper bags and wrapping paper, however, is "not very promising," he said.

Speculative Activity on Reduced Scale



Trust Counts Faced by 13 Loan Chains

Washington, D. C., June 6 (AP).—Anti-trust indictments, charging a conspiracy to fix interest rates ranging up to 1,000 per cent, were returned today in San Antonio, Tex., against 13 chains of small loan companies in the south and west.

The Justice department, in announcing the indictment, said the majority of rates ran from 120 to 240 per cent a year. Wendell Berge, assistant attorney general, estimated that under the agreed schedules the defendants in 1943 alone would have received from 90 million to 180 million dollars interest on loans of approximately 75 million dollars.

Named in the indictments, Atty. Gen. Biddle said, are 40 corporations and 75 individuals with more than 400 offices in 23 states from the Carolinas to the Pacific coast.

Two Biggest in South.

The United Operating company, Atlanta, Ga., and the Triangle Securities trust, Nashville, Tenn., are the biggest companies named, having more than 200 offices. The indictment says both are controled by Rufus Dewitt King and John M. Ogden, both of Miami, Fla.

Berge reported that complaints have come mainly from service men in southern camps and from needy family men.

The main indictment, which names only "high rate" companies, charges a conspiracy to create "slush funds" for use in influencing state legislators and city councilmen against regulatory laws. It also charges that the chains employed public officials, including state legislators, as agents to oppose enactment of regulatory laws in states where the high rate small loan chains operate.

The attorney general used the term "high rate" to describe loan companies not operating within specified state small loan statutes.

Charge Territory Conspiracy.

In a second indictment, the grand jury named 11 corporations and 19 individuals as conspiring for a division of territory under which certain states would be reserved for "high rate" loan companies and so-called "legal rate" companies would not seek small loan legislation.

The second indictment, charging division of territory, includes as individual defendants Byrd E. Henderson, Frank B. Hubachek, Charles S. Kelly, Fred B. Snite, and Thomas G. Griffith, all of Chicago. The corporate defendants in that indictment include Household Finance corporation and Local Loan company, both of Chicago.

DENY AGREEMENTS.

B. E. Henderson, president of Household Finance corporation, denied yesterday that his company had any agreements to divide territory with other loan companies. Household Finance has sponsored the uniform small loan law and strict regulation of the small loan business under state supervision, he said. "We are grateful for federal recognition that the uniform small loan law is the cure for the loan shark evil," he added.

Fred B. Snite, president of Local Loan company, asserted his company has "no agreements with anybody on anything." He said he was confident the indictments would be quashed.

BAN CORN, FREE SOFT WHEAT IN MAKING ALCOHOL

Washington, D. C., June 6 (AP).—The WPB today lifted restrictions against the use of soft red winter wheat in industrial alcohol production. WPB told distillers the 1944 crop of such wheat is expected to be approximately 50 to 60 per cent larger than last year's crop of 133 million bushels. The restrictions had been in effect since last August.

At the same time, however, WPB announced that use of corn or grain sorghum in the production of industrial alcohol will not be permitted beginning July 1. The corn shortage prompted this action.

Southern Pacific Profit Falls to 67 Million in 1943

Consolidated net income of the Southern Pacific transportation system for 1943 was $67,133,187, compared with $85,441,394 in 1942.

EXCHANGES SUSPEND TRADING BRIEFLY IN PRAYER FOR INVASION

Trading in many markets was suspended briefly yesterday as operators and employes paused in silent observance of the occasion of the allies' invasion of France.

Chicago Board of Trade operators stood in silent prayer for two minutes at 10 a. m. At 11 a. m., the Chicago Stock exchange recessed for two minutes, and the Chicago Mercantile exchange for one minute. The same ceremony was observed by 10,000 employes of the Chicago plant of Swift & Co. at the stock-yards.

In New York, members and employes of the Curb exchange recited a short prayer for the success of the invasion. The stock exchange there paused in silent prayer for two minutes, and the news services of Dow Jones & Co. were halted for one minute.

Big Refunding Is Planned by Peoples Gas

Peoples Gas Light and Coke company yesterday asked the Illinois commerce commission for authority to sell 20 million dollars of first and refunding mortgage 3 per cent bonds to eight life insurance companies at par. The bonds, to be known as series G, would mature June 15, 1961.

The proceeds, together with other corporate funds, will be used to retire $20,836,000 of outstanding 5 per cent refunding mortgage bonds on or before maturity on Sept. 1, 1947, George A. Ranney, chairman, announced. The funds will be deposited for that purpose with the trustee of the refunding mortgage.

Offers to Buy at Premium.

The company will offer to purchase the 5 per cent bonds at any time prior to Sept. 1, 1944, at a premium of $118 per $1,000 bond, plus accrued interest. The bonds are noncallable, and their presentation for redemption prior to maturity will be voluntary. The company's statement said that the premium offered "will be the equivalent of slightly in excess of a 1 per cent yield basis as of next Sept. 1." That is, a 5 per cent bond purchased at a price of 111.80 three years from maturity at par would yield that amount on an amortization basis.

Ranney said the proposed offer would permit holders of the 1947 issue to obtain cash during the period of the fifth war loan drive.

Some Duplication of Interest.

Since the new bonds would be outstanding simultaneously with part or all of the bonds to be redeemed until the latter mature unless they are presented earlier for payment, there will be some duplicate interest charge. However, Ranney asserted, "even if the present high excess profits tax rates of 95 per cent should be reduced to the level of the present normal and surtax rates, 40 per cent, during the next three years, the aggregate earnings of the company for the period between now and 1948 will not be appreciably affected by the duplicate interest."

On retirement of the refunding 5s, the company's funded debt will total $61,864,000, a reduction of $30,913,100 since the end of 1932.

The company plans to retire at maturity on Nov. 1, 1947, $4,864,000 Mutual Fuel Gas first mortgage 5s, from treasury funds.

IOWA COMPANY HIKES DIVIDEND AND PAYS EXTRA

LaPlante-Choate Manufacturing company, Cedar Rapids, Ia., increased the regular quarterly dividend on common stock yesterday to 20 cents a share and declared an extra dividend of 10 cents on the common stock.

American International corporation decreased its dividend to 20 cents on common stock. Payments last year were 25 cents.

FIRE INSURANCE RATE METHODS TO BE RETAINED

State Law Governs Bureau Activity.

Present methods of determining fire insurance premium rates in Illinois thru a joint bureau will continue in effect, with no immediate changes in operation resulting from the United States Supreme court's decision on Monday holding the insurance business subject to federal anti-trust laws. This statement was made yesterday by Robert A. Parker, manager of the Cook county inspection bureau, the rate making organization, and W. W. Hamilton, manager of the Chicago board of underwriters.

"We are amenable to the state law under which the inspection bureau performs its rate fixing functions," said Parker. "Our organization necessarily will continue to be governed by the Illinois statute. If congress later should pass legislation to regulate our business in a different manner, then we should have a new situation to deal with.

No Change Required.

"No action regarding premium rates seems to be required of fire insurance companies in this state by reason of the court's stand," said Hamilton. "There is nothing for the insurance companies to do as a result of it but await possible legislation by congress to clarify any conflict between federal and state requirements."

H. A. Behrens, chairman of Continental Casualty company, in a letter to the company's field and office associates, said "My personal feeling is that if and when congress passes a federal insurance regulatory law it will be one which will still further increase the confidence the insuring public has in insurance and in insurance institutions."

He added that "it is difficult and useless" to speculate on to what extent the terms of such a law might supplement the regulatory laws of the states.

Canada Has Dual Control.

In Canada, Behrens said, the insurance laws of the provinces are supplemented by a dominion law, "and this combined regulatory machinery on the whole has worked out satisfactorily." Any new United States law regulating insurance, he said, should be kept "as simple as possible in order to minimize the operating cost which ultimately must be taken out of policyholders' premiums."

Brokers specializing in insurance stocks in the unlisted market said that reaction of prices to the Supreme court decision has been slight. There were fairly general declines in bids and offers for such securities yesterday but these were described as fractional in most instances.

People and Events

Presentation of the award of the Chicago Sales Executives' club to the Zenith Radio corporation for its sales, distribution, and sales promotion accomplishments will be made today at the ninth annual meeting of the National Federation of Sales Executives in the Edgewater Beach hotel. Among the convention speakers is Maury Maverick, chairman of the Smaller War Plants corporation.

Walter Evans, vice president in charge of Westinghouse radio activities, announced yesterday the appointment of Harold B. Donley as manager of the Westinghouse radio receiver division, which will manufacture and market home radio receivers as soon as they can be made again. Donley was general appliance manager for Westinghouse Electric Supply company.

A. D. Grote, vice president of Illinois Bell Telephone company, was elected president of the Chicago section of the Controlers Institute of America. Raymond A. Pascoe, Whiting corporation, was named vice president. Wm. D. Edwards, A. B. Dick company, and Glenn Moor, Automatic Canteen company, were elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

Lt. Col. Nelson S. Talbott of Chicago, who took over the Hummer Manufacturing company, a Montgomery Ward & Co. subsidiary at Springfield, Ill., for the army May 21, has been promoted to colonel, the Chicago headquarters of the army air forces material command announced yesterday.

Standard Oil Anti-Cartel Group Loses

Ralph W. Gallagher.

Flemington, N. J., June 6 (AP).—Stockholders of Standard Oil company [N.J.] today declined for the third consecutive year to restrict their company's operations by a prohibition against foreign production and marketing agreements. The vote was heavily against an "anti-cartel" resolution proposed by a minority stockholder.

More than 300 stockholders, most of them owners of only a few of the 27 million shares outstanding, attended the annual meeting in the Grand View Grange hall of this rural village and ate—on the company—a luncheon prepared by the Grange ladies.

Vote's Result Expected.

The outcome of the anti-cartel vote was expected as were the vociferous complaints of minority stockholders about the practice of choosing directors from top management and having these directors select company auditors.

Approved, after fewer objections, was the merger into the parent company of two subsidiaries, Pan Foreign corporation, and Lago Petroleum corporation.

Heckling was widespread at the three hour meeting. Minority stockholders James Fuller and William Floyd II. heckled the management and were in turn heckled by procompany stockholders.

Fuller was interrupted often altho Ralph W. Gallagher, company president, gaveled down objectors. Floyd occasionally was outshouted by cries such as "Sit down," and "Nuts," and a chorus of boos marked the conclusion of his statement offering the anti-cartel resolution.

Defends Standard's Policies.

James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, made his perennial defense of Standard's policies and the need for freedom of action abroad. Gallagher, who also defended the management's position, was embarrassed by one ardent supporter who declared with enthusiasm that "Cartels aren't so bad. They're the new post-war way of doing business."

Gallagher said consolidated net earnings in the first half of this year would approximate 70 million dollars, compared with 48 millions, of $1.76 a share, a year earlier. The higher earnings were the result of record operations in the 1944 period, he said.

CHICAGO YARDS CROWDED AGAIN BY UNSOLD HOGS

The second largest number of unsold hogs in four months remained in the Chicago stock yards yesterday after farmers had unloaded far more stock than packers could slaughter. It was estimated that about 19,000 head, most of them "government weights," were held over for today's market. Prices were steady.

Receipts of 28,000 hogs, including directs to packers, were augmented by 13,000 left from Monday's arrivals, making the total supply available 41,000, almost double the volume packers are able to slaughter.

Despite the sudden cool spell which reduced the water-fills the demand for cattle was narrower and prices ruled steady to 25 cents lower in most classes. The scant supply of sheep and lambs sold steady.

'PEACE STOCKS' PUSH UPWARD IN HEAVY TRADE

Autos Prominent; Some Rails Dip.

New York, June 6 (AP).—The stock market was well prepared for the big invasion news today and stocks, particularly motors and other industrials with good peace prospects, pushed higher in the fastest session since last November. Turnover was 1,787,760 shares.

Selling appeared early, but bidders soon became active and, with automotive favorites turning over in blocks of 1,000 to 5,000, gains at the top ranged from fractions to more than a point, with many reaching peaks for the year or longer. Some profit cashing trimmed quotations in most cases at the close. Scattered rails, aircrafts, and liquors ended lower.

Optimism Revives Demand.

Belief that the all-out thrust at axis Europe meant victory may come quicker than expected served to revive specialized investments.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 0.2 at 53.1, with the rail composite down 0.1. Issues traded totaled 935, with 404 up, 336 down, and 195 unchanged.

At highs for 1944 were General Motors, Chrysler, Packard, Studebaker, Nash-Kelvinator, International Telephone, and du Pont. Finishing higher were United States Steel, Bethlehem, Union Pacific, Pepsi-Cola, Radio corporation, Dow Chemical, American Can, American Telephone, Goodyear, Goodrich, International Harvester, Eastern Air Lines, American Airlines, and Pan American Airways.

Park & Tilford dropped 8½ points. Off a point or more were Schenley, Douglas Aircraft, and Great Northern.

Trading on the curb rose to 269,935 shares from 224,365 yesterday.

BONDS ARE UNEVEN.

New York, June 6 (AP).—Strong cross-currents prevailed in today's bond market, reflecting both misgivings and hopes aroused by the allied invasion of Europe.

Railroad issues averaged fractions to more than a point lower. A group of foreign dollar bonds rose sharply as prospects brightened for many European captive states and cities. United States government loans held almost stationary. Antwerp 5s rose 4¾ points.

Trading was light in the early stages of the session but broadened later, and sales amounted to $12,642,800, compared with $8,529,000 Monday. The Associated Press average of 20 rails dropped .7 of a point, the widest loss in all groups.

CHICAGO LIST MIXED.

Prices were mixed in an increased turnover of 50,000 shares yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. Part of the volume resulted from the exchange's second special offering in which 3,000 shares of Truss Athey Wheel were oversubscribed by 220 shares at 6¾. A special commission to brokers of 35 cents per share was paid. New 1944 peaks were set by Chrysler, up 1, and Hupp Motor Car and Monroe Chemical, up ⅛.

LOAN COMPANY'S ACTIVITY CHANGE BOOSTS INCOME

Domestic Industries, Inc., Chicago, yesterday reported increased profits in its fiscal year ended March 31 as a result of its acquisition and operation of manufacturing and engineering units to supplement its principal pre-war business of personal finance, which has steadily decreased since 1941.

Leslie E. Mickle, executive vice president, in the annual report to stockholders announced consolidated net income was $541,042, equal to 40 cents a share, compared with $398,732, or 2 cents a share, in the preceding fiscal year.

Divisions Take Over Operations.

Operations of the companies acquired are being carried on by the Service Caster and Truck division of Domestic, with manufacturing plants in Albion, Mich., and Boston, Mass.; by the Siewek Tool division, Detroit, and the Siewek Engineering division with offices in Hartford, Conn., Springfield, Mass., and Chicago.

Mickle predicted the company's sales of lift trucks and tractors, used in the handling of materials inside and outside plants of all kinds, would expand in the post-war period. Industrial companies will continue to mechanize and will purchase labor saving devices to cut costs, he said.

War time regulations and other factors have curtailed the volume of business and profits in the personal finance field, he said. However, he indicated that a low point had been reached.

FORMER STATE OFFICER SAYS HE TOOK BRIBE

Murphy Gives Self Up in Michigan.

Lansing, Mich., June 6 [Special]. — Frank Murphy, Detroit Democratic lieutenant governor in 1941-'42, surrendered today to a grand jury warrant charging him with graft conspiracy and declared his intention of pleading guilty to the charge when arraigned in Ingham county Circuit court tomorrow before Judge Leland W. Carr.

The former state official, who is no relation to the United States Supreme court justice of the same name, waived examination and was placed under $2,500 bond by Judge Carr. He stood mute during arraignment but told newsmen of his plan to enter a guilty plea and "take my medicine." He admitted having received $2,500 from distillery interests for assisting them in gaining passage of a 1941 law reducing the distillery license fee from $5,000 to $1,000 annually, and declared he paid $500 each to two state senators whom he refused to identify. He has indicated a wish to return the bribe money in order to clear his conscience.

Goes to Lansing Alone.

Murphy came to Lansing unaccompanied after having been notified by state police Saturday of his indictment along with four distillery executives and two distillery corporations they represent. None of his co-defendants has made an appearance. They are Emanuel Rosenthal, president, and Charles Layton, sales manager, of the Mohawk Liqueur corporation and Abe H. Weinstein, president, and Samuel L. Schreirer, secretary-treasurer of the Arrow Liqueur corporation, all of Detroit.

Arraignment of Murphy under the third mass warrant returned by Judge Carr's grand jury investigating state affairs followed a hearing thruout the day before Judge John Simpson of Jackson Circuit court on a dozen motions filed by defendants in the grand jury's original indictment of 26 finance company executives and legislators and former legislators charged with conspiring to control by corruption the form of finance company and small loan regulatory legislation in 1939.

May Appeal Motion.

Judge Simpson took two of the motions under advisement and denied the rest, including contention that the act permitting one man grand jury investigations is unconstitutional. Walter M. Nelson, Detroit, of defense counsel, asked permission to argue the issue of constitutionality fully, hinting that he would appeal the matter to the Supreme court immediately, perhaps bringing about a postponement of the trial of 23 of the 26 defendants, scheduled to open before Judge Simpson in Circuit at Mason June 12. Whether the trial would be deferred depends on the nature of the higher court's order if an appeal is taken.

Judge Simpson took under advisement a motion to quash the warrant as it relates to the five finance company executives named in the conspiracy and another motion that Wayne Otis, Lansing small loan company executive, be indorsed as a prosecution witness altho Kim Sigler, special grand jury prosecutor, struck him from the witness list during a preliminary hearing declaring his attitude to be hostile. Nelson, contended the warrant should not have included persons alleged to have given bribes along with those charged with having accepted them. He said the two groups of defendants should be accorded separate trials.

NAZI PRISONERS RECAPTURED ON MICHIGAN ROAD

Marquette, Mich., June 6 [Special.—Three escaped Nazi prisoners of war from Camp Au Train, near Munising, Mich., were recaptured today as they were walking along highway M-28, between Shingelton and Seney, it was announced here by Capt. Ora E. Demaray, in charge of Michigan state police in the upper peninsula.

The three, Karl Theis, 30; Adam Wagner, 25, and Erick Hoessel, 23, were captured by Trooper Harold McCracken of the Newberry police post and Conservation Officer Frank Generou of the Newberry district conservation office. An unidentified person telephoned the Newberry post that he had sighted the trio.

The three escaped Saturday night. Hoessel speaks fluent English. They are the second group of Nazi prisoners to escape from upper peninsula camps. Two others, from Camp Sidnaw, were recaptured the same day they escaped shortly after the camps were established a few weeks ago. Officers in upper Michigan and Wisconsin have been on the alert for the men since Sunday morning, with road blockades established on northern Michigan highways by police.

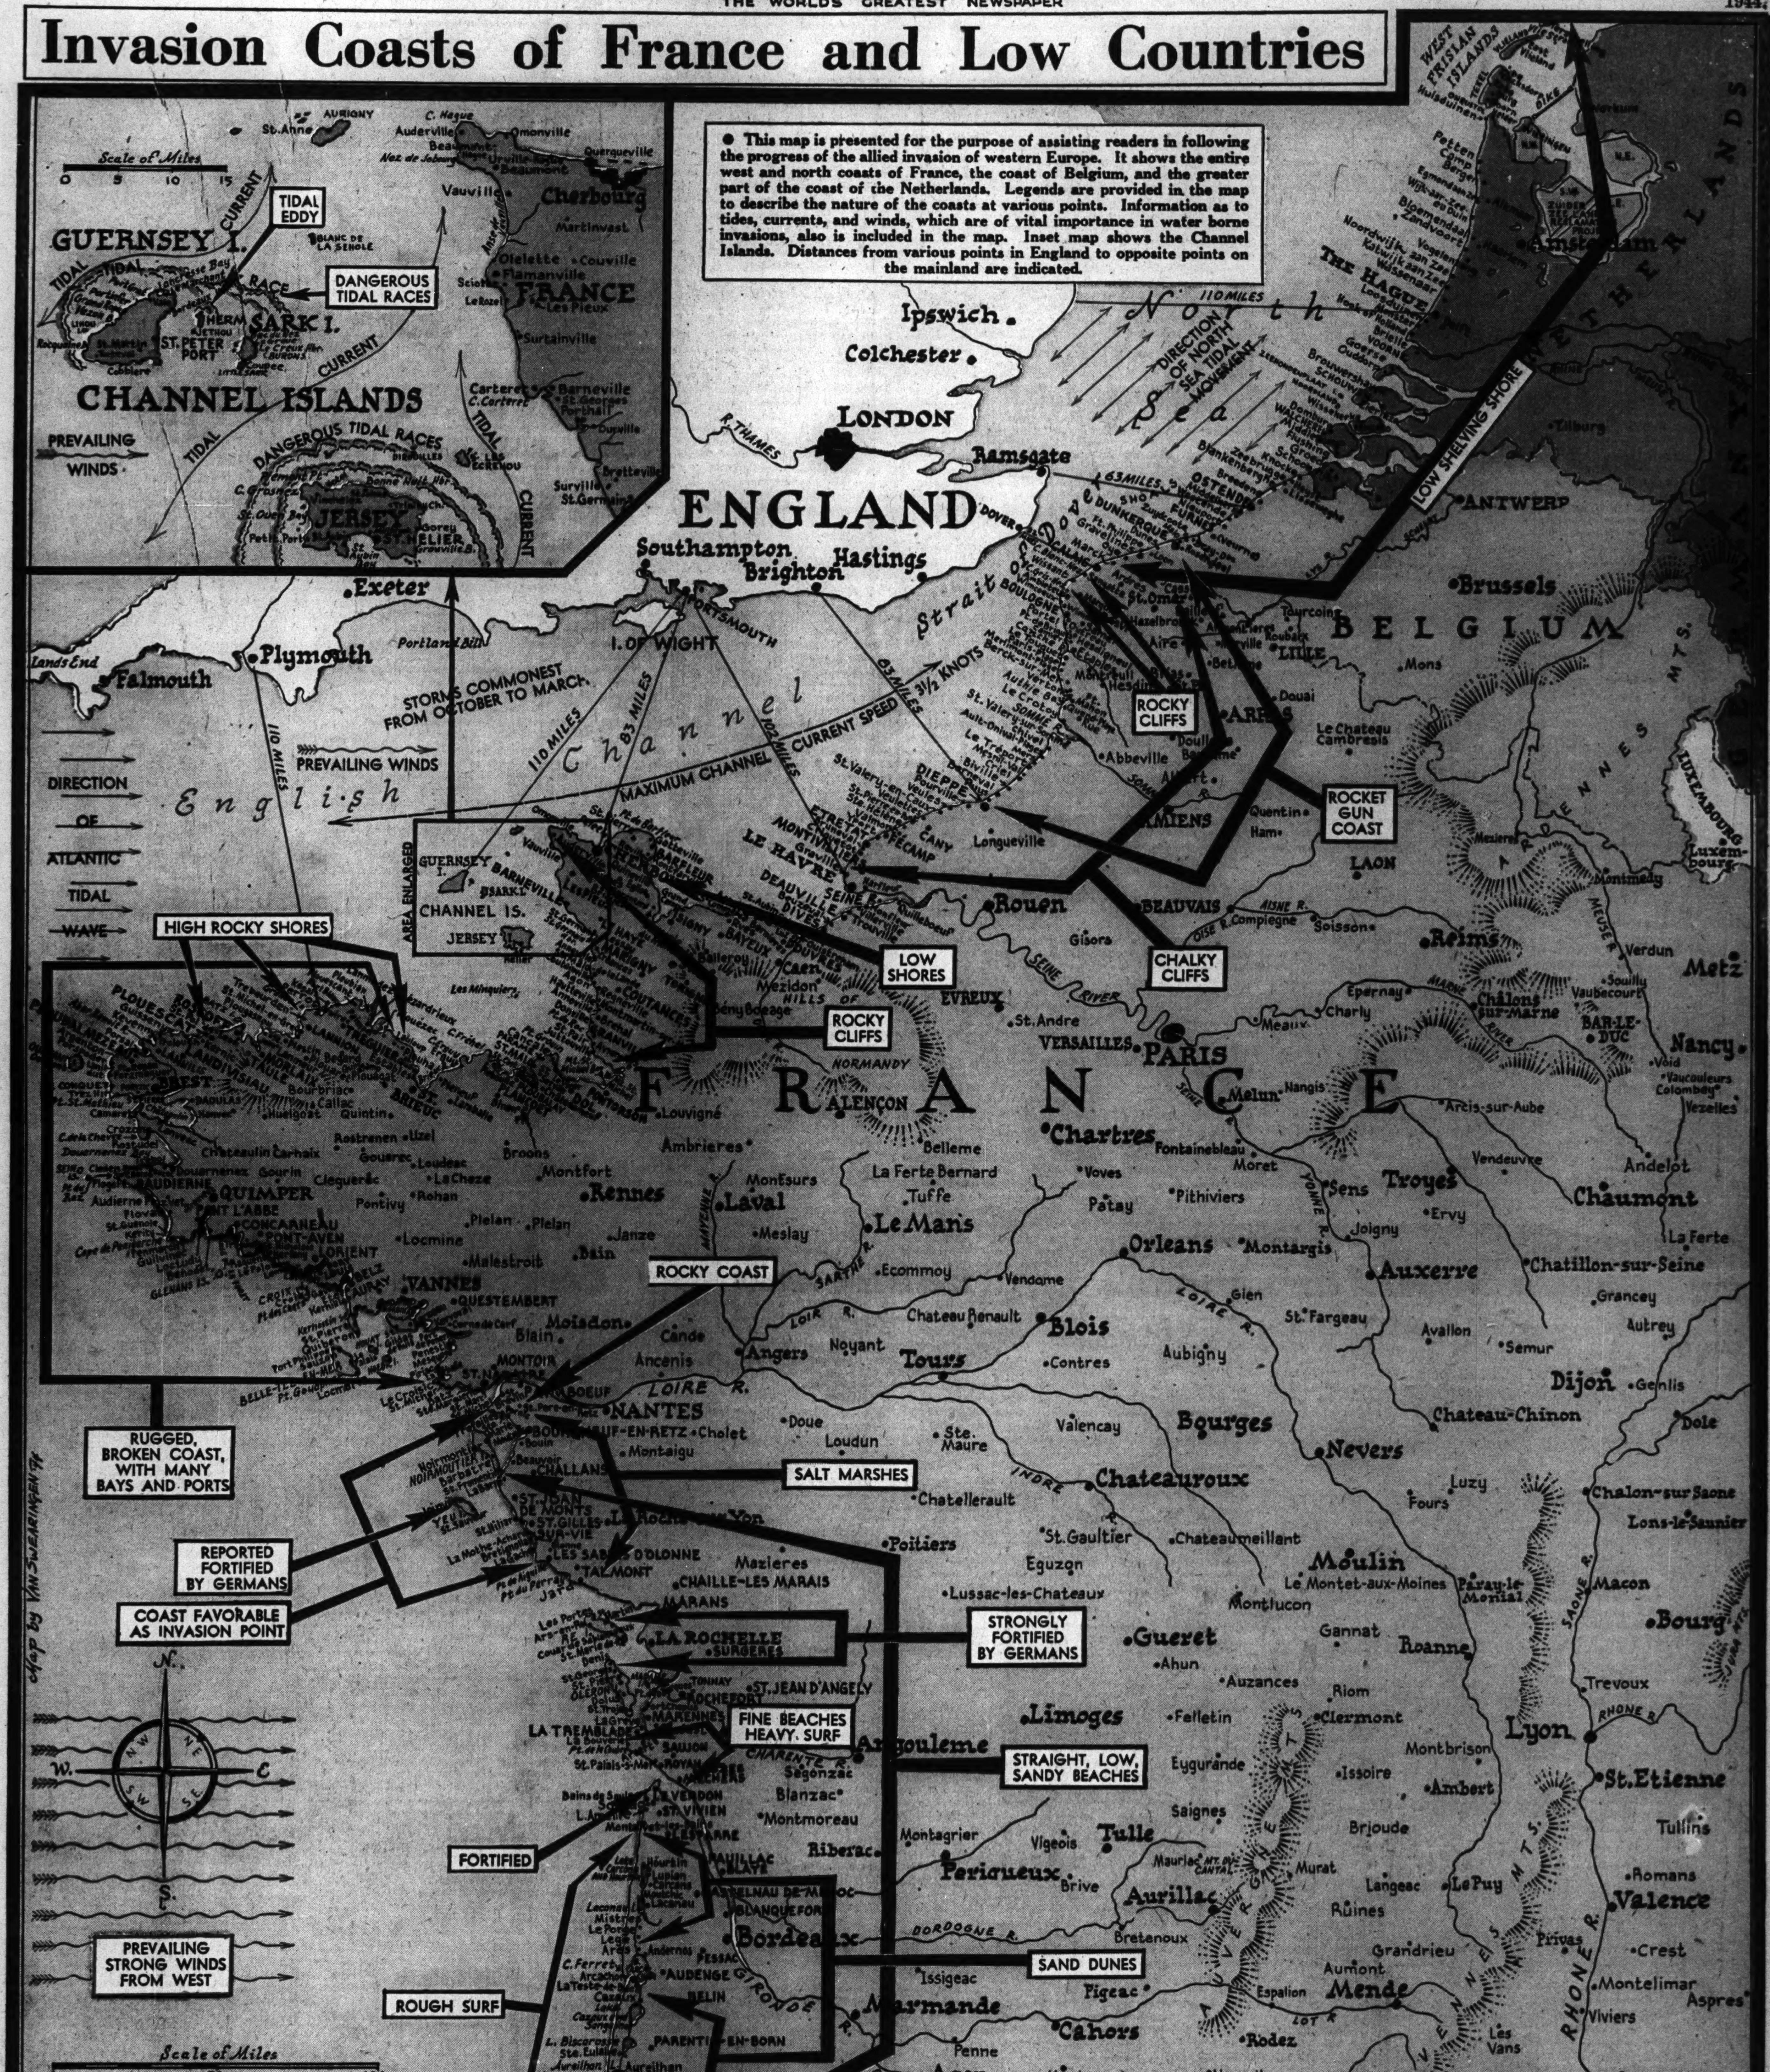
Invasion Coasts of France and Low Countries



● This map is presented for the purpose of assisting readers in following the progress of the allied invasion of western Europe. It shows the entire west and north coasts of France, the coast of Belgium, and the greater part of the coast of the Netherlands. Legends are provided in the map to describe the nature of the coasts at various points. Information as to tides, currents, and winds, which are of vital importance in water borne invasions, also is included in the map. Inset map shows the Channel Islands. Distances from various points in England to opposite points on the mainland are indicated.
